

MARSHFIELD

Community Christmas Exercises Very Pleasing—Money for Armenians. The community Christmas exercises held Tuesday evening in the M. E. church passed off very pleasantly. The church was handsomely decorated in national and Christmas colors and was filled with an appreciative audience. There was an interesting program by the children, which was prepared by the teachers and in charge of Miss Ethel Bohannon. The band gave four very fine selections, one of them being "The Holy City," with cornet solo by Clarence Pitkin. At the close of the program, Rev. Mr. Furness made an earnest appeal in behalf of the Armenian and Syrian orphans and an offering was taken, which amounted to $7.88. A. T. Davis, with a few well-chosen words, then presented a service pin to each of the 11 families which has given one or more of its members to the country's service. This feature of the community gift work was done in loving remembrance of the boys who have gone out from this town, and also as an expression of sympathy for their parents and kin. The committee also distributed fruit to the invalids and shut-ins and warm clothing, games, toys, books and games to the children. It was their desire that everyone be remembered so far as their limited means would allow. If anyone was overlooked, it was unintentional. They wish to thank the band for their services and all others who in any way contributed to the real Christmas spirit of the occasion.

Pretty Wedding Christmas Night, James P. Sprague and Hazel M. Carpenter.

An exceptionally pretty wedding took place Christmas night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Sprague, where Hazel Mae, only daughter of V. B. Carpenter, was united in marriage with James P. Sprague by Rev. John Irons of Williamstown. George K. Sprague, Jr., brother of the groom, and Theron and Louis Morse, his cousins, acted as ushers for the guests.

As the portieres were drawn from the bridal room, which was decorated in green and white, with silver, "O Promise Me" was effectively sung by Lester Lamson, followed by Lehigh's wedding march, played by Mrs. J. M. Angell. The bridal party was ushered in by Doris Sprague, sister of the groom, and Christine Angell, who also held white ribbons, which made an aisle, through which the bridal party marched to the white and silver arch and stood under a white wedding veil. The bride was dressed in white satin, with silver lace trimmings, and wore white tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses and sweet peas.

Her attendant was Miss Ruie Angell, who was dressed in peach colored taffeta, with pearl trimmings, and carried white carnations. They were followed by the groom and Lawrence Holmes, who was best man. The double ring service was used, Master John Sprague, small brother of the groom, carrying the rings on a small silver salver.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in rooms decorated in Christmas evergreen, holly and mistletoe, where the 100 guests offered best wishes and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Sprague, and were later served to a dainty bridal supper of brick ice cream and wedding cakes.

During this reception the lights went out and amid the general confusion caused by rice, confetti and darkness, the bride and groom disappeared.

Mrs. Sprague's traveling suit was buff colored broadcloth and her hat brown velvet with gold lace. Following their hasty exit, Mr. and Mrs. Sprague left for Randolph, Springfield and Lowell, en route to Worcester, Mass., where they will be at home at 32 Lincoln street after Jan. 1.

Both young people are very popular. Mrs. Sprague is a graduate of Randolph high school and has been successfully teaching three years in Brookfield. Mr. Sprague is a splendid high school graduate, had attended the University of Vermont one year and has since been employed in the machine shops of Springfield, Vt., and Worcester.

Besides their many wedding presents in silver, cut glass and linen, they were the recipients of $100 in money, the gifts of near relatives. The best wishes of the community for a long and happy life go with Mr. and Mrs. Sprague.
