The new arrangement on the Central Vermont railway puts in effect a marked curtailment in the expenses in the station. The stations on Sundays are closed between the northbound paper train and the southbound evening train, so that it does away with the overtime expenses. There are hardly any freight trains run on Sundays now, while in years past there used to be many of them.

The southbound mail train of the Central Vermont railway was a little late this morning owing to a breakdown on an engine at Essex Junction.

Waldo Glover of Williamstown was a local visitor to-day.

In probate court, Hannah I. Hall of Middlesex has been appointed administratrix of the estate of Albert C. Hall, late of that town.

"CARRY ON" POSTERS

Will Be Distributed to 50,000 School Rooms in New England.

In 50,000 school rooms of New England the "Carry On" poster of the war savings committee of New England is soon to be displayed. It is just off the presses and is being distributed as rapidly as the committee and the mails working together can reach all the schools of the several commonwealths that make up the first federal reserve district.

The poster is such a jolly affair you would know just to look at it that whoever designed it was full of fun. You are not at all surprised to learn that the smiles are chasing each other face most of the time. Miss Dorothy Clogston is the artist, and she graduated from the high schools of parts of Boston last June. She made the poster for a war poster contest at the school last year and left it there when she graduated.

There it was found by the war savings committee just before the Christmas vacation, and it was immediately carried off to headquarters. The next question was where to find the young artist, for she had disappeared in one of the thousands of offices that go to make up a big city. The master of the school and the head of the department were appealed to, and they ran Dorothy down, as it were, to an office far from the war savings headquarters. Everybody in that office was almost as excited as Dorothy was when the news went abroad that the war savings committee wanted her poster, and her employers readily granted her leave of absence to make the changes necessary to bring the idea up to date.

Miss Dorothy insists that, notwithstanding a certain jeeriness, "Carry On" is a serious poster. She had a serious subject, she said, and she wanted to present it so seriously that after people looked at the poster they would go and buy war savings stamps. And surely the sailor boy with his determined air is proof that she has accomplished what she wished.

Last summer Miss Dorothy was a farmette at Concord, and she has signed up for next summer also. When the harvests are over in the autumn she is going to some art school and there specialize in the work that has already won her recognition.
