DEBS GUILTY ON THREE COUNTS.

Socialist Leader Convicted Under the Espionage Act.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 14.—Eugene V. Debs was convicted of violating the espionage act by a federal jury Thursday. Of the original 10 counts of the indictment, but four remained when the jury retired to consider the evidence. The verdict was guilty on three; not guilty on one. He was found guilty of attempting to incite insubordination, disloyalty, etc., in the military and naval forces; attempting to obstruct recruiting and uttering language tending to incite, provoke and encourage resistance to the United States and to promote the cause of the enemy. The count on which he was adjudged innocent charged that he opposed the cause of the United States. Counsel for both sides said that they considered Judge Westenhaver's instructions fair. The jury was out five and a half hours.

When the jury was ready to report, Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, herself under conviction on a similar charge, came inside the railing, drew her chair beside Debs, and into her hands he slipped his own gaunt paw, while it remained while the clerk was reading the verdict and polling the jury.

The maximum penalty is 30 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. Judge Westenhaver said he would hear counsel on a motion for a new trial today. Debs until then will remain at liberty under the trial bond.

ONLY ONE-THIRD COAL SUPPLY CAN BE BOUGHT

supposed we would receive a large share of our coal allotment in a few months, and that we could fill all orders for six tons and less, and also two-thirds of the larger orders before cold weather. The demand for coal is so great that the producers are only shipping in monthly installments, and a great many orders that were placed last spring have not been filled. In fact the situation seems so serious to me that our office has sent out instructions to furnish at present, to everyone, only one-third of the needs, a two-ton being the minimum. This regulation is put into effect for the purpose of allowing everyone to have some coal on hand when winter sets in. Some people no doubt are finding fault with the coal dealer for not delivering to them the two-thirds allotment which they ordered last April. Don't blame the coal dealer; he can only deliver the coal he receives, and he has received plenty of coal that he would have been more than pleased to have delivered it.

"Again, grant that coal was ordered in April, when the price was low, and not delivered until after the price had gone up. Such consumers must pay the price in force when the coal is delivered and not when it was ordered. The U. S. fuel administration, through its local representatives, not only makes the price, but also has full charge of the distribution. The coal dealer's policy is to fill the orders in rotation, and the supply has been too short to fill all orders. According to reports in our office, we consumed at least 440,000 tons of coal last winter. Our allotment for this year is 360,000 tons, or a shortage of 71,000 tons that must be made up by some kind of conservation."

Here Mr. Jones paused to speak of the work of the local fuel administration and of the situation as it concerns dealers here.

"Barre will receive much less coal this year than last," reaffirmed the speaker. "And for this reason the people should now give this matter their serious consideration. I realize that with the many duties assumed by the people at this critical time that it is difficult to turn their thoughts to Feb. 1 and have them take action now, when weather conditions are such that a few pieces of wood are all that is necessary to take off the chill. Cold weather will be here very soon and arrangements must be made now to meet it.

No doubt the people are tired of my talking about cutting or purchasing wood, but it must be done, and it must be done during the first part of the winter before the severe weather sets in. I want to emphasize another way that the people can assist, not only the fuel administration, but also benefit themselves, namely, to use a portion of No. 1 buckwheat coal with their other coal.

Evidently Mr. Jones, having studied the situation carefully, sets a store by buckwheat coal and in addressing himself to the best remedy for the fuel situation he obviously believes that the widespread use of that variety, which may be obtained in quantities just now, together with the use of wood, will go a long way toward keeping Vermont warm this winter. Continuing, he said: "Buckwheat (No. 1) coal is a very fine anthracite coal and can be used for covering the fire at night with excellent results. I am using 20 per cent of this grade of coal in my home and I know that others can do the same. This coal can be furnished now, but it may be difficult to obtain it later. Every household in Barre should order some of this coal now from the local coal dealers. The reason that I so strongly urge the use of No. 1 buckwheat is because it is not counted against our allotment, and every ton used will be equal to conserving one ton of domestic coal.

"As soon as all consumers have received one-third of their coal, they will then be supplied with additional coal to the extent of whatever shipments we are able to receive."

ST. MIHIEL FOLK WEEP WITH JOY

Women Kissed the Hands of Sec. Baker, Then Shouted "Vive L'America"

NEARLY EVERY MAN TAKEN BY GERMANS

Three Years of Conqueror's Domination Was Swept Aside

American Army in Lorraine, Friday, Sept. 13 (By the Associated Press).—The civilian population, almost wholly feminine because of the forcible removal of virtually every male of military age, welcomed Newton D. Baker, the American secretary of war, and a General Pershing and Petain when they visited St. Mihiel a few hours after it was captured. The village in effect was their official host, but in reality they were the guests of women and children.

