First-class players are being engaged, not the least among them being William Gilbertson, a cornet soloist and leader of the very fine band which Barre City had before the granite strike, which sent its men out of town. TALK OF THE TOWN

Just a Matter of Common Sense.
We do not have to have many of the things that we are having. It would not be pleasant or convenient to get along without them, but we could do it. More frugal fare at the table, with less variety of viands, the wearing of our old clothes a little longer, even if Dame Fashion did sneer a bit; less frequent visits to places of amusement, and cheaper seats when there; the curtailing of indulgences which are of no real benefit; and all this as a frank confession that we cannot afford to do otherwise, and not with the half-ashamed air of those who are following a whim or a fad for a time, and using it as if Dame Fortune cannot bear to drop behind in the race of fashion. We do not want to deny ourselves any of the good things of life. We have labeled many of our luxuries necessities, and we are unwilling to give them up, no matter what the cost. Unquestionably economy in buying and using is not to be despised, but for many of us it seems to be a harder spelling, and one that we are finding it difficult to master—which we attempt with the utmost reluctance, if at all. And yet it is the necessary spelling. The problem before most of us is not so much how to relieve and lessen the high cost of living, as how to meet the high cost of acting like sane and sensible beings in the extraordinary conditions that are upon us. The secret of a complete and satisfactory readjustment is not increased production, but decreased demand, growing out of an intelligent and determined purpose to limit our expenditures to things that are absolutely necessary and that we can well afford.—Watchman-Examiner.

M. F. McDonald, Pioneer in Granite Business, Died This Week.
M. F. McDonald, who has been ill for several weeks past, died at Bright-holm hospital, St. Johnsbury, Monday evening. The funeral was held at the United Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. S. A. Jackson of Lowell, Mass., had charge of the services, Rev. Francis Laird of West Barre and Rev. D. M. McKinley assisting.
Mr. McDonald's death is a distinct loss to the community and the church, as well as his own family circle, as he ever stood for what was highest and best in public and private life. He was the pioneer in the granite business in this town, coming as a young man about 40 years ago to take charge of the cutting shed of Robert and Peter Laird, who has now purchased the first quarry land on Blue mountain. His business passed some years ago into the efficient hands of his sons but goes under his name still.

Mrs. Luella Irwin, who has been at the state hospital, Waterbury, for several months for treatment, returned to her home Tuesday much improved in health.
A. T. Gay returned Thursday from a visit to Maine and will spend a few days in town before leaving for his home in California.
Mrs. L. E. McKinlay and daughter, Ruth, of Waterbury are visiting for a short time at Rev. D. M. McKinlay's.
Mrs. John Hearty went to Concord, N. H., Friday for a week's visit. On her return she will bring her husband's mother, who recently came from Nova Scotia.
Mrs. Annette Courtney is installed as housekeeper at George Dunnett's for the summer.
Rev. S. A. Jackson has been persuaded to remain over until Monday and will occupy the pulpit in the United Presbyterian church Sabbath morning. There will be no services in the Presbyterian church, so all will have an opportunity to hear Mrs. Jackson.

A very handsome stained glass memorial window has been placed in the Presbyterian church by Alexander Dunnett of St. Johnsbury in memory of his first wife, Ella White Dunnett, whose family was prominent in the early history of this church.
Rev. J. S. Garvin was called to Beaver Falls, Pa., Monday by the serious illness of his brother.
Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Andrews of Manchester, N. H., spent the week end and Memorial day with their daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Darling. She returned with them to Manchester Tuesday for a visit.
Mrs. E. W. Rollins of Boston has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Grant.
Edna Hearty, who has been attending a business college in Boston, has completed the course and is at her home.

Hope to Increase Alaskan Musk Oxen.
The treeless coastal plains of northern Alaska, from the international boundary to Point Barrow and even as far south as the Seaward peninsula, were at one time the home of the musk ox. The animal seems to have been exterminated to those regions 50 or more years ago.
An effort is now to be made to re-establish this interesting little species of the genus Bos in the territory, the plan being to import from Coronation gulf of Melville island a sufficient number of specimens to form a herd. This accomplished, they can be bred for the benefit of natives and white settlers.
The present governor of Alaska indorses the scheme, and suggests that a ship be sent to Melville island in summer, to winter there, and to return the following summer with a bunch of musk oxen. He believes that by this means an industry of great future value could be created.
Musk oxen are easily domesticated. Their meat is hardly distinguishable from beef, and their milk (about half the quantity yielded by an ordinary cow) is very rich. The shaggy hair of the outer coat covers a soft, long-fibered wool, equal in softness to the finest sheep wool. Large bulls weigh from 600 to 700 pounds.
Musk oxen have not the roving instinct of cattle, and cannot be easily stampeded. When attacked by wolves (the principal enemy of game animals in the north), the adult members of the herd form a circle around the young, presenting an impregnable front.
It is claimed that the musk ox combines all of the qualities most to be desired by a pioneer population in a desolate region. The wild wastes of northern Alaska, utilized as grazing ground for this picturesque beast, would thereby acquire important value, yielding great quantities of meat and wool.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Balled Up the Barber.
Judge Blank is fond of relating how he put one over on the barber who wished to make a sale. The man had just shaved him, and wanted to sell him a lotion to use on his face when he shaved himself.
"Is this what you use on your customers?" asked the judge.
"No," replied the barber, "it's so expensive I cannot afford it when you get so done shaving a man," returned the judge, "how do you expect me to afford it when I shave myself for nothing?"
The barber was nonplussed and gave up trying to make the sale.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Frank Durkee, Who Died Tuesday, Left Seven Small Children.
Mrs. Annie (Rogers) Durkee, wife of Frank Durkee, died in Tunbridge last Tuesday morning of typhoid pneumonia, after a few days' illness. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers of East Randolph and leaves a husband and seven small children. Her presence will be greatly missed by her husband, whose right hand she had been for so many years, also by her aged mother, who had hoped that her declining years would be soothed by her loving care, which duty is now left to her sons, who also deeply mourn her loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Morrill of Springfield, Mass., stopped at J. C. Greene's over Sunday.

In the first game of the season, Woodsville town team defeated Lisbon, American Legion, by a score of 8 to 6. Both teams played very ragged ball and the game was slow throughout. Woodsville was minus her regular pitcher, catcher and two outfielders.
Henry Munsell left Wednesday for Swanton, where he expects to spend several days with his sister, after which he will attend commencement at Norwich.
Miss Shaw, R. N., is at Mrs. Leslie Bailey's caring for her daughter, Miss Shaw, since her graduation from Cottage hospital, has spent most of her time in Wells River.

The road between Woodsville and Wells River is in the worst condition of several years. While perhaps it is impossible to keep this road in perfect repair, yet something should be done to render it safe for travel. Without doubt it is the roughest piece of road in the state of Vermont. It is also a road that receives as much travel as any road in this section. It has been estimated that over a thousand cars and teams go over this road in twenty-four hours.

Alco Hall.
Some time ago a distiller bought a beautiful estate in the country, and, after having the house rebuilt to suit his taste, he set about to give the place an appropriate name. Nothing that he could think of appealed to him, so he decided to consult a friend.
"Say Bill," said he, going into the office of a friend one afternoon, "I want you to help me out of a hole."
"All right, old man," responded the friend. "State the case and you will find me right on the job."
"I want a fitting name for that new place of mine," returned the distiller. "I have considered a hundred, but none of them seems to do."
"That's an easy one, old man," was the smiling response of the friend. "What's the matter with calling it 'Alco Hall'?"
