

NEW BEDFORD MILLS RUNNING

Pending Further Negotiations With the Cotton Manufacturers

THINK ADJUSTMENT WILL BE POSSIBLE

Only Nine of the 14 Unions Voted Last Night to Go on Strike

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 1.—Union textile operatives here, who threatened last week to strike to-day to enforce wage demands, remained at work pending further negotiations with the cotton manufacturers.

Major Charles S. Ashley brought the union and manufacturers' representatives into conference yesterday and after a second session, the manufacturers offered to continue negotiations to-day if the operatives would defer strike action.

While no definite compromise offer was made by either side, it was understood that both believed an adjustment of differences possible.

While the union operatives, who seek a 25 per cent wage increase, comprise but one-third of the number of workers in the mill, it was believed that many of the unorganized workers would have struck with the others.

FALL RIVER MILLS WERE ALL CLOSED

About 35,000 Operatives Were Involved in Great Tie-Up—No Disorder Reported.

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 1.—Virtually all the textile mills in this city employing 28,000 operatives, were tied up to-day by a strike for a 25 per cent increase in wages. The demands were made by six unions of the National Amalgamation of Textile Operatives, numbering approximately 7,000, and their leadership as has been the case in previous strikes, was largely followed by the unorganized workers.

The United Textile Workers of America, an organization which has about 3,000 members, announced that it would take no formal part in the strike, but early reports indicated that many of these operatives had remained away from the mills.

No disorder of any kind was reported. The police stationed at the mill gates found the strikers good natured and for the most part confident that they would soon be back at work. This hope was based on an announcement that the management would meet representatives of the textile council during the morning. There appeared to be a feeling that through mutual concessions, this conference would lead to the ending of the strike.

A few of the mills continued to operate some departments during the morning, although unions pickets reported that some operatives were quitting work constantly. At the big printing plant of the Fall River Iron Works, the Boston City mills and the Sagamore mills, operations were being continued in part.

RAILWAY SWITCHMEN CALL OFF STRIKE

Vote to Resume Work Was Taken at Kansas City Last Night.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 1.—The strike of railway switchmen here, which began Saturday, was called off by the strikers early to-day.

The ending of the strike, it was announced, followed a vote taken at a mass meeting of strikers which lasted until far into the night. The strikers will return to work at once.

When the Dew Is on the Corn.

The daylight saving law, a happy by-product of the war, was repealed by the voters of congress who explained their action as due to pressure from the farmer. Farm workers of to-day, we are told, will not be dragged into the fields while wheat and corn are still dripping with the dew.

ITALIAN ROYALTY WAS WELL RECEIVED

While Proceeding from the Quirinal to the Parliament Buildings To-day.

Rome, Dec. 1.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena were given an enthusiastic reception while proceeding from the Quirinal to the Parliament buildings this morning to participate in the morning session of the Italian Parliament. Houses were gaily decked along the street.

The king in his speech from the throne said that the confidence and sympathy of the nation were indispensable to the Parliament, as was national collaboration in all movements for the good of the people. Italy, he said, after her great victory must direct all her efforts to the works of peace.

The king began by greeting the heroes of the army and navy. The virtues and energies they had displayed during the war would serve to hasten the economic reconstruction, he said.

Italy through the war, continued the king, had gained her natural frontiers, but not all of her aspirations, he declared, were considered everywhere in a spirit of justice.

Italy regards with the liveliest sympathy the rise of the popular classes, said the king, who characterized the movement as one which should produce in the interior of the country a program of intensive work and production in connection with foreign politics, as increasingly democratic co-operation between nations.

NEWBERRY INDICTED FOR ELECTION FRAUDS

Accused with 133 Others for Corruption in the Michigan Senatorial Election.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 1.—Truman H. Newberry, United States senator from Michigan, was indicted by a Detroit grand jury Saturday for election frauds, conspiracy in connection with the election by which he obtained his seat in the Senate, defeating Henry Ford, his Democratic opponent.

With Newberry, 133 other persons were indicted by the grand jury on the same charges. The names of all but 33 most prominent were withheld from publication by Judge Clarence W. Sessions, presiding, until warrants could be served on them. Among those named were W. A. Hopkins of St. Clair, Mich., assistant secretary of the United States Senate; John S. Newberry, brother of the senator, Detroit, and Paul H. King of Detroit, King was manager of the Newberry campaign committee.

The others named were Allan E. Templeton of Detroit, president of the Newberry campaign committee; Frederick Smith, Detroit, manager of the Newberry estate; Charles A. Floyd, Detroit; Hart P. McKee, Detroit; Judd Yelland, Escanaba, Mich.; Milton Clark, Detroit, formerly county clerk of Wayne county; and Harry O. Turner, Detroit.

