

MAGEE NATIONAL

—with the "Wonder Oven"

THE MOST PERFECT COMBINATION OF CONVENIENCE, EFFICIENCY, AND TIME-SAVING WHICH THE HOUSEWIFE HAS EVER KNOWN

GAS OVEN, COAL OVEN, IN ONE

COAL, wood or gas may be used, or either of the first, combined with gas, to secure any required degree of heat. The oven is always ready; can be heated to the desired temperature at once; food is beautifully done — on time; there are no complicated parts — no guesswork — no trouble. Simply one push of the lever does it all. Truly a miracle of helpfulness to the modern housewife. Send for the new illustrated booklet.

The Magee National is very compact (only 45 inches over all); it is exceptionally handsome, easily kept in order and cleanly to operate. Trimmed throughout in white enamel—Glass or plain iron oven doors if desired.

VERMONT WOMAN INSTRUCTS IN SMOKING

Mrs. Hugh H. Watson, Daughter-in-Law of Chief Justice John H. Watson, is an Earnest Wood Supporter.

Mary Francis Watson, a picture of whom holding a lighted cigarette appeared in a Monday's Boston newspaper, is a Watfield woman, the daughter of E. R. Joslyn, who died some 20 odd years ago. Later she lived in Montpelier. She recently had been in Montpelier and Barre for a couple of weeks. She will be remembered as Miss Maudie Joslyn. She wanted to stampede the Republican convention at Montpelier for General Wood, and one of the members of the board of trade in Montpelier was having quite a time to prevent her appearance on the platform with the prominent people of the state when another member of the board of trade took her to the press table, which seemed to suit her purpose fully as well. She is an enthusiast over General Wood. It is understood that last week she made a strong appeal to her father-in-law for funds. She registered at the Pavilion Hotel in Montpelier as from the Hotel Commodore, New York.

The story in the Boston paper follows: Mary Francis, "free lance journalist," whose husband is Hugh Hamilton Watson, American vice-consul at Liverpool, yesterday admitted that in a full year's education was required to learn the gentle art of smoking cigarettes. It appears that Mr. Watson, whose father is Chief Justice John H. Watson of the supreme court of Vermont, objected to the manner in which his wife smoked. To please him she turned up several gross of gold-tipped smoke-sticks in learning the proper manner in which to light, smoke and de-ash cigarettes.

"I am perfectly willing to tell Boston women how to be as graceful in this direction as I am, also how to blow rings of smoke," said Mrs. Watson to a Post reporter yesterday.

"You see," she remarked, as she adjusted her hat and skirt of latest Parisian design, which she wears corsetless, to a more comfortable position, "when I went abroad recently my husband remarked that he didn't like my way of smoking cigarettes. My husband said that he did not object to my smoking if I didn't smoke like a plumber. So I spent the summer learning how to smoke. I was educated in front of a glass, in the proper manner to light the cigarette, flick the ash away with the little finger and blow rings of smoke."

"Yes, yes, go on!" urged the reporter eagerly, as Mrs. Watson paused for breath.

The young woman selected a cigarette from a large box containing 50 or more of the small-sized, gold-tipped variety. It was against office rules to light the blamed thing, so the reporter turned his back.

"No, don't do that. Help me, please," pleaded Mrs. Watson. "See," she went on, "place your little finger against mine and hold it, so. There, that steadies our hands. Sort of a brace, you know."

With the cigarette burning, she rushed on.

"To draw rings, you must have a still atmosphere. Then draw in your breath and pull your tongue down in the back of your mouth. Then push—that's the word—push the rings of smoke out. Easy, what?"

The reporter admitted that such seemed to be the case.

"I don't believe that young girls should smoke, but adults should if they care to do so," Mrs. Watson went on. "Women are not allowed to smoke in New York on the streets or in public places, but there is no reason why they should not smoke in dining rooms, grill rooms, automobiles, tea rooms the privacy of their own rooms. Anywhere, in fact, but in a public place where smoking is forbidden."

Mrs. Watson is en route to Chicago, where she says that she will campaign for General Wood.

THE ASPHALT LAKE.

Borings of 150 Feet Made in Famous Trinidad Phenomenon.

Recent borings made in the famous asphalt lake on the island of Trinidad have reached a new low level record of 150 feet. The previous record, made in 1893, was 135 feet. On both occasions the asphalt was found to be of uniform character throughout. These latest attempts to find the bottom of the great mass of asphalt were conducted by George A. Macready, geologist, at the instance of Dr. Clifford Richardson, who has studied this asphalt wonder for many years.

Great difficulties attended any attempt to sound the lake, as it is in constant though almost imperceptible motion. The pressure of the mass of asphalt at any great depth against the drilling apparatus causes it to bend and the deflection from the perpendicular is so great that further boring is prohibited. The movement of the asphalt seems to be similar in many respects to the ascending and descending currents in a kettle of boiling water.

The problem presented is difficult of solution, as it seems to be impossible to find any material which will withstand the bending strain imposed upon it by the pressure of the mass of semi-solid asphalt.—Contract Journal.

