

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

Miss Besse Crosby has been chosen as school nurse in Burlington for the coming year.

Milk prices in Burlington have gone up one cent. The public is to pay 14 cents a quart and the retailer 12 cents.

Camp Abnaki has had an exceptionally full season so far, there being 157 boys in camp now, with a long waiting list.

The Hinesburg canning kitchen has proved a great success. Three hundred and sixty jars of vegetables have been canned so far.

Frank A. Norcross, for 24 years an expressman in the city, has left our town to go to the States.

By the terms of the will of John Frederic Audet, late of Winooski, the parochial school of St. Francis Xavier's church in that place will receive the sum of $3,955.80.

P. S. Uford of Hyde Park arrived in Middlebury today to assume the duties of treasurer of the new Addison County Trust company, Inc.

Miss Maude E. Thurber, who has been assistant to Rev. Clark T. Brownell, pastor of the Baptist church in Brattleboro, has resigned, to take effect Sept. 1.

The Thayer school in Burlington is to be discontinued the coming school year and the 16 pupils there are to be transferred to the Lawrence Barnes school.

Beginning Aug. 1 the price of ice took a jump in Brattleboro, going up five cents a hundred pounds to retail.

While engaged in washing the walls of the Maple Syrup company's factory in Essex Junction with muriatic acid Friday, Myron Hazard and Leroy Anthony were thrown 15 feet to the ground by the breaking of the staging on which they were standing.

Theresa, three-year-old daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. F. F. Kehoe of Burlington, is recovering from injuries received when she fell from a second story window of her home, striking on her head on the asphalt pavement.

A large Pierce-Arrow limousine belonging to Mrs. Clinton Backus of New York went into Jones pond in Brandon one evening last week and quickly settled into the mud, which was very deep.

WOMAN SUES HER FATHER.

Middlebury Graduate Claims Beatings and Imprisonments.

Brattleboro, Aug. 4.—Service was made Saturday by Sheriff Frank L. Williams on John B. Dunton in a suit brought by Dunton's daughter, Miss Carrie Dunton, to recover $10,000 for alleged beatings and imprisonments.

Miss Dunton won one of the Austin prizes for scholarship in the Brattleboro high school and worked her way through Middlebury college. She alleges that on numerous occasions in the last few months on dates which she gives, her father beat her with a heavy strap with ring and buckle attached, and that her stepmother, Mrs. Minnie Dunton, beat her with a stick having a five-inch metal band, threw her to the floor and otherwise ill-treated her.

After one beating Miss Dunton's life was despaired of, she declares. "One day she ran to the room of her sister, Mrs. Frank Wadbury, and her father went after her. She alleges that the next day he imprisoned her in a room and kept her there three days. She says her stepmother later imprisoned her 16 hours. She is now in her sister's home.

Dignifying Jobs.

School janitors, by enactment of our board of education, are now to be known as "custodians." This is not to save the feelings of teachers resentful that they should be paid less than janitors. It is to "lend greater dignity" to the position (not job) and "improve the morale" of the incumbent. The conquest of "domestic assistance" over "cook" or "hired girl" proceeds apace. Easterners who speak of serfdom as "char-women" are not Anglomaniacs, but simply solicitors of the "morale" of these workers—though a Londoner would wonder whence the increased dignity was derived. If you want to insult a funeral director, call him an undertaker. The minimum inability of human beings to call a spade a spade extends through the whole range of our speech. Pot-houses become saloons and, when that word grows malodorous, cafes; insane asylums become infirmaries and then hospitals or homes, reformatories become industrial schools. Sometimes the euphemism is justifiable, but it is hardest to justify in the field of occupations. Citizens of this democracy like to talk of the innate dignity of labor; they like to see photographs of the president shaking hands with a brakeman; they resent any airs of the white-collar employee, and then they turn around and call janitor "custodians."—New York Evening Post.

REVENUE DISTRICTS SEPARATE

Vermont to Be by Itself, with Offices in Burlington.

Burlington, Aug. 4.—After this month, Vermont will be an internal revenue district by itself, instead of being included in the New Hampshire district. Headquarters will be established in this city, in the federal building, with a score of collectors and office assistants, under James E. Kennedy of Essex Junction, who was nominated for the position last week by President Wilson.

