

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

Lightning a few days ago struck a cow belonging to Mrs. Melroe of Fairlee, breaking one of its legs so it had to be shot.

Harry Coombs of Ira, while in the hayfield, came across a mud turtle that he and another lad caught and marked 12 or 13 years ago.

Mrs. Carrie Page of Brandon, who died a few days ago, by her will left to the Congregational church of Ludlow the sum of $500. She was a member of the Ludlow church.

Thirty-four descendants of Samuel Aaron Brownell of Williston, who died in 1850, gathered a few days ago at the Brownell homestead in that town for the annual reunion.

Charles Haskins and John H. Strong found a large trout, dead, in the river at Baldwin bridge, Bradford, Sunday. The old fellow was 23 inches long and weighed four pounds and 10 ounces.

The Orchard Park hotel at Manchester has been bought by William W. Benson and James T. Brown, manager and assistant manager, respectively, of the Worthy hotel in Chinopee, Mass., and will be operated as a summer hotel.

Oswald Brown had a belated Fourth of July at his home in Everts a few days ago, when he took a bottle of gunpowder and set fire to it, resulting in a trip to a doctor, who removed numerous pieces of glass from his feet and legs. His fingers were also badly cut.

Someone shot and killed a heifer in a pasture used by William Miller of Mendon recently and cut the animal up for meat, the head, hide and entrails having been found scattered about in different places. A tag bearing the name of the Rutland Fire Clay company, whose pasture adjoins Mr. Miller's, was found in one ear.

Frank Lavalla, a driver of a truck for a Montgomery Center firm, was considerably injured and the truck was destroyed July 23 at a North Berkshire crossing, when the truck was struck by a train from Richford. A view of the truck was cut off at that point and the engine struck the front end of the truck and threw Mr. Lavalla some distance into a field. His condition is favorable.

Work on the School street hill in Belows Falls having been completed, the financial part of it is being considered. The job was begun over a year ago with S. J. Carr in charge and he estimated the cost not to exceed $1,000. The completed job includes cement stairs from "the square" to School street and cement curbing in front of the Baptist church and Caroline Arms' residence. The present estimate places the cost at about $10,000.

Miss Agnes Bryant of Chester lost her life in Whalom lake, near Leominster, Mass., last week in some unexpected manner. When last seen alive she was walking through water not much higher than her waist toward the shore, the rest of the party going to the bath house and not knowing of her absence until her body was found on the bottom of the lake in eight feet of water. She was an expert swimmer and a teacher of physical culture. At least 150 people were within call and no one heard an outcry. Two girls in a canoe, looking over the side, discovered the body.

RUNAWAY CUT WIDE SWATH.

Injured Four Persons, Stepped on Another, Smashed Plate Glass Window.

Burlington, July 26.—Four persons were injured, two thrown from a rig, another hurt and a spectator was stepped upon, a street car, automobile and wagon were damaged and a plate glass window smashed when a horse at the head of a light racing rig ran wild through Church street yesterday.

The horse was attached to a light carriage driven by Alfred Goodrich, a jockey of this city, and becoming frightened by the street car broke loose from the driver and started at breakneck speed down Church street. Both Mr. Goodrich and a young lad with him were thrown into the street, while still another boy hung to the carriage and took a mad ride through crowded traffic to the store of C. H. Bessey, where the animal, running upon the sidewalk, threw himself after crashing in a plate glass window of the store.

With only a light carriage behind him, the horse, a large animal, tore through the vehicles on Church street with the carriage swinging from side to side and Hurd Ur, a young boy who was riding, clinging desperately to the horse's tail and dashboard. In its mad carroming down the street the light rig struck a street car, which swerved it almost completely about, but failed to dislodge the one passenger. Further along running too close to the automobile of O. L. Hinds, the rig rode completely up over the rear mudguard, smashing and twisting it badly. Still further along the wagon of Ryan's market was struck and one wheel bent and the crossbar smashed.

Throughout the entire chase the boy who was not thrown to the ground clung to the rig while hundreds of people expected to see him thrown out and killed. Slowed up by the frequent collisions and running finally up onto the sidewalk where a number of men seized him before he could rise, the animal crashed into the window of Bessey's store and sustained cuts on his flanks and rear hoof.

MONEY REFUNDED

To St. Albans Storekeepers Who Failed to Affix Revenue Stamps.

St. Albans, July 26.—Fifteen storekeepers of this city, who nearly a month ago paid $5.00 each to an internal revenue collector because they had failed to affix revenue stamps to the boxes of coffee drops they had sold, were surprised Thursday when their money was refunded to them by the government.

Just what the explanation for the refund of the money is no one attempts to say. Strictly speaking, those probably is no doubt that the internal revenue man was within his legal rights when he made the levy upon the local storekeepers, but perhaps it was thought that the government, like the private individual, sometimes finds strict enforcement of law poor business policy.

STOLEN AUTO RECOVERED

Machine Taken at Mountain Mills Found in Massachusetts.

Brattleboro, July 26.—Sheriff Frank L. Wellman, who left on a trip to Massachusetts Tuesday after conferring with State's Attorney E. W. Gibson relative to the theft of a Buick automobile from Arthur J. Demers' garage at Mountain Mills, was notified yesterday by Capt. King of the Boston police force that the car had been recovered. The message came by telephone.

