ENDS SOLDIERS' MISSION.

Rev. William J. Stanton of New York Leaves Fort Ethan Allen.

Burlington, Sept. 10.—Rev. William J. Stanton, N. J., of New York, has just closed a mission at Fort Ethan Allen for the Catholic soldiers there.

All of the services were conducted in the new Knights of Columbus building and each attended by hundreds. Fr. Stanton, who is a native of Boston, was stationed at one time at Boston college and has been a priest for 25 years.

In the three-day mission here Fr. Stanton was assisted by priests from St. Michael's college. Before the mission for the soldiers he conducted a retreat for the priests of the diocese at St. Michael's college.

It was through the efforts of Fr. Bernier of St. Michael's, acting chaplain at the Knights of Columbus building, and the military officials that Bishop Rice had Fr. Stanton remain after the priests retreat.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"Nothing But the Truth" Next Tuesday Evening.

Is a farce in the true acceptance of that much abused word and will be given for our local opinion at the opera house next Tuesday evening, Sept. 18.

It is all that the term farce implies—a clean play of amusing scenes and absurdity of complications that sends an audience away from the theatre saturated with laughter. That is its mission, and it made good in New York City—where it enjoyed a laughing career of over a year, and that, too, in the city of many amusements. The only thing serious about this play is its title, for when the truth manifests itself in the efforts of the hero to win a ten thousand dollar wager, mirth and laughter are very much in evidence, and an audience is guilty of creating them both as it watches the honest efforts of the earnest gentleman to add ten thousand dollars to his bank account by the simple way in which he speaks the truth. And he does speak it, and therein lies the complicating effects of the plot. It is difficult to describe in print the absurdity of scenes and situations, the general upsetting and putting away business and domestic life, and no farce has ever been staged so replete with these as "Nothing But the Truth." Anderson and Weber have given the play a cast that is said to fully emphasize all of its mirthful possibilities, and this should afford our local patrons of the theatre, one of the enjoyable evenings of the current season, for it is a funny play—it has proven this by repeated performances, and we are promised a splendid presentation of it here.—adv.

Im going to prescribe Resinol for that eczema

"I might give you a formal prescription, but what's the use? It would cost you more than a jar of Resinol and I shouldn't be nearly as sure of the results! You see, I have been using Resinol Ointment for over twenty years. During that time I have tried out dozens of new ways of treating skin-troubles, but I have always come back to Resinol—I know that it stops itching at once, generally heals the eruption, and that it contains nothing which could irritate the skin. You can get a jar at any drugstore."

MORE FOREST BATTALIONS.

Ten More Have Been Authorized by Government.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The formation of a second "forest" regiment comprising ten battalions and composed of lumbermen and woodworkers, who will go to France and get out of the forests materials for the use of the American, French and British armies, has been authorized by the war department, it was announced to-day.

Two battalions are to be raised at once with the active aid of the forest service, of the department of agriculture. It is expected that the remaining eight battalions will be called for in a short time. Nine "service" battalions, made up of laborers who will be used in connection with the Forest regiment, have also been authorized and two battalions have been ordered raised at once.

In order to provide for future contingencies it has been decided to commission at the present time officers for other battalions yet to be raised. Those men needed now will be placed on the reserve, and will be called as the other units are formed. According to the present plan, fifty per cent of the officers will be sawmill and logging operators, twenty-five per cent will be technical foresters, and twenty-five per cent will be men with military training. A number of the graduates of the engineer camps have been selected for service with the new units.

A considerable number of captains and lieutenants is to be selected in the immediate future. The minimum age limit for commissioned officers has been set at 31.

A first regiment of woodsmen numbering about 1,200 men and designated as the Tenth Engineer (Forest) regiment has already been recruited and assembled and is now being trained at American university, D. C. This regiment was raised at the request of the British government to undertake the production in France of cross-ties, bridge, trench, and construction timbers, mine props, lumber, and other forms of wood required in connection with its military operations. The landing of the American expeditionary forces has made necessary similar provision for their needs, while the French military authorities have indicated that some of the work incidental to their operations might be taken over by woodsmen from this country. Decision to raise the new and much larger force has followed a study of the field of possible usefulness to the allied cause, made by American foresters attached to Gen. Pershing's staff.

Each of the ten battalions of the second regiment will comprise three companies of 250 men each, and will be under the command of its own major.

The regiment will be made up of volunteers. Applicants must be white and between the ages of 18 and 40. Skilled lumberjacks, portable mill operators, cutters, logging teamsters, camp cooks, millwrights, and chaf coal burners are among the classes of men desired.

For the "service" battalions both negro and white laborers will be enlisted.

TWO MILLION SOLDIERS

This Country's Greatest Potential Factor in the World War.

The probability that the second draft will be made early next year and that 750,000 additional men will be drawn into the military service is significant of the fact that America is going into the war up to the hilt.

Industry, man power and capital have been drafted for the war. The whole world knew that America would be effective in adding to the financial and industrial and food resources of the nations associated in the war against the German government, but there was some doubt as to the extent of the participation so far as man power is concerned.

That doubt has been removed by the vigor with which the United States government has proceeded in raising a national army. It was no mere bravado that inspired the adoption of the conscription law. The public has been quietly in earnest from the beginning, and the government is preparing for an army of at least 2,000,000 men in carrying out the will of the majority as well as the judgment of the military experts.

Twenty-six thousand new but well-trained and competent officers have been provided for the army, which in a few weeks will be under training in the cantonments. At least 20,000 more will be provided in the second camps. There will be plenty of officers for the training of the new increment of 750,000 men announced for January.

It was a stupendous task that faced the military authorities of the United States at the beginning of the war. The size of the regular army was insignificant. There was a dearth of officers. Germany gleefully insisted that it would be impossible to provide officers, equipment and supplies for a large army in the United States. Even conscription, the German government argued, meant merely a paper army.

To-day this country stands as the greatest potential factor in the world war, and its preparations bring the day of victory closer to hand.—Washington Post.
