MONTPELIER

Shady Hill Farmers Protest Against Wood Underselling by City.

A delegation composed of E. C. Maxham, Arthur Maxham, Fred Hills and Mr. Cummings of Shady Hill, representing the grange in that section, appeared before the city council at its session Wednesday evening, urging that the city charge more for the wood being cut on its property near Berlin pond than had been stated in the papers, namely at cost, probably about $7 a cord. Arthur Maxham gave some figures expressing his opinion as to how much the city should get for the wood, namely, $3.30 for stumpage, $5 for getting it to the road and $5 for drawing, if on wheels, or $13.80 a cord for wood. Then he took another manner of figuring it, based upon the coal profits, whereby the farmers should get $11.70 a cord for dry wood. He expressed the belief that Montpelier had been very independent about the matter. Mr. Cummings read from The Homestead figures ranging from $7 to $16 a cord for wood. All talked on the shortage of help, high price of flour and feed, high prices paid for help and simpered their subject down, as expressed by E. C. Maxham, that they wanted, through the council, to show the people that they are not being robbed by the farmers. It was explained to the delegation that the city has not fixed a price on the wood and that it is only to be sold to those who cannot afford to pay the long price, as Alderman Pitkin put it. This seemed to change the idea of the delegation, who wanted it well understood that they did not represent the 12 farmers who threatened to enjoin the city. They were placed at ease in that matter, for Alderman Ryan said the threat was made to him in the presence of other city officials. Alderman Mills was very glad the committee had visited the council, for he felt that the city's cutting the wood would prevent the prices going to $15 a cord this winter as it did last winter at one time, he said. The delegation claimed they came before the council at the request of Mayor Mitchell, who was out of town last night. Acting Mayor Galleher thanked the committee for complying with the invitation. The grangers claimed that if Montpelier sold at the price they understood the wood was to be sold it would fix the price for farmers coming in the city. It was demonstrated to the farmers that Montpelier does not want to hurt their trade but is looking after its poorer people, and it demonstrated to the council that the grangers are not the ones threatening the city with injunction.

for the music students were not seen when the campaign was waged, so that the student body was materially reduced, which makes the record stand more brilliant as compared with the other schools whose student body is considerably larger than here.
Commissioner of Education Hillegas leaves to-day for Boston to attend a meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers' association and organizations which gather generally at the same time on educational matters. Friday morning he will deliver an address upon "Organization of Junior High Schools in Rural Communities" and in the afternoon he appears in a discussion relative to "Changing Educational Systems." The education department has completed a survey of the sewer system from the Randolph state agricultural school, the purpose being to avoid a repetition of the occurrence which took place at the home for feeble-minded when buildings were constructed there. The health department has investigated the conditions and when construction is commenced on the new dormitory there will not be trouble afterward from the sewer system, as occurred at Brandon. Prof. Clyde Hill has gone to Craftsbury, where this week he has been employed in the work in the junior high school in that town, and will do work along similar lines in Greensboro before returning to his office here.

Major Stephen Cushing has received the corrected figures relative to the number of men which Vermont is below its quota as sent to Camp Devens. This shows that the state is 65 men short of the 85 per cent which the government has called. There are three men who have been credited to Vermont which is taken into consideration, so that until located in the states where they have been assigned brings the number to 68 persons. At an early date these 65 men will go by train to Camp Devens. Washington, Grand Isle and Bennington counties have their total number credited. These figures do not include the 15 per cent which the government has not as yet called. All other counties, except those named above, need from one to 13 men to complete their quotas.
Gov. H. F. Graham went this morning to Woodsville, N. H., where he speaks to-day at the exercises at the opening of the new highway bridge across the Connecticut river between that village and Wells River. The toll bridge will materially reduce the traffic on the toll bridge.
Gov. H. F. Graham has issued his warrant for the arrest of John Lowell, now in Franklin county jail awaiting trial on the charge of burglary. Lowell was committed to the state prison in 1915 and last August was released on a parole pardon, having served his minimum time. However, a few days since, the grand jury in Franklin county indicted him for burglary, according to the report received by the board of charities and probation. He will have to await a trial and, pending that, the warrant has been issued to commit him to the state prison that he may serve the rest of his maximum time.

