The opening of the state activities in the Knights of Columbus starts to-night when a group of 30 or more young men will be initiated in the lodge with the first degree work at the Knights of Columbus hall in the Scampini block. The drive in this city for members is reported as being very successful and John B. Kelly holds the record for securing candidates. He is credited with having proposed 50 applicants for membership, all of whom were accepted by the order, though ten were refused insurance policies. On Sunday, Aug. 31, a new council will be organized at White River Junction and there the three degrees will be administered that day. At Rutland a third degree initiatory will be held Sunday, Aug. 24, and at Barre, Sunday, Sept. 14. Councils all over the state are expressing satisfaction in regard to drives for more members, and the Barre council is among the leaders.

With a 16 months' service record to his credit, Julian Gale, son of Mrs. Julia Gale of 20 Church street, was honorably discharged Monday and arrived home yesterday with a wider knowledge of European geography and an enviable experience in the world war. It was in April of last year that he determined to join the colors and the American army, while employed in a machine shop in Norwich, Conn. His training consisted of three months at the Franklin Union Training school in Boston, a month at Camp Jackson, S. C., and one month of travel, which found him finally at Chateau-Thierry, France. He had sailed from Hoboken, N. J., in July, 1918, with a replacement unit and upon reaching the point of destination, was assigned to battery D, 305th field artillery, of the 77th division. On Sept. 13, which by superstitious people would seem to be a very unlucky day to enter into warfare, Private Gale took his first lesson in actual warfare with the artillery, which for two months, except for two days, was sending unwelcome messages, heralding death to the Huns. He narrowly escaped death several times and two instances stand out prominently in his little record book. He, together with a second lieutenant, was walking along in the vicinity of Labasse, France, when he heard the whizzing of a German 75 shell. He dropped to the ground in time to avert an injury, but his comrade was seriously injured by the impact of the piece of steel which struck his helmet, penetrating it slightly and inflicting a bad wound. Another time he, together with several other comrades, entered an old house to have a lunch and built a fire to warm the can of beans carried by him. Realizing that the smoke would attract the attention of the enemy they escaped just in time to get away to a safe distance and turned to see parts of two shells drop through the roof of the abandoned dwelling place. It was at Labasse that he witnessed a 20-minute aerial battle between an American and German machine. The two machines turned many times in mid-air, but a liquid fire ball from the American's aircraft gun settled all dispute when it penetrated the gas tank of his rival and demolished the machine completely, killing the daring pilot. On the 16th of November Private Gale was transferred to the 2d ammunition train of the 24 division that has for the past eight months been stationed in Neiderbeider, Germany, and on Aug. 4 he arrived in New York on the U. S. S. Finland. After visiting with his relatives in Norwich, Conn., he, together with his grandfather, Nelson Wheat, made the last long lap of the homeward journey.
