The pictures of the outgoing and the incoming secretaries of the treasury show McAdoo wearing a smile which seems to say: "I'm glad I'm through."

Although he has a great mind and a wide experience, President Wilson is no doubt absorbing some entirely new viewpoints during his wanderings about Europe and his conversations with the leaders of the allied governments. It is, in a sense, a great education for him.

The French troops which entered the German town of Wiesbaden and were reviewed in the square before the city hall did not tear down the statue of former Emperor William of Germany. They hold the armistice with Germany as something more than a scrap of paper and they are not giving themselves to acts of violence. Thereby they are showing a restraint which is most commendable, especially since it comes at a time when their minds are worked to fury over the depredations committed by the Germans in French territory after the armistice was signed.

The American people may feel that they themselves were honored by the French in the ovation given to President Wilson in Paris, or then again they may not, just about in proportion as their imagination is working. However, it is true that the honor to Wilson was extended to him as the head of the great nation which really saved Paris from capture and probably prevented an indecisive peace. Wilson represented that nation and the American people, so he was the recipient of the tribute of France; but the people of the United States have the right to feel that the honor was really meant for them, only Wilson had the enjoyment of the personal touch with the reception.

INDUCE VERMONTERS TO COME BACK.

One of the greatest services to be done, Vermont in a generation is to direct the current of Vermont youth back to Vermont during the coming year. Approximately 20,000 young men have gone out of the state during the past few years, chiefly to enter the service of their country but in considerable measure to work in some business which was enjoying a boom incident to the war. Already many of the men have returned to their home towns in Vermont but many others are wavering in the balance whether to pull up stakes completely and settle in some new location. To encourage them to make a decision to return to Vermont, as well as to encourage other discharged service men to take up their residence in Vermont, would be a good work for some Vermont organization or state department to take up. If Vermont is not to lose out in the readjustment of men and things after the signing of the treaty of peace, then Vermont must be awake to the rivalry which is bound to arise among the states. Some well-directed publicity propaganda, directed perhaps by the state publicity department, could be used as an opening effort toward getting our own men back to Vermont. There should be no delay in this matter.

WATERBURY

Funeral of William McGrath Was Held Tuesday.

The funeral of William McGrath was held from St. Andrew's church yesterday morning, the requiem mass being given by Rev. Robert Devoy. Music was furnished by the regular choir. D. T. Harvey was in charge and the bearers were M. C. O'Brien, Robert O'Brien, James O'Brien, G. H. Ryan, William Casey and Patrick Casey. Burial in Holy Cross cemetery. Among those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reeves, Edward Reeves and Miss Mary McGrath of Burlington, Mr. and Mrs. John Tierney, Merton and Mattie Price of Middlesex, Mr. and Mrs. William Tierney of Montpelier and F. J. McAvoy and sister of Middlesex. The church was packed, although there was a misunderstanding in town in regard to the time of the funeral, many friends planning to go on Wednesday, as was first given out for time. The deceased was always helpful in trouble, has missed few funerals, always sympathizing with those whose friends were taken from them, and the people in town are mourning the passing of a good friend and citizen. William Huntley, who has been home on a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Huntley, returned to Alexandria, Va., to-day.

WAITS RIVER

Mrs. Julia Hutchinson has come to spend a few months with her nephew, E. S. Locke. A new dam in the river and a new shed have been put in at Green Mountain creamery. The pastor reports good attendance and enthusiastic gatherings at the Methodist centenary conference at Tremont temple, Boston. Mrs. O. V. Downing and daughter, Mrs. Earl A. Woods, have closed their home and moved to Barre for the winter months. Red Cross subscribers, please do not forget to renew your subscriptions at an early date.

The Home

Who can measure the influence of the Home; who can value the generous impulses, the lofty sentiments and the matchless virtues that spring from the family fireside.

It is alike, the most perfect and the most democratic of institutions; it is more than that — it is the world's great civilizer.

It is more than a place to eat, sleep and hang your hat; it is an atmosphere, a spirit of hope, confidence and love.

As the Christmas time approaches, its true significance has a fuller appeal and particularly so to the boys "over there," who cannot be with us this year.

One of the first lessons that we learned in the home was the practice of thrift, a lesson that is of manifest importance in the life of each individual. Have you forgotten that lesson? If you have, pledge yourself anew to-day and let us help you.

Helping Out

That's the spirit of the day—it's the only spirit, and you wouldn't be a real American if you didn't have that spirit.

And no real American is going to fail to lend his co-operation by failing to do his Christmas shopping early so as to avoid the usual Christmas rush and make it necessary to employ extra help, which our government has asked us not to do.

Everything is now in complete readiness for Christmas shopping, so it will not be necessary for an appeal, but simply to remind true Americans to do their Christmas shopping early.

Bags and Suit Cases The Gift Serviceable

A good leather traveling bag or a suit case is a most serviceable gift. You might think that because leather is high and scarce prices would be extremely high; but they are not — here — as you will see at a glance. As to finish, every little detail which makes for convenience to the traveler has been carried out minutely.

Initial Belt Buckles