It is expected that the capture of the men who stole the machine will be accomplished shortly, as their identity is known, according to the officials.

Sheriff Wellman traced the machine to a garage in Hyde Park, Mass., and laid lines for its recovery. Mr. Demers is in Canada, having gone there with his wife to visit, but State's Attorney Gibson notified him of the recovery of the machine and it is expected that he will come here at once and he and Sheriff Wellman will go to Boston after it.

Mr. Demers, who is superintendent in the Deerfield Pulp company's mill at Mountain Mills, in the town of Wilmington, came here last Monday and notified State's Attorney Gibson that his Buick had been stolen from his garage. He put the car in the garage a week previous and did not go near it for a week. Then he found that the staple used in locking the door had been removed, the screws being taken out, and the car had disappeared. He thought it was taken soon after being locked up, but Sheriff Wellman thinks the theft was of more recent date.

NEW STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

Proposal to Utilize Old House of Correction Buildings Considered.

Rutland, July 26.—State Superintendent of Education Milo B. Hilligan of Montpelier, James Hartness of Springfield, Luther B. Johnson of Randolph and Marvella C. Webber of this city, comprising the state board of education, and B. C. Douglass, Dr. Hilligan's secretary, and H. T. Ladin, Mr. Hartness' secretary, met at the Berwick in Rutland yesterday to go over various routine matters which come before the board.

One item which greatly interests Rutland was an inspection of the buildings belonging to the state, from which the house of correction was recently moved, and which the state is desirous of utilizing for some other purpose.

It has been thought possible that the plant might be used at the site of a state normal school but no definite plans as to the matter have yet been formulated.

Mr. Hartness said to-day in this connection: "It has been suggested that the house of correction buildings might be used for a normal school and we held our meeting in Rutland to look into the proposition but the plans are so remote that no action was taken by the board."

MILK PRICE GOES UP.

Producers at Brattleboro Announce Raise Effective Aug. 1.

Brattleboro, July 26.—Milk producers in this locality were notified yesterday by a committee of their organization, chosen recently to make a survey of the milk situation and fix a price for milk and cream, that they had decided to make the minimum price to producers nine cents a quart for milk and 55 cents a quart for cream, that is, the farmers are to receive this amount from the distributors or peddlers at the point of delivery, such place to be agreed upon between the producer and distributor.

The new schedule is to go into effect Friday, Aug. 1, and it is probable that before that time the distributors will get together and decide upon a new price to consumers. Whether this will be one or two cents is a matter of speculation, but there is a feeling that there would be more justice in advancing the retail price one cent, to cover the extra price charged by the producers, than there would be in any larger increase.

At present the farmers receive from the distributors seven and three-fourths cents, eight cents or eight and one-fourth cents, and for cream 45 cents to 50 cents, the price depending upon the location.

NERO'S FIDDLE IN BERLIN.

Human Nature Exhibited in the New Burning of Rome.

"The German illustrated press," we are told, "gives pictures of life in Germany that differ very little from those published in France and England"—pictures of tennis tournaments, boat races, horse races, and picnics. It may surprise us, but it is what we ought to expect. Human nature can never concern itself with the momentous, whether it be good or evil, for long at a stretch. If there is death in the house 'tis inmates, by a kind of instinct, talk as much as they can of trivial things; and a bridegroom on the morning of his marriage is wise to think as little as he can of it. The few who can incessantly concern themselves with the momentous are either men of genius or madmen who have been driven mad by their unrelaxed concern; the many must always keep their sanity by the persistence of habit through all vicissitudes and particularly by the habit of amusement. The Chinese, as we know, enjoy life because they hold it cheap. It is an absurd business, they think, but worth living by those who know that it is absurd and are ready to lose it for a trifle yet while it lasts they can throw themselves into work and play as eagerly as anyone. They carry this view of life further than other peoples, yet all, consciously or unconsciously, share it. And that is why amusement, and all trivialities persist always, through the break up of the Roman empire and the ruin of Germany. The whole human race, and not Nero only, fiddles while Rome is burning; we are never adequate to our greatest triumphs or calamities. This fact may give the cynic a text, but he, too, is an instance of it; he himself in his sniggering over the incredible littleness of humanity is as little as those at whom he sniggers. If he were not he would weep or rage, like Swift. But the cynic is always one who judges without psychology, and so never includes himself in his judgments.

Psychology—that is to say, the power of understanding others from our understanding of ourselves—tells us that men must relax the tension, and that most of them do so unconsciously by keeping up the habits of ordinary life through the greatest events. It is only the prig who reminds himself incessantly that he is passing through a crisis and must think, act and feel in a manner worthy of it. Men of sense know that their behavior in a crisis is the result of their whole way of living; they trust in their unconscious reserve power and will not exhaust it by too much conscious effort. Hence our English habit of humor on all great occasions. It is an effort to give our reserve power free play, and also an acknowledgment of the fact that we ourselves are never to be taken too seriously, even by ourselves. On those terms alone can we live well and throw ourselves without exhaustion into the task of the moment. The German has always taken this life, and so himself and all his theories, too seriously; but even in him at this dreadful moment the deep human instinct asserts itself. He, too, must fiddle while Germany is burning.

Would Have Given Him Pause.
