O'Kelly of North Main street received a letter from his son, Walter, cook of Headquarters company, 1st Vermont infantry, telling him of the menu of the company's Thanksgiving dinner: Roast turkey, dressing, gravy, mashed potatoes, cranberries, celery, bread and butter, rice pudding, pumpkin pie, banana, cocoa and cigars.  Charles Hoernie of the Goddard seminary faculty has returned from Boston, where he has been visiting during the past week with friends. While absent, Mr. Hoernie enlisted in the U. S. navy and expects to be ordered to report for duty at the end of the Christmas recess. He has been engaged as a teacher at the hilltop school for several years and in that time has had charge of all the athletics of the school, bringing several baseball players into prominence, among them being Lawton Witt, who played during the past season with the Philadelphia Athletics, as well as several others, while he has had charge of the many championship Goddard teams during the past few years.
 "What'll they do to a feller who squeals on his father?" With this query a nine-year-old addressed himself to the chief at police headquarters this morning, and after the officer had assured him that things might happen to the father if the complaint seemed justified, the youngster outlined a sorry tale of parental abuse. The lad's home is in East Barre, and the alleged misdoings of his parents had that village for a setting, but the youthful complainant resolved to carry his story to the police of this city. The burden of the complaint concerned the mistreatment of the complainant's elder brother, who, he claimed had left home because conditions were intolerable. The complainant himself had received a peck blow over the head, but he passed quickly over his own harsh treatment and asked for official interference in the interest of his brother. Chief Sinclair dismissed the lad, after promising to make an inquiry, although the offense, if any has been committed, may be handled by the Barre Town authorities.