The establishment of the Vermont district office will mean that thousands upon thousands of dollars of revenue money that is annually paid by Vermonters which heretofore has been sent to the New Hampshire district's headquarters at Portsmouth, N. H., in charge of Seth W. Jones, will now be paid to the Vermont district office in Burlington and thence to the department in Washington. It will be a boon for Burlington and for Vermont as well, and in all probability will mean that a half dozen Vermont men now working at Portsmouth will be transferred to their home state for duty with the new district.

Divorcing of the state of Vermont from the New Hampshire district, to have her established as an independent district, was not accomplished without much protest from the powers that be in the New Hampshire district, and in the political circles of both New Hampshire and Maine. Several influential Vermont government officials paid a hasty visit to Washington several weeks ago and after a conference with Commissioner Roper came home with the assurance that the divorce would be granted and that the Vermont district would be speedily organized.

New Internal Revenue Officer in Vermont.

The creation of a new internal revenue office for Vermont has given the appointment of James E. Kennedy of Essex Junction to this important office will meet with general approval all over the state.

Mr. Kennedy has been active in state affairs for years. For the past three years he has been the Vermont member of the Democratic committee for two years was chairman of the state Democratic committee. In 1908 he was elected a state senator from Chittenden county and in 1910 represented the town of Williston in the state legislature.

Mr. Kennedy was active in war work, being chairman of the executive committee of the Chittenden county chapter of the Red Cross, and a member of the Vermont public safety committee.

Governor Clement sent Mr. Kennedy to the highway congress at Chicago last December and the report he made attracted the attention of all Vermonters interested in better highways.

The new office of internal revenue collector will be located in the federal building at Burlington and it is expected will be in operation within a few weeks.

Boys' and Girls' Exhibits at the Vermont State Fair $1,148 in Prizes.

A new department has been established this year in the Vermont state fair for boys and girls. The premium list just issued offers on pages 78-85, a total of $1,148 in prizes, distributed among 132 classes. These are arranged in 14 exhibit groups—home garden products, home canned foods, pigs, poultry, potatoes, corn, cooking, sewing, maple sugar, home and farm handicrafts, picture-stories, demonstration teams, judging teams, special team prizes. The best two all-round teams will win a free trip to the eastern states exposition the following week. The prize winning exhibits will be sent to Springfield free of cost to exhibitor and returned to his home prepaid. There is no entry fee.

For information, address E. L. Ingalls, assistant superintendent, Burlington.

THE JAY SPAKE IN MEETING.

Jays Frequently Do, But This One the Parish Shot.

Some days since, the News has occasion to raise its editorial voice against the shooting of a bluejay which had interrupted the Sunday service of Rev. W. A. Wray of Sanderville, Ga. The editorial evidently drew blood, for we are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Wray, countersigned by the chairman of his board of deacons and his church clerk, which we cheerfully reproduce, as requested.

The letter is headed, "The truth about why and the way in which the jay bird was killed at the Baptist church on the 8th day of June," and reads:

"Before and after the Sabbath school every conceivable effort was made to put the bird out of the building, but the ceiling being so high this was impossible. As the squawking of the bird interrupted the work of the Sabbath school, it was thought best to remove it before the preaching hour. During the intermission a small gun was sent for which shoots a cartridge about the size of one's little finger, loaded with mustard shot. This gun was placed in an anteroom that it might be used as a last resort. The board continued to squawk as the pastor endeavored to read the scripture. It was then fully realized that the service must either be dismissed or the bird shot. The pastor then stated, 'The bird continued to shriek, he would have to shoot him, though he hated to do so. The minister did not go to his home after the gun, but opened the door of the anteroom, secured the gun and shot the bird, which was in the dome of the church. The bird was then removed by a deacon. There was no smoke from the gun, and very little noise, compared to a shotgun.'"

"The pastor afterward made his regular announcements, preached and took a large collection for Mercer university. On the following Sunday, June 15, the church in conference, by a unanimous rising vote, signified that the action of the pastor in the entire proceedings was correct and essential for the good of the church."

"We print this letter in order that it may become a footnote to the history of Georgia. We are glad that Mr. Wray hated to shoot the bird. We sympathize with the efforts of the deacons to capture a lively customer like a bluejay in a building with a high ceiling, without having any salt at hand. Moreover, we congratulate Mr. Wray on his marksmanship, in which so many members of the clergy are deficient.

"Summing up, we are glad that a state of civilization has been reached when the killing of a bluejay by a minister of the gospel becomes a news item, awakening such indignation, far and wide, that his church is impelled to go to the expense of a printed apology.—Rocky Mountain News.
