GREAT HAGENBECK-WALLACE CIRCUS COMING TO MONTPELIER

More Than 400 Artists Appear on This Season's Program.

The billboards and dead walls about the city are announcing that the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus is to visit Montpelier, Friday, May 31. Great interest attaches to the event, particularly so because the circus is the only tented exhibition offering an array of trained wild animals. The name Hagenbeck for nearly a century has stood as the top in the annals of wild animals. Every zoo of any importance in the world receives its charges from the Hagenbeck headquarters in Africa and Asia, as well as the fact that the menageries of all circuses are similarly supplied.

So much interest did the Hagenbeck trained wild animals cause at the St. Louis world's fair in 1904 that the owners of the great Wallace circus entered into negotiations with Mr. Hagenbeck. The result was that both great institutions were united into one of the biggest tented exhibitions in the world. Year after year the two shows have gone on improving. As fast as rare and costly animals were captured in the jungles of the uncivilized world they have been forwarded by the agents of Hagenbeck-Wallace to the great American show.

Although death has claimed Carl Hagenbeck and B. E. Wallace has relinquished his business interest, yet the work of the two great men still lives. The active management of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, now as for many years past, rests upon Edward Ballard.

Although his name is scarcely known to lovers of the circus world, through his desire to remain in the background, nevertheless he is recognized as one of the greatest showmen of the day. The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus represents to Mr. Ballard and his associates a cash outlay of $3,000,000. The daily operating expenses are $7,500. With the great institution are employes numbering about 1,000. Twenty-two tents covering 12 acres are used to house the show in the daytime. At night the circus is moved from city to city aboard three special trains.

This year's program is one of unusual interest. An entirely new array of European artists have been added and are appearing for the first time in the United States. Altogether there are more than 400 artists with the circus who appear in the six arenas. The big show will give an all-new street parade at 10 a. m., preceding the first exhibition. Performances are given daily at 2 and 8 p. m.—adv.
