Pershing seems to have survived the first ordeal well. His head is still level.

To have received an alternating current of 44,000 volts and to be living after the experience is, indeed, something remarkable. Lieut. Col. D. H. Maury of Washington, D. C., a consulting engineer who was engaged in his line of work at Cavendish and who came in contact with such a force of electricity, may count himself a lucky man. But no more lucky than the Vermont man who, while standing on his own piazza watching a storm, was struck by lightning and escaped death, although he was somewhat burned. The freaks and vagaries of electricity are still perplexing notwithstanding that the constant use of the current is bringing people into understanding of its normal uses.

The new reservoir of water at the state fair grounds in White River Junction from which water was supplied to the fish exhibition tanks at the fair, will, of course, come in for a thorough examination now that the fish placed there for exhibition purposes have all died. It is fortunate that the water was diverted into the tanks to be occupied by the fish rather than into the drinking fountains to be utilized by human beings, although it is possible that the deadly effect on the fish would not be duplicated on human beings. In any event there would be a natural repugnance against drinking the water.

HONOR TO THE FIRST DIVISION.

The valorous first division of the American expeditionary forces in Europe received an ovation in New York City on Wednesday which was fully as fervid as any in the long line of welcomes extended to the returning soldiers. A tremendous crowd of people turned out to pay their respects to the division which was the first to reach foreign shores in response to the frantic appeal of the French nation and which was first in many other particulars in the time intervening to the present; and the applause which was accorded the soldiers must have conveyed to the minds of each and every one of the division that their part in the war is given full recognition at home. The first division was composed at the outset of professional soldiers to a great extent, men who had seen campaigning of the minor sort and who had been trained to the work, and the division upheld all the traditions of the regular army of the United States. It did its work well and it returns home to find the entire nation loudly acclaiming its fighting ability.

Lively patterns and a cheerful gaiety mark the colors of our fall furnishings.

It looks as if everybody intended to let themselves go a bit, not quite so set and conventional as before the war.

Neckwear is very expressive of the state of one's mind.

The new socks will also cheer up your feet.

Handkerchiefs that will brighten the facade of your suit.

RANDOLPH

Probably about fifty persons took the train here for White River Junction fair on Wednesday, and many others went by automobile to attend the fair.

Mrs. E. B. Watson and daughter, Miss Allie Watson, of Elgin, Ill., who have been several days here with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morse, left for their home on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mc Sargent of Trenton, N. J., was in town Wednesday on a short stay with friends and left for Lincoln, where she will visit relatives before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Emerson expect to go to White River Junction temporarily, as Mr. Emerson has found employment there for the present. As soon as rooms can be procured, they will take up their residence there.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Patch left early Wednesday morning for Boston, where they will attend to some business in the city and return home Sunday. John Patch, who has been here, left Friday for Claremont, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Patch took him along on the way to his home.

Harry Chase closed a week's vacation here on Wednesday and went to Boston to resume his work.

A daughter was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luce of School street.

Jehiel Holman, who has been here with relatives for several weeks, left Wednesday for his home in Arizona.

Mrs. Nellie Banyan and her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Smith, came on Wednesday and are the guests of Mrs. Marion Rumrill for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Spaulding of Washington, D. C., the guests of Lyman Hutchinson over Tuesday night, left on Wednesday for their home.

Mrs. Mary Bride Johnson of Chicago, after a week with her aunt, Mrs. Sarah Rogers, left on Wednesday for Rochester, where she will pass a few days before returning to her home.

Fern Rebekah lodge held its annual meeting with an average attendance on Tuesday night. In addition to the usual business, the lodge voted to give $75 more for the piano which was recently purchased by the local Odd Fellow lodge, and toward which the Rebekahs have paid $75 previously. They also voted to purchase new collars, and steps were to be taken immediately to get samples and prices. After the close, this being gentlemen's night, the gentlemen present served a lunch, doing the work themselves, and also entertaining the company by several amusing stunts, into which all entered heartily, and a happy time was the result.

F. H. Packard has been confined to the house for several days with a rheumatic trouble with one limb, which gives him much pain and obliges him to keep quiet.

Miss Mabel Guyette has gone to Columbus, O., to attend the national encampment with others from this place.

Dr. A. C. Bailey has so far recovered from his late illness, as to be able to down street, but is not strong enough yet to take up his practice.

Do You Buy Prices, or Shoes?

You've heard about the carpenter who bought cheap saw after saw because he broke so many he couldn't afford to buy a good one? There are a lot of people who buy shoes that way. Buying our Walk-Over Shoes is no extravagance, but very real economy. The many shapes fit you to a T. They fit you with coming, not going, style. And Walk-Over Quality holds the customers Walk-Over Style makes. These shoes have never been cheapened to sell at a price.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Wealth of Clever Lines in the Comedy "Nothing But Lies."

Truth unadorned, like beauty in the same plight, may sometimes lead to trouble, to grief and to jail. This is the moral pointed by "Nothing But Lies," the new Aaron Hoffman comedy, to be seen at the opera house on Friday, Sept. 12.

"Nothing But Lies" is in three acts and has to do with the happenings in an advertising office in which one of the partners begins flirting with the truth, because this is a habit with him, but his sweetheart mixes in and makes him promise to tell the truth. Then he begins to tell the truth—once or twice—and then has to lie throughout the entire three acts to get out of the hole into which he was hurled by his lapse into truthfulness.

The play has a wealth of clever lines and equally clever situations and interpreted by an exceptionally competent cast furnishes an evening's entertainment that is really enjoyable. Popular prices will prevail.—adv.

VAR-NE-SIS
 Conquers Rheumatism

People who are relieved of suffering are naturally grateful for relief. That's how Henry C. Hackett, postoffice clerk, Cambridge, Mass., feels. "I had rheumatic arthritis so bad I could walk only with difficulty. At the time I was delivering mail outside. I had dizzy spells, too, and would have to stop and lean on a fence. Var-ne-sis relieved me in a few weeks, and I am in perfect health to-day. I would be glad to have any afflicted person write to me, for Var-ne-sis has done so much for me." Var-ne-sis is in liquid or tablet form, $1.25 at druggist or direct. W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass.
