Gate Receipts of Dempsey-Willard Fight About Half a Million

Toledo, July 7.—Rumors persisted to-day that Jess Willard was dead, dying of insanity from the effects of the pugilist's injury. Jack Dempsey gave him a July 4. The truth is that Willard intends to start on his motor trip to his home in Lawrence, Kan., as quickly as his cut and bruised eye is healed. The swelling responded to ice applications, and discolorations and a slight cut under the eye and at lip are the only remaining marks the former champion bears of the contest. Promoter Tex Rickard said to-day that while the official check of the total gate receipts had not yet been completed, he would be "surprisingly surprised" if they exceeded $500,000.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL POPULAR IN BRAZIL

In Fact, It Is About the Only Outdoor Sport to Which the Brazilians Have Taken with Enthusiasm.

Rio de Janeiro, July 7 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Association football is the popular outdoor sport of Brazil. In fact, it is virtually the only outdoor sport to which the Brazilians have taken with much enthusiasm. There is some interest in tennis, swimming and rowing, but football is to the younger generation of Brazil what baseball is to the people of the United States. Brazilians are not interested in baseball.

The game was adopted in Brazil about 15 years ago. Interest awakened by the games played by the British residents was quickened by the return of Brazilian youths from school in England. A few of them joined the British teams and later formed clubs of their own. To-day there are as many clubs in Rio de Janeiro as there are in the large cities of the United States. All are amateur organizations and many leagues exist in this city under the supervision of the "Metropolitan de Desportos Terrestres." The clubs of the entire country are governed by the "Confederacao Brasileira dos Desportos."

City, state and national championships are held and then an "all-star" team is picked to represent Brazil in the annual series for the championship of South America, other countries participating being Chile, Argentina and Uruguay.

This international championship has been held three times only, beginning in 1916 in Buenos Aires with Uruguay victorious. In 1917 it was held in Montevideo and Uruguay again won. The 1918 series was postponed owing to the Spanish influenza epidemic in Brazil in October and did not take place until May, 1919, Rio de Janeiro being the city and the victorious team Brazil. The next series for the year 1919 will be held in Santiago, Chile, late this year. A plan to have the United States enter this championship has been frequently discussed here, with a view to making it an "All-American" affair.

In Rio de Janeiro, the Fluminense club with a membership of 3,000 recently constructed a half million dollar stadium and it was here that the recent championship games were played. With a seating capacity of 30,000, the stadium was filled for each of the six games.

From the viewpoint of the North American the striking feature at one of these games is in hearing the Brazilian "torcedores" or "rooters" use the English language. In adopting the game the English expressions were also accepted and the shrieks of "foul," "off-side" and "shoot the goal," coming from the lips of the Brazilians are always a source of much surprise to the North American seeing his first game.

Coblenz, Sunday, July 6 (By the Associated Press).—Individuals and the smaller units of the old 3d army are losing no time in getting out of Germany. All trains are crowded with casuals, and sleeping car reservations from Coblenz to Paris are booked a week ahead.

The 5th division began moving from Luxemburg Friday and the 4th division is scheduled to leave the Rhine sector Tuesday. Next scheduled to move homeward is the 2d division, due to leave the east bank of the Rhine July 15.

The officers' club, which played an interesting part in the history of the American occupation, was closed Saturday night. The club quarters were in the casino of a private German club, one of the finest on the Rhine. In the six months it was used by the Americans many notable persons were entertained,

Despite efforts not to make money, the club has 300,000 marks on hand, which will be divided between the Salvation Army and army relief associations handling funds for the families of enlisted men.

The Amaro News, the army's daily, will cease publication July 15, after an existence of three months. The newspaper made money from the beginning and will quit with a surplus of more than 250,000 marks, which also will be contributed to some charitable organization interested in army work.

Senor Bonillas said his instructions included efforts "to remove causes of misunderstanding between the United States and Mexico and bring about an era of good feeling." He has been in Mexico City conferring with President Carranza as to the situation between the two countries.

NATURALIZED GERMANS MAY BE PRESIDENT

German National Assembly Has Endorsed on That Matter—To Be Qualified the Candidate Must Be 35 Years of Age.

Weimar, Sunday, July 5 (By the Associated Press).—The German national assembly is still debating the new constitution and has endorsed the article qualifying any male citizen, native or naturalized, who has attained the age of 35 for the office of president. The naturalization provision was included owing to the realignment of the German frontiers depriving many former German subjects of their nationality.

The constitution provides that the president shall be chosen by popular vote.

AMERICAN OARSMEN READY AT HENLEY

They Are All Physically Fit and Hopeful of Giving Good Account of Themselves—They Have a Strong, Slow Stroke.

Henley-on-Thames, July 7 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The United States oarsmen have now been at Henley for nearly six weeks training for the Henley "peace" regatta, their entries for which include an eight, a coxswainless four and two single sculls. They have pleasant quarters at "Green-croft," which is situated in the healthiest residential part of the town. They are all exceedingly fit and hopeful of giving a good account of themselves on the famous reach, where their compatriots so worthily upheld the best traditions of American oarsmanship in the memorable regatta of 1914.

The training has been conducted on methodical lines, which so far have been beneficial to the Americans. They have a strong, slow stroke, with less body swing than is apparent in the majority of British oarsmen, and Major Herman L. Rogers, the captain of the eight, is satisfied that his crew have developed pace and staying power.

The make-up of the eight underwent some alteration since the crew arrived from France, and the present order of rowing is as follows: Lieutenant Collis J. Coe (Yale), bow; Captain Royal Pullen (University of Washington), 2; Lieutenant J. Howard McHenry (Yale), 3; Lieutenant Harry Middendorf (Harvard), 4; Captain Louis Penny (California), 5; Major Herman L. Rogers (Yale), 6; Lieutenant J. Amory Jefferies (Harvard), 7; and Captain Douglas Kingsland (Cornell), stroke. Middendorf was in the Harvard eight that beat Boston in the final heat of the grand challenge cup in the 1914 regatta.

AMERICAN OARSMEN READY AT HENLEY

All the members of the crew were in the fighting on the western front, and one of the number, Lieutenant Jefferies, was wounded in the Champagne.

The crew for the coxswainless four, as at present arranged, are: Major Paul Withington (Harvard), stroke; Captain Charles D. Wiman (Yale); Lieutenant J. R. Breiting (Pennsylvania); Lieutenant E. S. Dillon (Princeton), bow. Both the eight and the four have been coached by Major Paul Withington, who has entered for the single sculls. He was an unsuccessful competitor for the diamond sculls in 1914. The members of the crew speak in very appreciative terms of the hospitable reception accorded to them in Henley, and they greatly value the facilities afforded them by the Henley Golf club for playing on the links. The Leander club, too, has extended to them a very cordial welcome. Captain Charles D. Wiman is the officer in charge of the United States army rowing, but his duties in connection with the organization of rowing events in France and occupied German territory did not permit him to devote all his time to Henley.

MURAD

THE TURKISH CIGARETTE

"A ROSE by any other name would smell as sweet"—but cigarettes of any other tobacco than Turkish don't smoke as enjoyably.

The reason Murads are demanded by thousands of smokers is that they are made of 100% pure Turkish tobacco—the world's most famous tobacco for cigarettes—and so conceded.

That is why many manufacturers boast of even a dash of Turkish tobacco in their brands.

It is true that "ordinary" cigarettes cost a trifle less.

Judge for yourself—!
