PLAN GAMES FOR FACTORY GIRLS.

Cleveland Clubs May Open Y. W. C. A. Hostess House in Industrial Section.

The Federal Women's clubs of Cleveland, O., are discussing the advisability of opening and supporting a Y. W. C. A. hostess house in the industrial section of the city for women working in factories. The house will be similar to the cantonment houses—a place to entertain one's friends in the evening or for meals at the cafeteria.

Impetus was given to movement during the influenza epidemic when industrial workers of the association visited factories during the noon hour to lead the girls in sports, folk dancing and military drill either indoors or out of doors, according to the weather.

The work proved so popular with both managers and workers that it was continued even after the ban was lifted and the women could find recreation at night in theatres and community centers.

Miss Helen Ferris, recreation expert of the Y. W. C. A., for several years director of recreation for John Wannamaker, both in Philadelphia and New York City, is traveling about the country at present, organizing games and recreation during noon hours at factories and department stores with a view to making the Cleveland plan nation-wide.

VAST FORTUNE ON $50 START

Frank W. Woolworth at His Death To-day Was Earning $8,000,000 Yearly

WAS FARMER BOY TILL 21 YEARS OLD

He Erected Tallest Building in the World, in New York City

New York, April 8.—Frank W. Woolworth, who started a five- and ten-cent store at Utica, N. Y., 40 years ago on a capital of $50, and eventually became the millionaire proprietor of a great chain of these stores in the United States, Canada and England, died suddenly early to-day at his home at Glen Cove, L. I. In addition to establishing a business with profits said to be nearly $8,000,000 yearly, Mr. Woolworth built the celebrated 51-story Woolworth building in lower New York, said to be the tallest building in the world.

He was born on a farm at Rodman, Jefferson county, N. Y., on April 13, 1852. Until he was 21 years old he worked on his father's farm, obtaining a meagre education in the district school and later at a business college. His first position was as errand boy in a dry-goods store, and he gradually advanced until he became a clerk and salesman, during which time he married on a salary of $8.50 per week. He worked six years in the dry goods business in various stores before a successful bargain counter sale gave him the idea of the possibilities of making substantial profits from nickel and dime purchases.

His idea, when broached to his employers, was termed visionary and he was advised to stick to the old-fashioned plan of conducting a store. Nevertheless, Woolworth was determined to test his plan and his first venture was at Utica in 1879. He had but $50 in cash and gave his personal note for the goods. In a year he had paid off his debt and saved some money. Closing out his store, he located at Lancaster, Pa., and established not only a store but the foundation of his fortune.

His rapid rise from a small store to the palatial Woolworth building in this city—with more than 800 branch stores in the United States, over sixty in Canada and England—forms one of the most interesting business romances in the history of the world. The business was incorporated several years ago for $65,000,000.

In addition to being president of the firm of F. W. Woolworth and Co., he was the director of a number of banks and business enterprises here. He maintained a residence on Fifth avenue noted for its rare paintings, and a country home at Glen Cove.

STUDYING MONETARY HABITS

To Determine Best Places to Sell Savings Stamps.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Monetary habits of groups of people in various industries and employments are the subject of study by the national war savings organization with a view of determining the best places and the best times to sell savings stamps. This is prompted by the reversal of last year's policy of giving an agency to practically every store which would handle the stamps and adoption of a new plan to select carefully a few stores as agencies on condition that these make active efforts to push the sale of the stamps. Thus the organization hopes to make the agency privilege a real distinction in each community.

To this end, the war savings organization has undertaken to answer such questions as these:

Are people in a certain industry or locality most likely to buy stamps from their grocery stores or from a drug store which is open at night?

Are restaurants and candy stores effective agencies?

What sort of store in a small city is most likely to attract buyers after the postoffice is closed?

If department stores are made agencies to reach women, in what department or in what aisle location should the stamp-selling booth be located?

What sort of stores are best thrift stamp-agencies for children?

What kind of downtown stores are best agents for men.

"It is realized, of course," says a war savings statement, "that banks, building loan associations, and such agencies to which people naturally go with money are excellent sales agents, and school-boys are admirable selling points for children. But the savings directors want to make certain that adults in residential and industrial neighborhoods can secure stamps conveniently at the hours best suited to them and in connection with their usual trading activities.

"The number and location of agencies per thousand of population is being carefully considered, as the treasury does not wish to split up the stamp business to such an extent that the business of each agency will be too small to be of any advertising benefit to the agent."