The inquest, relative to the death of Daniel Kingsbury, who was killed by an automobile, occurred Wednesday afternoon in the county courthouse, conducted by State's Attorney E. B. Davis, and Miss Mary Donetti of the board of charities and probation was stenographer. Judge G. H. Dale presided. Some ten witnesses who were about the place at the time of the accident when Mr. Kingsbury was injured, as well as those in the automobile, testified in the matter. The stenographer will transcribe her notes, after which the prosecuting officer will review them and reach a decision as to any further action in the matter.

Young cattle brought fair prices. Two barrels of sugar arriving in Barre yesterday and to-day eased the saccharine situation temporarily, although dealers go on the street and describe the shortage as acute, and the small assignment invoiced does not mean that more is to follow. One of the barrels was disposed of last night and at the store where the second barrel came this morning the last sugar sale was registered before noon. The grocers parceled out the humps in small quantities and efforts were made to distribute the meagre supply among as many families as possible.

Thomas of Northfield also admitted a first offense and arranged to pay the minimum fine and costs. The third respondent, Murdo McAuley of Graniteville, was overtaken by the police as he was about to leave for the Rochester woods. He pleaded guilty of a third offense and was given a 30-day sentence. McAuley was ordered to pay a fine of $15 and costs.
A large audience was present at the Hedding church last evening to listen to an excellent concert which closed the two days' arts and crafts bazaar. The program opened with a selection by Spaulding high school orchestra, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Fricke, Cole, dressed in a Puritan costume. Mr. LaCasse of Goddard seminary, accompanied by Miss Hollister, rendered two violin solos, which were of special merit. A humorous reading by Mr. Bancroft was well applauded. This preceded pleasing vocal solos given by Miss Leona Lamb and Mr. Clark. A piano solo, played by Mrs. Blodgett, was much enjoyed. Mrs. Horace Sowles of Boston delighted the audience with her attractive voice in well-chosen selections. After an enjoyable reading by Miss Martin of Goddard seminary, a double quartet, including Messrs. Goodfellow, Charles Oliver, William Oliver, Blackmore, Clark, Veale, Craig and Morse, sang two selections, "The Star Spangled Banner," with orchestral accompaniment, concluded the concert. Many thanks are due those who contributed their talent to the program and much credit to the committee in charge Mrs. Lyon and Mrs. Blodgett. The ladies and pastor's union was in charge of the supper.

How to Make a Dairy Pay in Winter.

A writer says in the October Farm and Fireside:
"Probable dairying in the winter time depends largely on imitating pasture conditions. This means succulent feed, and silage is a fair substitute for grass. It also means freedom, which is necessarily limited when animals must be kept indoors. But modern swinging stanchions give more freedom than the old-fashioned rigid plank stanchions. And here is another matter which is seldom given much thought: In winter the hours of sunlight are few. So do not build into your barn unnecessary partitions or cumbersome stanchion frames, or anything that will make the barn dark and gloomy. Paint and whitewash work wonders in brightening a stable, but they don't supply the warmth and cheer of direct sunlight."

A Good Supply of Good Rubbers

for all members of the family at present, but those who read the papers will note that every Rubber factory in the United States has agreed to turn over their entire output of Four-Buckle Arctics to the government for our soldier boys. Read the following, which appears in the "Boston Post":

Entire Output of Arctics for Army.
Washington, Nov. 6.—Every manufacturer of rubber overshoes in the country met to-day with an auxiliary committee of the council of national defense and agreed to turn over to the government for the army the entire output of four-buckle "arctics" from now until Jan. 5. This will mean a total of about 300,000 pairs. Orders for rubber hip boots had been placed previously.

We advise our friends to secure their Rubbers and Arctics at the earliest possible moment. When the supply on hand is exhausted, no more can be secured this season, so all dealers advise us. We have the B. F. Goodrich makes in "Hipress" for heavy wear and "Straight Line" for dress wear. Also "Ball Band" and "Victors."
