"The Store Where Quality Counts"

Ready to Tell You "Good Morning" the First Thing Tomorrow Are the New

Wirthmor Waists at $1.50

— These are the blouses that more than live up to the name given them and have set a standard of quality, coupled with real beauty, that has not been equalled in the World of Blouses.

— With the

Wirthmor at $1.50

have come those smartly fashioned

Welworth Blouses at $2.50

— Made by the same manufacturer and fully as unusual in value at the price as is the Wirthmor at $1.50.

— New models that are just a bit in advance of the times, for they are but twelve days from the designer.

— Designed, made, shipped and ready for their first showing here in that record time.

— Too charming for words, that's what they are — each with its own dash of novelty in the way of cleverness in trimming and dainty stitchery.

— This is the only store in the city that has these splendid blouses, and when we secured the exclusive representation for Wirthmor and Welworth, we felt that it was a mark of prestige — shared equally by the manufacturers and ourselves.

MONTPELIER

Bernie Pecor Put in County Jail on Forgery Charge.

Bernie Pecor of Waterbury was committed last night to the county jail to await trial in county court. Pecor is alleged to have been the companion of DeForge, who was arrested last Thursday on the charge of forging checks which were taken from the Union Granite company's office the preceding Saturday night. It was known there were two of them in the job but Pecor's name was not given out until he was arrested and Monday evening at Waterbury he was charged with burglary and forgery and was bound over to county court, going to jail in place of bail. This morning it was expected that the state's attorney would file information against the pair in county court during the day.

The employees in the road department at the State House on Monday afternoon received news of the death of Patsy Donahue at East Haven, where he had been ill for a short time. Mr. Donahue had been employed on state road work in recent years a great deal and was one of the best road builders in the state. He had charge of the construction of the road between Island Pond and Norton, and last summer on the new construction of the Smugglers Notch road. He leaves a wife and at least two sons, one of whom, Dale Donahue, works in the highway.

The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon.

State Highway Commissioner S. B. Bates is in Grand Isle county to-day looking over roads in that section. Reports to him are that the roads are fast getting into shape but that the heavy rains of the last few weeks have greatly impaired them in some sections of the state.

This is the first of the cross roads from North Randolph to Randolph, which is well nigh impassable.

Mrs. Mary Badger of Middlesex died during the night at the home of Edward Foster in Moretown after a few days' illness. Death was due to a shock. She was the wife of Henry H. Badger and they had lived in Middlesex Center for a great many years. Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Bertha Osgood of Montreal. The funeral will occur at 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon from her late home.

said to be, according to The Chronicle, one of the best records made by any reserve officer in the war. Colonel Berry first attracted attention of his superiors in the Argonne drive, when he commanded a score of heavy trucks, hitched tractors to them and loaded these with wounded men, carrying them back. This was during a retreat that was being made. With this heavy equipment he sent his trucks over fences, ditches and everything else. He built two bridges on the way back with his wounded soldiers. Hundreds of wounded were carried to evacuation hospitals in this manner. Captain Retroad, chaplain of the 91st division, believes that Colonel Berry's greatest exploit was in Belgium. He was moving back many wounded when he learned that four men had been left where a barrage was then falling. He ordered an ambulance driver to turn back and go after these four men. The driver hesitated and Colonel Berry grabbed the wheel himself and drove off with just one man for protection, making the round trip, getting his men and returning without a scratch. Colonel Berry will be recalled with much pleasure by former students of Goddard and with much admiration by athletes of teams that played against Goddard, for he was a fast man in the different sports connected with the school.

Early entries at Middlebury and Rutland fairs show some horses from Barre and Montpelier will appear in the 2:18 pace on both tracks this fall. At Middlebury Anna Deen and Mae B., owned by A. W. Daly, appear, while Dr. Gains and Junior Dillard, owned by Dr. W. S. Page of Barre, also appear. These two horses also appear in similar classes at Rutland. Other Vermont horses that appear are: Three-year-old trot, Dolly Guy, by Belmont, Hartford; 2:20 trot, Queen's Own, Cohen agent, Judge M. Wheeler, Hartford; while Silver King is named in 2:09 and free-for-all at Rutland. There have been a large number of entries running from 13 to 25 per class.

Judge F. L. Fish, as the presiding judge of Orange county court, heard a petition brought by Archie Sanborn of Chelsea Monday afternoon in which the petitioner asks that the alimony order of $5, made in 1915 by Orange county court, be annulled. It appeared from the facts set forth that Eunice Sanborn obtained a divorce from Archie Sanborn in 1915 and the alimony order was made then. This money was paid for some time. Then Sanborn went to Claremont, N. H., where he married again. While there he went into the army and the government paid Eunice Sanborn $50. Sanborn, however, a year ago stopped paying alimony. Preceding this he had brought a petition or annulment of the order but delays occurred, so the petition was not heard until Monday. Recently Eunice Sanborn brought a petition asking the Orange county court to adjudge Sanborn in contempt of court for failure to comply with the order of Orange county court by failure to pay the alimony of $5 a week. It appears that Eunice Sanborn got most of the property in Chelsea at the time of the divorce. The decision in the matter was not announced.
