No matter how efficient a man may be, if he has an ugly skin eruption, there are positions in which he cannot be tolerated. He may know that it is not in the least contagious, but other people are afraid, they avoid him, and he must make way for a man with a clear, healthy skin. Why run this risk, when

The Robinson-Lewis Wedding Was Notable Occurrence.

A very pretty and enjoyable event occurred Wednesday forenoon at the Methodist church when Marshall George Robinson and Miss Annie Louise Lewis were joined in marriage by Rev. P. A. Smith. The day was an ideal one and a large number were in attendance to witness the nuptials. Promptly at 10 o'clock, to the strains of the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," by Wagner, the bride passed down the main aisle on the arm of her father, Rev. F. W. Lewis, who gave her in marriage. They were preceded by the ushers, the matron of honor, Mrs. Dale S. Atwood and the flower girl, little 4-year-old Lois Brown of St. Albans. The bridal party were met at the altar by the groom and his attendant, W. N. Smith, and the officiating clergyman. The double ring service was used in connection with the ritualistic service. "O Promise Me" was softly rendered by the orchestra during the ceremony and "Narcissus" was played for the recessional.

Immediately following the service a reception was held in the vestry. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served, the table being in charge of Misses Mary Hall, Elsa Leavenworth, Josephine Frost, Linnie Johnson and Nellie Knox. Relatives and friends from a distance partook of a wedding lunch at the parsonage at noon. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, goldenrod and evergreen, a bank of the autumnal foliage extending the entire length of the altar rail, screening the orchestra. The bride's gown was white crepe de chine and georgette crepe; the bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The matron of honor carried yellow roses, and the flower girl a basket of white flowers. Music was furnished by the Misses French and Miss Eunice McGilvery of St. Johnsbury, piano, violin and cello. The ushers were Grover Smith, Dr. Dale S. Atwood of St. Johnsbury, Burton Brown of Groton and Carl Atwood of Greenfield, Mass. The happy couple left at 2:30 on an automobile trip of two weeks throughout Vermont. They will be at home to their friends after Nov. 1 at Brookside farm, the home of Mr. Robinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Robinson. The wedding gifts were numerous and very beautiful, consisting largely of silver, linen, cut glass and framed pictures. Those here from out of town were Dr. and Mrs. D. S. Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Atwood, Grover Smith, St. Johnsbury; Mr. and Mrs. W. N.