Aged women and girls crowded about Secretary Baker and the two generals accompanying him to express their thanks and pay homage to their deliverers. It was not merely curiosity; it was an emotional outburst following almost three years of the conqueror's oppression. They crowded forward ostensibly to shake the secretary's hand, but instead kissed his hands and wept, and then joined the chorus of Vive L'America.

TO DETECT DESERTERS.

Vermont Committee of Public Safety Asks Co-operation.

The adjutant general of the war department requests the Vermont committee of public safety to assist in the detection of deserters and delinquents, including technical draft deserters; registrants who have failed to file questionnaires, appear for physical examination, or otherwise comply with the selective service law.

It is therefore the purpose of this committee to give publicity to the activity of the department of justice; the committee of public safety and other agencies, in ascertaining every deserter within the state boundaries. This will tend to discourage desertion.

Each district committee is requested to take up this work in a way that each member will feel a personal responsibility in detecting the deserters in their community. Every district and local committee of public safety are requested to investigate the case of any strange man in uniform whose presence is not fully accounted for. If he is on a legitimate errand, he will have with him evidence to establish that fact. A deserter usually seeks a neighborhood where he is unknown and a stranger in uniform whose business is kept secret should be regarded with suspicion.

Careful investigation should be made in case of unknown civilians from the ages of eighteen to forty-five, and endeavor to find out whether he has his registration, call or exemption card or whether he is not deserting the army. If it is found that he has failed to register, the nearest agent of the department of justice should be notified of the deserters found.

All men apparently of draft age should be required to display their cards in order to establish regularity of their standing. If they are unable to do so, they should be taken into custody pending proof of their innocence with him. All deserters from the army should be delivered at once to a military post for disposition and any draft deserters should be reported or delivered to a local agent of the department of justice.

Expense may be recovered from the war department or the department of justice as the case may be, and in case of an army deserter there is an alternative of a reward of $500.

The cooperation of all citizens of this state in this work is earnestly requested.

Leighton P. Slack, Chairman, Joseph G. Brown, Secretary.

His father, who now is pastor of the Burlington Methodist church, formerly was in charge of churches in Pittsfield and North Adams, Mass.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS LIKE TO TALK RELIGION

"To Hell with the Movies, Let's Hear About Religion," Exclaimed One Tall Raw-Boned Sammie at Gathering of Soldiers.

London, Sept. 13.—Uncle Sam's fighters, an American army chaplain finds, are eager to be talked to about religion, but, he says, "you can't fool the boys with pulpit camouflage. Down in their hearts they crave the vital things of life and eternity."

The chaplain was discussing services held in the Y. M. C. A. huts. "We usually open," he said, with fifteen minutes of movies. A venerable preacher asked if that was necessary. He thought it wasn't and he proposed to put it to the men themselves. "Boys," he said, "I've come here to tell you something about religion. Would you like to begin right away or would you rather have a movie film first?"

"A tall, raw-boned soldier stood up in the audience. 'To hell with the movies,' he exclaimed, 'let's hear about religion.' 'The boys don't come to be entertained. What they want is to hear the simple, sincere and elemental truth of religion as the preacher conceives it. There are certain subjects, too, it is wise to steer clear of. Don't talk to them about drink and gambling and sex. They hear all they need of that sort of thing from the proper instructors.

"And don't talk about spread-eagle patriotism. They have plenty of patriotism of the real sort. Don't tell them how fine they are, for they've heard that until they are tired of it. Besides, no real man likes to be flattered, and these fellows are real men. Above all else, when your horse sense warns you that the boys are waiting with open hearts for the best comfort that religion can give them, don't tell them funny stories.

"Give them a message straight from God, if you have such a message in you. Suppose your son were going away, perhaps never to return. What sort of a message would you give him? That's the message they want, and no other."

CHURCHES SHOULD LEAD

In Community Service, It Was Told to Congregational Ministers.

Middlebury, Sept. 14.—The second day of the convention of Vermont Congregational ministers at Middlebury college opened with a large attendance at the first lecture in spite of the stormy morning. The first period was given over to Prof. W. E. Hoeking of Harvard university who spoke on "The Principle of Authority: Its Place in the Religion of Tomorrow." Prof. Hoeking emphasized the necessity of the right kind of authority as essential to the dealing with problems which will be facing the church at the close of the war. He suggested that the relations of labor and capital are likely to bring one of the great problems of the modern church.

