Service Flag, Bearing Eight Stars, Presented Congregational Church. Through the generosity and patriotism of one of our church members, Mrs. Gertrude Wells, a service flag has been presented to the Congregational church, which was very gratefully received and was dedicated last Sunday at the close of the morning sermon, delivered by Rev. M. W. Hale, who took for his text Joshua 4:3 and 9. As the stones which Joshua set up for a memorial, so must our flag serve as a lifelong memorial of the boys who have gone from our midst, in the service of our country. After a song by three ladies, Rev. M. W. Hale unrolled the flag, which bears eight stars. As the names were read, Miss Olive Smith placed one beneath each star. Three of the eight boys are members of the church. A dedication service was read by the pastor. The old familiar patriotic song, "America," was sung as a part of the exercises. The names placed upon the flag are: Harold Wilson, Carl Harvey, Raymond Bolton, Leslie Dane, Robert Clarke, Wendall Goodrich, Don McAllister, Eddie Burbank.

A meeting of the Vermont Farmers' War council was held in the town hall Wednesday evening with an attendance of 125. The state secretary, C. A. Badger, was present and described the work the council has done and outlined the future work. Much interest was shown in the general discussion which followed. Town Food Director L. C. Burbank spoke on the food situation and the present-day needs.

Thomas Cochran passed away at the home of his son, Thomas, Wednesday morning, aged 75 years. About two weeks ago he had a severe paralytic shock, from which he never fully recovered. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1842 and was a veteran of the Civil war. His remains were taken to Albany for burial. He leaves one son and a daughter, a trained nurse, who cared for him during his last illness.

Next week an effort will be put forth in the interests of soliciting books for war service libraries. There is a call for one-half million books to furnish reading for the boys and men in 34 camps. Another half million are needed for military forts, naval stations and vessels and barracks. For every man in service there ought to be one book in service. Hundreds will be purchased, but every available dollar is needed for the sort of books that cannot be expressed as gifts. Library buildings have been erected in 34 big camps by the American Library association. Each building accommodates from 10,000 to 15,000 volumes and from 175 to 250 readers. Anyone having books they are willing to part with may be sure their gifts will be gratefully received.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Lawson of Woodbury were recent guests of their daughters, Mrs. Ned Webster and Mrs. Clara Burnham.

Rev. M. W. Hale was in Woodbury Monday to attend the funeral of Frank Batchelder. Rev. Mrs. Isabelle Ewen of Barre officiated.

WATERBURY

Rev. Verne L. Smith, pastor of the federated church, has for his sermon to-morrow morning at the Methodist Episcopal church, "Dry Bones." In the evening he will give a stereopticon lecture on "Joseph." Good music by the chorus choir in the morning. In the afternoon at 3:30 the pastor also preaches in the town hall at Duxbury Corner; subject, "The Potter and the Clay."

At St. Andrew's church, Rev. Robert Devoy, rector, there will be high mass and sermon at 10:30. Catechism classes meet at 3 o'clock and benediction of the blessed sacrament at 7:30 o'clock. Father Devoy will celebrate mass and preach in Stowe to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock.

Letters received from John W. Greenleaf, who went a short time ago to Camp Greene, N. C., state that it is warm there and pleasant. Quite a contrast to the past few days here.

Nearly seventy people sat down to the splendid supper provided by the ladies of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening last. The spirit of optimism and expectancy which generally precede a call to the supper table was well founded and every one did their share. This spirit was deepened when after supper Miss Julia A. Simons, as chairman of the finance committee, called on the canvassers to give their reports for the results of the canvass showing that the success of the previous year had been repeated and that the finance of the new conference year would be in good order. Later on in the evening a rising vote of thanks was extended to Richard Jeffords for his faithful service in the church, several people representing the various interest of the church speaking words of appreciation and wishing him every success in the new work to which he has been appointed.

Miss Julia A. Simons has gone to Brattleboro for a visit to her brother, Elbert Simons, a former townsman and now one of the substantial business men of that place.

Letters received from Don Bemis, now at West Liberty, Ia., bring the news that he has taken up steady work for the season, as he is of draft age, but that he finds plenty of work by the day. Corn that has been in cold storage for the winter is now being husked, the going price being seven cents a bushel and working at this, Don was able to earn one day $4.50. Could you beat it?

AMUSEMENT NOTES

New Jokes, Comedy Patter and Graceful Dancing in "Follow Me."

A brilliant array of costumes, stunning girls, raft of color in scenery blending in perfect harmony with the gorgeous gowns, some really new jokes and comedy patter, graceful dancing numbers and catchy songs—such, in short, is "Follow Me," Anna Held's own musical comedy, which comes to the opera house next Monday, March 18.

Liane Held, petite, charming, wholly irresistible young daughter of the famous Anna Held, because of the latter's illness, is playing the principal role and charming her way right into the hearts of large audiences wherever "Follow Me" is seen. In fact, she offers a perfect imitation of Anna Held in every look and move.

In carrying through a story of love intrigue in which this young Parisienne actress as Claire La Tour, an actress, teaches a philandering husband of title a lesson in fidelity. Miss Held has the support of a capable cast. Beautiful Venita Fitzhugh of pleasing voice and charming manner sends across the footlights a strong appeal as the neglected wife and scores in song numbers far above the ordinary. Harry Bulger, Jr., son of the well known Harry Bulger of Broadway comedy fame, is an entertaining eccentric comedian, with whom Lew Seymour as a poet shares comedy honors. Ida Fitzhugh and Leon Franco add to the laugh making; Marie Franconetti is an exceptional dancer, and Tilyou and Ward everywhere prove big favorites in their acrobatic dancing capers.

"Follow Me" offers snappy, fun throughout the three acts, in which there is an almost endless procession of bizarre dress creations worn by pretty girls. Miss Held's gowns, seven of which she wears, are gorgeous, her peacock costume being nothing less than a revelation.—adv.

"Pollyanna" Next Friday.

"Pollyanna" is coming to the opera house next Friday, March 22. Laughter, good cheer, hopefulness and kindly impulse are created by the young heroine
