Five Young Men Complete Their Naval Enlistments.

Recruiting Officer Charles Mitchell sent this morning to Burlington five young men to complete their enlistments. They were E. J. Limogue and W. J. Johnson of this city, who are new ones and who enlisted as apprentice seamen; E. H. Lombard and Perley Jerd, who have been examined and who to-day completed their papers. The fifth one was C. H. Tyler of Jonesville, who had been examined last week, but who went to his home to spend Thanksgiving before signing his papers.

F. A. Howland, director of the war savings campaign for Vermont, left Saturday night for Boston, where he attends the conference relative to the campaign which started to-day and at which Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank of New York, one of those in charge of the work, is to be present and explain the work as the government wants it done. Mr. Howland, like the other state directors, is experiencing trouble in securing the information in printed form to distribute among the citizenship. This is due probably to the flooded condition of the government printing plant. Mr. Howland, when he left here, had a few more county directors to name. Some of those whom he had selected could not take care of the work with their other duties. He expects when he returns to have considerable data to be released for publication.

County Clerk L. C. Moody, up to this morning, had issued four permits to persons to handle explosives under the new regulations provided by the government. These were to persons who have been handling that line for some years. Several have called for information and data that must be given in order to secure a license. They will probably take out licenses a little later.

State Bank Inspector Frank C. Williams left this morning for Burlington in connection with his department. Mr. Williams has nearly ready for mailing to the banks of the state information relative to the new thrift campaign, setting forth why his department urges the banks to cooperate in the sale of the war saving stamps. He hopes that the federal government will allot a reasonable amount to Vermont, say something like $5,000,000 and believes that if something near that figure is allotted that Vermont will take care of the campaign. Much more than that sum would embarrass the situation exceedingly and tie up finance to some extent in taking care of the loans needed in the state.

Station Agent J. P. Galleher of the Central Vermont railway this morning gave out figures showing a large sale of revenue stamps in the local office during the month of November. These sales were made for the stamps that were attached to the mileage books and tickets sold in the local office. The revenue amounts to $700, which shows that the station probably had one of the largest sales of tickets of any for the company in Vermont.

Chief of Police P. J. Donnelly Saturday afternoon took in custody a Mrs. Holmes of Northfield upon information from Chief Donahue of Northfield, that the woman was wanted for taking a pair of glasses from a jeweler in Northfield one day last week. The woman returned the glasses to Chief Donnelly, who is sending them to Chief Donahue at Northfield. Mrs. Holmes was gowned similarly to Red Cross nurses who she wore a shade of blue instead of a white dress while on her white headpiece was a blue cross instead of a red one, like those worn by Red Cross nurses. The woman was later released.

Miss Ellen M. Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Bailey of Wells River, and Harvey E. Goodell, Gov. Graham's secretary, were married at the home of the bride's parents last Wednesday evening. Rev. Donald Fraser officiating and there being present only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bridesmaid was Miss Isabella Field, while the best man was George Bailey, brother of the bride. The home was suitably decorated for the event. The bride has been prominent among the young people of Wells River and has given much of her effort to the work in the Congregational church. She attended Middlebury college during the same time her husband was there. After her graduation she taught in Craftsbury and has been teaching in Haverhill, N. H. Mr. Goodell is a native of Readsboro, born in 1889, but moved to Whitingham in 1905. He was graduated from the Drury high school in North Adams, Mass., and then appointed executive messenger during the session of the legislature in 1912-13. He was graduated from Middlebury in 1915 and entered the office of Alexander Dunnett to commence the study of law, where he was engaged when he was appointed secretary of civil and military affairs by Gov. Graham. He has handled the many state problems connected with the war and changes due to recent legislation with discrimination that has brought many complimentary remarks as to his ability.

Information was received Sunday at Gov. H. F. Graham's office in the State House of the appointment of John J. Wilson of Bethel as a member of the local exemption board for Windsor county, the appointment having been made by President Wilson to succeed Park H. Pollard, who was last week appointed by the president as the director of explosives in Vermont. Mr. Pollard was chairman of the Windsor county exemption board and resigned upon his appointment to the new position.

Commissioner of Education M. B. Hillegas commenced to realize the beneficial results of the efforts of his department in loaning money to the children in various parts of the state for the purpose of raising crops when a check for $500 was received, the money to be returned to the party loaning the same to his department. Early in the year it became evident that these loans must be made if the children were to produce. The public safety committee provided a substantial sum, but from an individual, who learned of the needs came $2,000 as a loan and the $500 will be applied towards returning the loan to the above party.

John Kingsbury, aged 60 years, died at Heaton hospital about 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, following an illness which covered a period of several years, due to stomach trouble. He was born in County Clair, Ireland, and came to this country some 24 years ago. He lived most of that time in Essex Center, where he owned a farm; but when his health commenced to fail nine years ago, he sold the farm and came to Montpelier. He was married 17 years ago to Martha McMahon, who with one son, Martin, survives; also a niece and nephew and cousins living in New York. Since coming to Montpelier he had been employed at odd jobs. The funeral occurs at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning from St. Augustine's church.