Judge Sessions indicated that the evidence before the grand jury disclosed the fraudulent expenditure of between $300,000 and $1,000,000 in connection with the election. Two blanket indictments were returned dealing with the primary and election campaigns of 1918, in which Henry Ford was Senator Newberry's chief opponent.

EMMA GOLDMAN TO BE DEPORTED

Losses on Appeal from Earlier Decision—Will Be Sent to Russia Probably.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Announcement was made Saturday night by Atty. Caminetti, the commissioner general of immigration, that the department of labor had Saturday ordered the deportation from the United States of Emma Goldman, anarchist and radical, and that she would probably be sent to Russia. Only a few days ago the department announced that it had affirmed Commissioner Caminetti's recommendation for the deportation of Alexander Berkman as an anarchist.

FOR LOWER LIVING COSTS.

Government Offers Food Through Mayors and Selectmen.

The zone supply officer, army supply base, Boston, has announced that there are vast stores of fresh frozen meats, consisting of beef, mutton, poultry and bacon, now being offered for sale to the public by the surplus property division of the United States army, through the mayors and selectmen of the cities and towns throughout the country, at prices which should reach the consumers far below those now being charged by retail dealers. It is the intention and desire of the government that these meats shall reach the people at such a price as to help reduce the cost of living, and no meats will be sold to be put in storage or for speculation or profiteering.

A representative from the zone supply officer, army supply base, Boston, has already called upon the mayors and selectmen of the principal cities and towns in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, advising them of the particulars and conditions of the sale, and it is now up to the people themselves to see that a share of these meats are purchased by their city government for local distribution.

All meats are of good quality and were government inspected for the use of the United States army. The prices quoted by the government make it possible for meats to be handled, and turned over to the ultimate consumer at a price far less than is now being charged.

The government will sell in addition to stores and municipalities buying committees, to butchers, jobbers, institutions, hotels and restaurants, without limit as to quantity, but meat must not be exported, or stored, to take advantage of rising market.

Full particulars can be had upon application to the office in charge of the surplus property branch, or to the zone supply office, at the army supply base, Boston.

JOE SHIMKUS LOOKING FOR MATCH

Wrestler Here Last Summer Back in Barre Ready to Meet Anyone.

Radium Minerals Are Near Granite

Radium Has Been Isolated Only Once or Twice and Few Persons Have Seen It.

Joe Shimkus, Lithuanian wrestling champion, who has met the majority of the middleweights of the world, is in Barre again, looking for a match with any man in the state. Shimkus, who was here last summer with the "carnival," weighs 165 pounds. During the past season he has met and defeated a number of good men in New England. He is the type of wrestler who wrestles all the way from the word go until he has conquered or been conquered by his opponent. He is also a believer in keeping himself in the best of condition at all times. Shimkus beat Jordan in Burlington Thanksgiving day, making the first fall in 45 minutes and the second fall in five minutes. In St. Albans Friday night, he wrestled C. E. Kelley and beat him in two straight falls, the first in 12 minutes and the second in nine minutes. After the match, another man beat Kelley and then challenged Shimkus, who took him on, beating him, getting the first fall in one and one-half minutes and the second in three minutes.

Commercial Form of Radium.

Radium is a metal and is described as having a white metallic luster. It has been isolated only once or twice, and few persons have seen it. It is ordinarily obtained from its ores in the form of hydrous sulphate, chloride, or bromide, and it is in the form of these salts that it is usually sold and used.

These are all white or nearly white substances, whose appearance is no more remarkable than that of common salt or baking powder. Radium, radium salts and radium minerals are not generally lustrous. Tubes containing radium salts glow because they include impurities which the radiations from the radium cause to give light.

Radium is found in nature in quantities so exceedingly small that it is never visible even when the material is examined with a microscope. Radium ore ordinarily carries only a small fraction of a grain of radium to the ton, and radium will never be found in large masses, because it is formed by the decay of uranium, which is itself wonderfully slow; and radium itself decays and changes to other elements so rapidly that it does not accumulate naturally in visible masses.

Second Industrial Conference Opened at Washington

ITS 17 MEN DRAWN FROM MANY WALKS

This Is Pres. Wilson's Effort to End Present Chaotic Condition

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Seventeen men, prominent in business and public life representing no particular group as such, but acting for the people as a whole, assembled here to-day to confer on the country's industrial situation. The conference, the appointment of which was announced from the White House Nov. 20, marks the second effort of President Wilson to devise means for settling the chaotic condition that have prevailed for months in industry. The opening session was set for 2:30 o'clock.