LEMONS WHITEN THE COMPLEXION

Any Woman Can Make Up This Creamy Beauty Lotion for a Few Cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one could pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach a darkened skin and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.—Adv.

Canning Meat.

The women of Rutland county, under the supervision of the home demonstration agent, have canned 1,200 pounds of meat during the past winter. It seems fair to assume this has been largely done by farmers' wives, as the agents work with that class. It is claimed this amount of meat bought as needed during the summer would cost $300 more than it has, put up in cans.

While 1,200 pounds of meat is quite an amount, it seems like a small amount for a county as large as Rutland to have in store for summer use. It is about one-half pound per person throughout the county and that is a small amount of meat per person to have in store.

Looked at in another way, the result seems larger. This is a beginning in the art of preserving fresh meat for summer use and is a good beginning. Its success will doubtless lead to a much more general adoption of the method and in one or two more seasons develop into large proportions.

This would be very desirable on account of the economy it makes possible in the home. Meat can be purchased in quantities that should make it cheaper per pound and by canning the different parts of a quarter of beef the consumption of the cheaper portions can alternate with that of the choicer and more expensive cuts. Village and city women can adopt the canning of meat to good advantage and make economy and food supplies greater, and the use of meat in its most attractive condition more general. Here's hoping that the industry of home preservation of meat is in its infancy and that it will enjoy a long and useful life.—Brattleboro Reformer.

NEW ARMISTICE NOT ARRANGED

By General Smuts Between Hungary and the Entente Powers

BRITISH RESIDENTS LEAVE BUDAPEST

American Wives of Hungarians Are Also Leaving the Capital

Budapest, Sunday, April 6 (By the Associated Press).—While General Jan Christian Smuts, who was sent here by the peace conference at Paris, had authority to arrange a new armistice between Hungary and the entente powers, it appears that he did not do so before his departure this morning.

British residents of the city will leave for Paris by way of Vienna on Saturday. With them will go the American wives of Hungarians, who will be permitted to take with them their money and effects. The government seems to be doing everything possible in favor of Americans and other foreigners.

HAS GIVEN UP HOPE THAT EX-CZAR LIVES

Former Grand Duke Alexander of Russia Does Not Believe That Nicholas Is Living, But the Dowager Empress Still Clings to Idea He Does.

Paris, April 7 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—"I am not here as a grand duke," said former Grand Duke Alexander of Russia to the Associated Press recently. "I know very well that such things do not exist any longer. I am of the opinion, however, that there will be an aristocracy in the world—if not that of birth, then of intellect and education—the aristocracy of gentlemen."

"I have given up all hopes of ever seeing my nephew, the emperor," he added. "When I left Crimea I still entertained some hope that he might be alive, but now even that hope has died. There is only one member of the family who persists in clinging to the hope that he is alive—the dowager empress. She has made a vow not to leave Russia until the demise of her son is established beyond a shadow of a doubt, and I do not dare to shatter her last illusions."

The former grand duke spoke feelingly, with apparent effort, to express his emotion of the execution of his two brothers in Petrograd when they were led out from Peter and Paul fortress and shot down without semblance of a trial on Jan. 29, 1919.

"The Bolshevik would never have dared to do this unless strengthened by the semi-recognition afforded them by the proposal to meet the delegates of the entente at Prinikopos Islands," he concluded.

HARDWICK

J. G. Austin was home from his work in Plainfield over Sunday.

The Daughters of Pocahontas held a successful masquerade promenade and dance at the K. of C. hall last Friday evening. There were about a hundred present and nearly 60 were masked.

Mrs. Florence McGuire, who has a fine position in the girls' department in the state industrial school at Vergennes, was at home here over Sunday.

M. W. Jennings arrived home last Saturday night from the Fanny Allen hospital in Burlington, where he has been for several weeks. His health is improving slowly.

Ernest Marshall cut one foot quite badly last Saturday while chopping some wood at his home on Cherry street, cutting a gash about two inches long and hitting the bone. He is going with a limp now but the wound will soon heal.

A petition has been presented to the clerk of the incorporated village of Hardwick, said petition being signed by the requisite number of voters, asking for a special meeting at an early date for the following purpose: To see if the village will amend its by-laws, or adopt additional by-laws, regulating the storage within said village of gasoline, kerosene and other inflammable or explosive materials. This meeting will be held in about ten days and is one that should call out a representative number of voters, and was brought about by the fact that it is understood that the Standard Oil company is trying to buy the Holton property on Church street for placing its tanks thereon and the voters claim that this would be detrimental to that section of the village, especially to the residents.
