Once more the merry jingle of the phone.

Let every Barre person keep that $300,000 goal before him or her until the entire amount is subscribed.

We read that 278 royal personages in Germany were toppled over by the revolution. That would be considered a good score in bowling for a single frame of the big pins.

One of the lesser reasons why the fifth Liberty loan ought to be subscribed quickly is to give encouragement to Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass, who is making his first attempt to perform a difficult task.

General Pershing's "own" band ought to prove a powerful incentive toward boosting the Victory loan wherever the people are privileged to hear the organization. It is unfortunate that the band cannot cover more territory than the allotted time allows for.

Editor Barre Times: I would like to inquire through your paper if the subscribers will be expected to pay for the use of their telephones through the strike.

Time will tell; and the time will be shortly after the May 1 bills are sent out by the company. That's as near as we can state at the present time.

Those who are planning to go to Boston during the latter part of the present week in order to witness the parade of the 26th division would do well to engage accommodations before leaving home, for the hotels and rooming houses of Boston are likely to be crowded as they have not been crowded in a great many years. With all New England pouring its people into the city, the accommodations are sure to be used up; and only those who engage ahead can be certain of getting places.

One might be pardoned for asserting that it was a rather flimsy statement emanating from Washington, D. C., to the effect that the postoffice department was not cognizant of the conditions in the New England telephone strike because of the fact that the strike of the telephone operators held up the information. Even if the telephone service was practically at a standstill, there was the telegraph system still available for communication between Boston and Washington, so that there really was little excuse for the alleged lack of information on the part of the officials of the postoffice department. Had there been a determined disposition to know what the real conditions were in New England in relation to a branch of industry controlled by a government department it would have been easily possible to gain that information in other ways, too, besides using wire communication; and one of those ways would have been to send a competent representative to New England without waiting for emissaries of New England to go to Washington to present the situation, not necessarily from the standpoint of the strikers but from the standpoint of the general public.

THE END OF THE TELEPHONE STRIKE.

The settlement of the telephone operators' and allied unions' strike comes at a time when the situation was getting at an acute stage, and it will, therefore, be gladly welcomed all over New England. Business which had been enabled to run along on its own momentum, albeit in uncertain manner, was beginning to slow down to such an extent that complete stoppage was threatened. Half a week more and there would have been an almost complete paralysis of many businesses, with attendant losses, inconveniences and, perhaps, suffering. The impaired or restricted service was throwing the whole commercial life of New England out of joint, the situation this morning showing how much we have come to depend upon the telephone for our daily business life. So there will be general rejoicing that the difficulties have been straightened out and that the service will be restored to its normal condition.

But this season men's suits are also made to produce an effect—of sprightliness, of cheerfulness with zip-zip-zip.

That the girl operators in the Boston district, and presumably in the whole of New England, are to receive some increases in pay will be heard with satisfaction by a large number of people, people who have thought for a long time that the minimum allowance, as well as the maximum, was too low for the grade of service required in this work and for the standard of living in New England.

Reason No. 8 — "Why we advertise National Bank Protection for your Savings"

Loans

National banks are not allowed to loan to any individual, firm or corporation more than 10 per cent of the capital and surplus of the bank.

Loans on real estate are limited to 50 per cent of the actual value of the property at the time the loan is made, and the fact that the loan meets this requirement must be certified on the note itself by an officer and director of the bank.

All loans are passed upon by the board of directors and approved at their regular meetings.

The strength and service of any bank depends very largely upon the sound judgment and discretion exercised in the extension of loans, and in this connection we would say that it has always been with a feeling of our great responsibility as a trustee of the public's money, a responsibility which we are keenly sensible of, that the funds of this bank have been invested.

In our next advertisement we shall consider "Investments," and particularly bond investments, and what classes of this particular security your money is placed in.

COAL FACTS

No. 1

This announcement is one of a series run by the coal merchants of Barre.

Last year for patriotic reasons consumers placed their orders with us promptly after April 1st, and about 66 2-3 per cent of all of the coal consumed for domestic purposes in Barre was in the homes by October 1.

The great war has come to an end. We enter upon a reconstruction period.

It is still absolutely necessary to stabilize conditions.

We urge consumers to place their orders now and accept delivery in fair quantities as soon after April 1 as possible.

The many vital reasons will be presented in our future announcements.