Following Prof. Hoeking's lecture, Prof. C. F. Kent of Yale university spoke on "Religion and Recreation." He said that Jesus Christ had a keen sense of humor. He was fond of social life and endeavor to train the individual for citizenship and a constructive part in the social order. He insisted that the modern church should give its full and prompt attention to the gospel of play. He feels that the church should maintain an appreciative attitude toward community co-operation. The church service should be of such a nature as would be restful and helpful to the toiler, and the joyousness of thought and expression would reflect the Gospel message. Those about him. He suggested interpretation of the Sabbath as God's gift to men for physical, mental and spiritual re-creation. The church as an organization should be prepared to render that type of service which will satisfy the cravings of youth for wholesome recreation.

At 10:45 the convocation assembled for the morning chapel service which was conducted by Mr. Bell of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions.

Following the chapel service, Dr. Silas E. Persons of Baltimore spoke on "The Church as a Community Leader." The speaker emphasized the necessity of community co-operation and declared that the church should lead in the matter of community service. Under that head he would include any contributions that a church might be able to make toward the creation of a wholesome community atmosphere. Where there is more than one church in a community, the churches should unite in the development of a social program. "Not rivalry, but co-operation" should be the motto for all our churches to-day.

At the afternoon service, Mr. Bell spoke on "Latest News from the Far Eastern Front." He has recently returned from a five months tour of the far east including Japan and the Philippines, during which his position as secretary of the American board gave special opportunity to inform himself concerning international conditions. He was therefore able to deal with the subject intelligently and comprehensively, his address being greatly enjoyed. The afternoon session closed with a general conference by Sec. Merrill.

Among the interesting developments of the directors' meeting of Wednesday afternoon was the fact that there are now twenty-five pastorless fields. Hence the directors expressed themselves as under the necessity of granting new men first to those communities which were so thoroughly by themselves as to be unable to share with neighboring churches.

The board of directors adopted a total budget of $12,000, an increase of $1,000 over the budget of last year, which will necessitate calling upon the church to meet this additional amount. The domestic missionary funds will be administered with special reference to the needs of those communities in which the local Congregational church is the only Protestant church in the community.

There are 44 churches for which this missionary fund is available, and of these, at least 80 per cent at the present time are the only Protestant churches of the communities which they serve.

The evening session of the convocation was held in the Congregational church and a large audience was present to greet Dr. Hamilton Holt of New York, editor of the "Independent" and vice-president of the League to Enforce Peace. Dr. Holt talked for an hour and a quarter on his experience "On God Behind the Front in France" and his description of his experiences in the trenches together with his impressions gathered from personal interviews with European statesmen made a profound impression.

POTATOES LOWER.

Maine Now Furnishing Bulk of Supply—Tomatoes a Little Higher.

Boston, Sept. 13.—The bureau of markets of the department of agriculture in its daily bulletin says:

With an average of 15 to 20 carloads a day, Maine is now furnishing the bulk of the potatoes on the Boston market. No arrivals from New Jersey have been reported during the past few days and the season there is practically over. Every day the quality of the Maine stock has been improving and now they are in good condition. Price to retailers ranges from 42 cents to 45 cents per peck, and this has brought a lower price of 47 cents to 50 cents per peck for the consumer.

Due to the cool weather the past two days the supply of tomatoes has been decreased considerably. Prices have advanced from the low mark of last week, but they are still attractive enough to warrant canning if one has not already done so. Green tomatoes for pickling and chili sauce are now on the market, and may be bought for 30 and 40 cents per peck at a number of stores. Housewives should remember that the season for local vegetables is swiftly passing and should purchase supplies now while the vegetables are abundant.

ENTER NORMAL SCHOOL.

High School Graduates Urged to Train for Teachers.

"On the character and ability of the teachers everything depends," says Dr. P. P. Claxton, U. S. commissioner of education, in urging boys and girls to enter normal schools and prepare for teaching this year.

"Besides the thousands of men who have been drafted or have volunteered for service in the army, other thousands of men and many thousands of women have quit the work of teaching for employment in industries, commerce, civil service and clerical positions where they are paid better than for teaching. As the war continues and as the cost of living increases, and the demand for service of the kind teachers can render grows larger, the numbers of teachers leaving the schools for other employment will become still greater and this tendency is likely to continue long after the war is over unless the salaries of teachers should be increased far beyond the present average. How are their places to be filled? By trained or by untrained teachers?"

"Unless the attendance at the normal schools and in departments of education in colleges and universities is much increased, most of these places must be filled by men and women without professional knowledge and with no special training for their work. In this case the character of the schools will inevitably deteriorate and the time of the children and the money appropriated for education will be to a large extent wasted. It is, therefore, very important that for next year and for many years to come there should be more students in these schools for the preparation of teachers of boys and girls who have finished their high school work and should render their country a high type of patriotic