No form of procedure was set for the gathering and this will be determined by the conference itself. In the words of President Wilson the "new representatives should have concern that our industries may be conducted with such regard for justice and fair dealing that the workmen will feel themselves induced to put forth their best efforts that the employer will have an encouraging effect and that the public will suffer at the hands of either class."

Use of the Pan-American building was granted to the conference. Organized labor has expressed dissatisfaction with the personnel of the conference because of the fact that no labor men were named, although they claimed every other interest was represented.

The conferees, former federal and state officials, business men and economists, include: Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, Thomas W. Gregory, former attorney general; George W. Wickersham, New York lawyer; attorney general in Taft's cabinet; Oscar S. Straus, diplomat, lawyer and author; secretary of commerce and labor under Roosevelt; Frank Taussig, Washington, political economist, former college professor and chairman of the United States tariff commission; Samuel W. Hoar, lawyer, former governor of Massachusetts; Herbert Hoover, mining engineer, and former food administrator; Martin H. Glynn, Albany, newspaper man and former governor of New York; Stanley King, Boston lawyer, former member of national defense and assistant secretary of war; Richard Hooker, Springfield, Mass., newspaperman; H. C. Stuart, business man and former governor of Virginia; W. O. Thompson, Presbyterian minister and president of Ohio State university; and George T. Slade, St. Paul, railway man and lieutenant colonel with the A. E. F.; Julius Rosenwald, Chicago, merchant and philanthropist; O. D. Young, New York lawyer; Henry J. Waters, agricultural economist and former president of Kansas State college of agriculture; Henry W. Robinson, Pasadena, former member United States shipping board.

CUTTING CHRISTMAS TREES WISELY

Trees Should Be Taken from Groups Rather Than Isolated Trees.

A particularly appropriate opportunity to display the Christmas spirit, according to officials of the forest service of the United States department of agriculture, is the manner in which persons getting Christmas trees direct from the forests cut the evergreens for their holiday celebration. Each year thousands of dwellers in towns and cities, near the national forests or privately owned forests, turn to these tracts for trees which are to be the central features in Yule-tide decorations. Where the trees are cut in accord with the recommendations of the forest service no harm is done, but the tendency of many is to slash into the growth without regard to conserving the forest's resources.

The point particularly emphasized by the government's foresters is that a tree selected for cutting should be one which is part of a group of trees of comparatively compact growth rather than a more or less isolated tree, the absence of which would make a decided gap that future growth could not fill. To follow this rule, of course, prevents the wholesale stripping of wooded tracts, which is done in many instances.

Objection is sometimes made to selecting for Christmas purposes a tree standing close to others, because the one chosen is apt to be unsymmetrical, the lower branches particularly being irregular and unattractive. This difficulty can be overcome by selecting a tree which is taller than the height desired and cutting off the lower end. By using only the upper portion a well-shaped, pleasing ornament can be obtained, and at the same time a selection is made which results in no harm to the forest.

Officials are glad to recommend it is entirely proper to make cuttings of Christmas trees, and it is urged that their recommendations both as to sites for cutting and the method of selecting individual trees be followed carefully. There is a widespread sentiment against disregard of conservation by thoughtless felling of Christmas trees in private holdings, and the forest service is heartily in accord with this sentiment.

Very large trees selected for municipal celebrations or church use need not be symmetrical in their natural state, as they can easily be made so by boring holes in the trunk and inserting sufficient limbs of proper size to give the tree a well-rounded appearance. Frequently where a large tree is to be carried considerable distance, practically all the limbs are cut off and then replaced in the manner indicated.

SEA CONSTANTLY SHRINKING

In Five Years the Water Has Retreated Five Miles.

Los Angeles, Dec. 1.—The Salton sea in the Imperial valley, one of the natural wonders of the West, is constantly shrinking. At present it is about 15 miles long and nine miles wide at the greatest point. During the last five years, the water is said to have retreated about a mile a year, leaving a vast expanse of arid land, which is eagerly seized by homesteaders. Often their location stakes are planted far out in the water.

The sea, which lies 100 feet below the level of the ocean, abounds in fish, mullet and carp, which local Arizona capitalists are planning to utilize by creation of a great cannery.

The United States department of agriculture reports that about the Salton sea lies the largest area of date producing land in the country.

Geologists say the Salton "sink," as it once was known, in pre-historic times was changed from desert to sea and from sea to desert 50 times or more. For centuries the Colorado river would flow quietly to the Gulf of California and gradually build up a sandbar across its mouth. Then some spring flood would cause a washout in the river's bank further north and the whole torrent would sweep toward the Salton sink. The desert would become an inland sea, remaining so for centuries, perhaps, until some great flood would carve out a shorter way to the ocean.
