Corporal Harold Fitts of the 161st transportation guard service has received an honorable discharge at Camp Mills, N. Y., where he has been since his arrival from Bordeaux, France. Last May he left Barre with a contingent of 100 or more men and sailed for France with the 101st field artillery of the 78th division. After being transferred to several casual companies he finally became connected with the transportation guard and arrived with that outfit in New York on Decoration day.

A large gasoline tank with a capacity of 850 gallons will replace very soon the present tank of 550 gallons at the B. W. Goodfellow's garage on South Main street. With the tank came also a new pump with a slight improvement over the older and smaller one. A large electric light will adorn the topmost part of the pump at night. The older tank could not store a sufficient supply necessary to keep the south end tank ready to serve its customers. It will be laid in the place of the 550-gallon tank and work of changing the two is expected to be started Monday.

The first quarterly conference of the current year was held Thursday evening at the Hedding Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. E. W. Sharpe, district superintendent, of St. Johnsbury was the presiding officer. The report of the pastor brought out the excellent showing made by the church through the centenary campaign. The district superintendent announced that Hedding church was the first in the district to go over the top in the financial campaign, and the third in the entire conference. The reports from the various departments of church activities showed all to be in a flourishing condition. The estimating committee brought in a report, which was adopted, advising that the pastor's salary be placed for the coming year at $1,500, an advance of $200 over last year. The quarterly conference voted to send the pastor, Rev. B. G. Lipsky, and Mrs. Lipsky to the centenary exposition at Columbus, Ohio, some time between June 20 and July 13.

Charles McCarthy, son of Mrs. Mary E. McCarthy of 10 Summer street, arrived at his home last night after an absence of two years in Europe with the crew of the U. S. S. Chester, which only recently anchored in Charlestown navy yard. Seaman McCarthy set foot upon 10 different European countries at various times during his two years' cruising, and during that time collected coins as well as other souvenirs of each country. When the war broke out he enlisted from Montpelier and after the necessary training was stationed upon the Chester destined for extensive service. The crew of the Chester, 400 of the huskiest sailors any ship ever boasted of, consists of young men from many of the western states and yesterday, when Seaman McCarthy received his 15-day furlough, nearly everyone of the crew was handed a slip of white paper entitling him to the same period of absence, though these lads live in Oklahoma, Washington, Oregon and various far-away places. This is the first furlough they have been granted on American soil for most of their sailing kept them in the war zone. Probably as many as 300 of the crew hail from New England. The Chester left Rostyth, in the Firth of Forth, close to Scapa Flow, the day after Christmas. She slanted across the North sea, around Skagerrack and down the Cattegat to Copenhagen, when in a 24 hours' stop Crown Prince Axel of Denmark was entertained. From there she went to Sassnitz, Germany, the first American vessel to enter a port of that country since diplomatic relations were broken. Approaching this port lookouts saw seven mines floating on the surface not far off the beam. They tried to sink them with a rifle, but without success. Nobody went ashore. Later they entered other German ports in search of any Yankee prisoners that might be detained there, but to no avail. Of the 71,400 miles covered by this ship 53,000 of these kept them in the most dangerous war zone.

Special meeting of Odd Ladies and Odd Fellows of Manchester Unity in K. of C. hall, Monday night at 7 o'clock. A large attendance is requested. Business of importance.

MONTPELIER

Fire Alarm Box Was Mistaken for Post-office Box.

The Montpelier fire department was called out about 7:15 o'clock Friday evening because Will Manning made an effort to put his letter in the fire alarm box instead of the regulation mail box. The alarm was pulled from box 23, which is close to the Pavilion hotel, so a large crowd assembled. This is one of the boxes to which the hook and ladder truck responded, so that team was hitched when the "all out" was sounded. Manning, in telling of the affair afterwards, said that he found the outside door unlocked and having pulled that open he tried to get inside. He noticed the warning to pull down the lever and did so, with the result that four rounds of the system were made. Manning, when the department arrived, was the most upset man of the assembly. He was swatted on all sides, which he took good naturedly. Manning is employed at the Pavilion farm and admitted that he did not know much about fire alarm boxes, but claimed after the affair was over that he knew more about box 23 than when he started operations. After Chief Person had closed the box he again tried the outside door and Manning looked surprised that it did not ring the way it did when he pulled the alarm lever. He admitted that the inside of the box looked a little strange, but thought it might be some new invention that required the lever to be pulled down before he could put his letter in the box. The officers took his name, but probably no action for breach of city ordinance will be taken.

The matter was reported to the secretary of state's office a few minutes after the accident took place.

REAL MONEY TALKS.

A Manufacturer Makes An Ingenious Display. Realizing that interest tables are apt to be dry stuff, and that people are more easily interested in an exhibit of real money than by a display of figures, a manufacturer who seeks to promote habits of thrift among his employes, arranged an ingenious display in the cafeteria of his factory. Behind a glass frame were sixteen quarters, a dime and two pennies, under the legend "To-day." An arrow pointed from this money to another legend, "New Year's Day, 1924," with exactly sixteen quarters, a dime and two cents. Underneath the first arrangement of coins were sixteen thrift stamps, with a dime and two cents, then an equal mark, followed by a war savings stamp, and an arrow pointed to a $5 bill under the coins on the opposite side. "This was indeed a graphic way," says Mrs. F. L. Higginson, savings director for New England, "of showing the $4.12 in itself would not grow at all during five years, whereas invested in thrift stamps it will earn nearly another dollar."

Didn't Want to Know. "Do you realize, my friend," demanded the temperance crank, "how much liquor is made and consumed in this country every year?" "No sir, I don't," replied the red-nosed man, "and I don't want to know—it would make me feel sad to think what a small share of it I get."—Boston Transcript.