Gov. Graham has received from the National Bible association a request for endorsement in the campaign which is being waged in an effort to raise $400,000 that a Bible may be presented each soldier going into the European war. The campaign which is in operation from Dec. 1 to 11 inclusive, has the endorsement of President Wilson. Gov. Whitman, in endorsing it, states that he does so because the Bible probably would be the only reading that prisoners would get for months and it would keep their mind occupied. Dec. 9 has been set aside as the Sunday on which the big drive will take place. Miss Ellen Turney, who has been home from the Beacon Hill school in Boston, went back to her studies Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. James Dewey and children went back to Quechee Sunday afternoon, following a visit with Mrs. W. T. Dewey and other relatives here. Commissioner of Education M. B. Hillegas went to Springfield Sunday afternoon of educational matters. E. H. Devault is in Boston. The annual memorial service of the Elks was conducted Sunday. The Boston Herald of Dec. 2 contained the following account of the marriage of Harold P. Jackson, formerly of Montpelier: "The wedding of Lieut. Harold P. Jackson, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. G. Jackson of 133 Peterboro street, and Miss Grace G. Burnham, the oldest daughter of Mrs. Frank Roberts Burnham of Bloomfield, Conn. took place last night in Bloomfield. The wedding was a quiet one at the home of Miss Burnham's mother, with only members of both families and a few intimate friends and guests from New York and Hartford attending. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Jean Burnham. Miss Burnham attended the public schools of Hartford and finished her education in Switzerland. She has been active in Red Cross work. Lieut. Jackson was born in Bar Harbor, Me., and was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1910. His father is a veteran newspaper man and is now connected with the Boston Sunday Herald. Lieut. Jackson entered the second officers' training camp at Plattsburg in August. After receiving his commission as first lieutenant, he was detained as instructor for subsequent camps. He is a member of the Dartmouth club of Boston and of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. After going to France on a trip of observation and instruction, he will return to this country to be attached to one of the many camps here as instructor." Favorable responses were received by Mason S. Stone from W. N. Cady, master, and O. L. Martin, lecturer of the Vermont state grange, relative to the instituting of a four-minute speaker campaign in the grange meetings. Mr. Stone who has charge of this feature of the patriotic work, found that four-minute speakers were not reaching widely enough through their work in the theatres and so he sought permission to have the plan extended to the grange meetings. Three foreign corporations have recently withdrawn from Vermont, as follows: Camp Aragon Co. of Mechanicville, N. Y., builders of camps on Lake Champlain; the New Jersey company of Armour & Co (the Illinois company still doing business in the state); and the Hogert & Hopper Manufacturing Co. of New York.

Herbert Zangerle of New York and Miss Clara Savage Married Saturday.

A quiet home wedding occurred Saturday, Dec. 1, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Savage on the common, when their elder daughter, Clara, was united in marriage to Hubert Zangerle of New York City. The ceremony, which occurred at high noon, was performed by Rev. William A. Remele, pastor of the Congregational church, the single ring Episcopal form of service being used. The bride was gowned in embroidered white net.

Mr. Zangerle is connected with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and also engaged in the real estate business. The bride is a soprano soloist of no mean ability and is singing Sunday mornings in Irvington-on-the-Hudson, and Sunday afternoons in the First Presbyterian church in Yonkers, and is also booked for a series of concerts this coming season. Her many friends in town will remember her singing in the Congregational church at the beginning of her career.

After the ceremony, the assembled guests, consisting only of the immediate family and close relatives, were served a chicken-pie dinner.

Those attending from out of town were Miss Dorothy Savage, sister of the bride, of Proctor; Mrs. Earl Boyce of Proctor; Mrs. H. J. Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farnham of Waterbury. The bridal couple took the 6 o'clock train north from Waterbury and after a wedding trip in New York state will be at home in their apartment at 572 West 187th street, New York City.

The sum of $43.50 was forwarded to the Armenian fund, being collected in the Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stevens have purchased the Wade Eaton house and moved in at once.

Snow ploughs and snow rollers were out doing duty Saturday.

A. W. Plough, who was a Thanksgiving guest of Earl A. Jones, returned Sunday to Marlboro, Mass.

The annual chicken-pie supper and sale of work will be held Friday evening, Dec. 7, at the M. E. church. Supper served at 6 and 8 p. m.

Miss Rose Sullivan of Moretown is at C. Spaulding's, for the winter term of school.

As a war conservation measure, the Congregational church will hold Sunday services in the vestry this winter, instead of using the auditorium.

Reports at noon to-day from the bedside of Miss Mildred Morrison of North Main street, who is suffering from an aggravated form of tetanus as the result of receiving a nail wound in the foot, indicated that the patient is holding her own. A brief sinking spell early to-day indicated a weakening of the heart action, but she recovered quickly and other favorable symptoms indicate that she has a chance to recover.