PERSHING WILL RETIRE SOON

Plans to Leave the United States Army in a Few Months

UNLESS SOMETHING NEW DEVELOPS

Writes Secretary Baker of His Desire to Get into Active Life

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Unless a situation arises that justifies him in remaining in the army, General Pershing will retire from active service within a few months. In a letter to Secretary Baker, he expressed the desire to return to civil life, adding, "I feel that after the completion of the work contemplated by the army reorganization act, I could relinquish military duty without detriment to the service and thus be free to engage in something more active."

WOMEN BETTER FITTED.

To Deal with Legislation with Relation to Social Matters.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 8.—Helen Ring Robinson, formerly state senator of Colorado, was one of the speakers to-day at the mass meeting held here by the congress of the International Women Suffrage alliance, which addressed exclusively by women members or former members of parliaments or other governing bodies.

"It is a great pity that there have been relatively so few women legislators in my own country," she said. "In our various state legislatures some 60 different women have served. But they have been spread over a good deal of territory and time, which makes the spreading much too thin."

"So far but one woman has been elected to our national Congress and during the entire term of office of Congresswoman Rankin, the press never ceased debating whether she was a flower or a vegetable. For myself I vote for the vegetable. What the world needs to-day is a big crop of vegetables and nature always looks out for the flowers anyway."

"There are four callings for which women are plainly better fitted than are men—acting, caring for children, nursing and legislating. I do not say women have surpassed men as legislators, but I do say they are inherently better fitted for legislating, which should deal primarily with improvements in social relations."

"Count Sulzer is credited with saying that the great war was caused by a quarrel between Hungary and Serbia over the shipment of hogs. All the great wars of history have been caused by quarrels over the shipment of hogs—in some guise or other. All of the legislation back of those wars has been built on hogs and the belief that the measure of a nation's greatness is the production of wealth-hogs."

"Now another estimate of value is shaping itself out of a world's agony, the ideal that women have always held that the measure of a nation's greatness is the production of health and happiness. Here is the special task of the woman legislator. Here is the solemn duty of the women assembled in Geneva at what may justly be called an internationale of good-will—to put this new vision across the flux of the whole world's thinking by every possible expedient, to embody it into law, to weld it into constitutions, to interpret it into every international movement."

SEEKS TO INDICT J. R. PATTEN

Who Is Charged With Using the Mail to Defraud Vermonters

BOUGHT PRODUCE AND DIDN'T PAY

Is Allegation Brought by State's Attorney Gibson of Brattleboro

Brattleboro, June 8.—State's Attorney E. W. Gibson is in Windsor to-day to appear before the federal grand jury to seek an indictment against Joseph R. Patten, alias H. Anderson, who was arrested in Kentucky March 20 on the charge of using the mails to defraud and was brought back to Vermont.

Patten opened an office in Bellows Falls last fall and bought produce of many farmers, offering them more than the market price. It is claimed that he sold the produce to wholesale merchants out of the state and left without paying the farmers and that he cleaned up about $6,000.

He used the mails and telephone in securing customers, principally in South Royalton, Hyde Park and West Barnet.

Experiments show that cooked rhubarb added to such fruits as strawberries and raspberries makes a preserve of fine quality. Rhubarb being common and cheap, while the berries are not always so, it is a suggestion worth noting. This mixture may take place after the fruits are cooked, but, of course, the results will be better if both are cooked together when fresh. Use one part of the berries to two parts of rhubarb.

An Old-Fashioned Dinner.

The New England boiled dinner for some reason is not as popular as it should be. The boiled dinner has a number of good points in its favor. To begin with, it is little trouble to prepare. The ingredients are inexpensive and nearly always available. For people who like vegetables and meat cooked together the boiled dinner should be especially attractive, says the Burlington Clipper.

For the busy housekeeper any one dish dinner that needs little preparation is something to be cultivated. The best food gets tiresome if served as a regular thing with little or no change. There are, of course, several kinds of boiled dinners, just as there are a number of different one-dish dinners or stew. All of them have corned beef for the meat, and the other difference comes in the kind of vegetables used. One recipe calls for corned beef cooked until it is tender. The meat is removed and kept hot. In the water cook cabbage, carrots and turnip. Beets are cooked separately and served with the other vegetables, with the meat sliced. If the dinner is to be one that is easily cooked, it is better to use the recipe which does not call for the removal of the meat or the separate cooking of any vegetable.

Carrots and turnips take more time to cook than potatoes and onions, so the vegetables that take a longer time should be put in first and then the others should be added.

Whatever kind of recipe is used, the

TROUBLES FROM MY AGE

Mrs. Baney tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her Through the Change of Middle Life.

Rochester, Ind.—"My troubles were from my age and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully. I took doctor's medicine and other patent medicine, but the Vegetable Compound has helped my nerves more than anything I have ever taken. I am thankful to the one who recommended it to me and will surely do my part in telling others that the medicine has done for me."—Mrs. LITTLE BANAY, 468 East 9th St., Rochester, Indiana.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness should be heeded by middle-aged women and let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carry them safely through this crisis as it did Mrs. Baney.

thing to remember is that boiled dinners should not be cooked quickly. The flavor of the meat is not developed as well by rapid cooking as it is by long, slow cooking, and it will not be as tender.

To keep the vegetables whole and at the same time have them thoroughly cooked they must be cooked slowly and for a long time. On the whole, the boiled dinner is a valuable addition to the list of simple dinners.
