

WANT AUSTRIA EXCLUDED

Czecho-Slovak Delegates Are Furnishing Only Opposition

SWITZERLAND FAVORS ENTRY

League of Nations May Finish Work Next Week

Geneva, Nov. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Czecho-Slovak delegates are now furnishing the only opposition to the admission of Austria to the league of nations. Switzerland is strongly advocating admission, with the proviso, however, that if reaction occurs in Austria, she will insist upon the right of the province of Vorarlberg to decide whether to remain a part of Austria or not. Vorarlberg requested that it be attached to Switzerland, but this request was rejected by the latter country.

A committee which has been examining the accounts of the league, finally has approved the comparatively high salaries paid the personnel of the secretariat, finding the high cost of living in Geneva justified them in part, while the expenses of each worker in reaching his native country should also be taken into account.

Optimists at the meeting of the assembly of the league are counting upon finding the work of the session next week, or ten days earlier than was calculated by league officials. Apprehension is still felt in some quarters, however, that the discussions in full assembly, which will be resumed on Tuesday, especially those on the question regarding the relations of the league council and assembly, will be prolonged.

The organization committee has been decided to approve the suggestion that the four selective members of the council shall be chosen so that only one term will expire each year. It has also decided to set up a committee to study all proposed amendments to the covenant of the league.

Phosphate Found in Morocco.

Published reports that immense deposits of high-grade phosphate rock have been discovered in French Morocco are of considerable interest to American explorers of phosphate rock. In times of peace this country, according to the United States geological survey, department of the interior, has in a single year sent abroad, mostly to Europe, 1,250,000 long tons or more of high-grade phosphate rocks, or more than 40 per cent of its total annual output.

The principal deposits in Morocco are about eighty miles southeast of Casablanca, and consists of three beds or zones of beds of phosphate sand in a formation that is fifty to two hundred feet thick. The uppermost phosphate bed contains 67 per cent of tricalcium phosphate, the middle bed 53 per cent and the lower bed 50 per cent. The average for the group is about 59 per cent. Water and hydro-electric power for the exploiting of the deposits can be obtained from the river near by. In order to market the rock, however, a railroad would have to be built from the deposits to Casablanca, the nearest port.

Another deposit, which consists of soft phosphatic material carrying 72 to 75 per cent of tricalcium phosphate, lies 40 miles northeast of the principal one. Still another deposit lies a short distance southeast of Babat, a coast town. This deposit consists of a sandy clay sixteen feet thick containing nearly 47 per cent of tricalcium phosphate.

All these deposits are reported to be large and rich, but no data available show their extent or value. Their development will doubtless be retarded by the necessity of making large investments for railroad and other construction.—New York Journal of Commerce.

HAD RHEUMATISM IN BACK AND HIPS

Maine Lumberman Wants Others to Know of Remedy That Made a New Man of Him

Once a disease of any kind gets a grip on the system the tone of the blood is lowered to the point where it can no longer fight off poisonous germs. A sudden change of temperature or an unexpected storm may make a man of weak blood helpless with the pains of rheumatism. One of the most effective weapons against this condition is rich, red, healthy blood.

Many treatments for rheumatism are directed at the symptoms and they generally fail to have lasting effect. If the blood isn't strengthened the body's resistance raised a cure of rheumatism is almost certain.

Mr. James F. Hawkins, of No. 22 Mainly street, Auburn, Me., for years a lumberman in the Canadian woods, found that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had an almost immediate effect on his rheumatism.

"While I was working in the woods," he says, "I became run down and the exposure brought on a severe attack of rheumatism in my hips and back. It seemed as though all my energy was gone. I could not enjoy my food and after eating I was in terrible agony. Sometimes the pain was so great that I would have to lie on my back. It seemed as though there was a lump in my stomach and it would be there for weeks.

"A friend who used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with benefit advised me to try them. I got a box and in a few weeks my appetite improved and my stomach pains were gone. I took five boxes of the pills and the rheumatism disappeared. There is nothing better for a run-down condition than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have made a new man out of me and I cannot speak too highly of them."

Miss M. W. Atkinson Gives $500 to Library in Memory of Mother.

The Memorial Library has received from Miss M. W. Atkinson a gift of $500 in memory of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Bartlett Atkinson, a former resident of Newbury. The income of this fund to be used in the purchase of books other than fiction. The gift is gratefully received by the trustees and by the reading public of Newbury, and is not only token of the donor's interest in the library, but exemplifies her appreciation of the worth and her desire to make it still more beneficial. This is the latest of many valuable donations to this institution, by means of which it has become one of the best libraries in this part of New England. The thanks of the trustees and the citizens of Newbury are tendered to Miss Atkinson for this gift.

Word has been received of the death of Henry Parker, who died in Portland, Me., Monday last. Mr. Parker will be remembered by many as a citizen of this place some forty-five years ago. His home was that which is now owned by Dr. Darling. He married for his second wife, Miss Olive Robinson of this place. Her death occurred several years ago. Mr. Parker was living with his daughter, Laura, Parker at the time of his death, and was about 85 years of age.

The remains of Mrs. Carl Leavitt were brought here last week and interment made at the Newbury Center burying ground.

Miss Eliza Ross left this week for Boston. It is expected the usual services will be held in the Congregational church next Sunday.

SAYS GOOD-BYE TO CANAL ZONE

Senator Harding Is Said to Be Leaving Regretfully

SPENT THE DAY AT CRISTOBAL

Visited Fortifications and Submarine Base

Cristobal, Canal Zone, Nov. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Senator Harding prepared regretfully to-day to bid goodbye to the canal zone. His visit here ends to-morrow when he sails on board the steamer Pastores, for the United States.

He returned here last night from the Pacific terminus of the canal, where he exchanged felicitations with officials of the republic of Panama. To-day he visited the fortifications and the submarine base at the eastern end of the zone, played golf and took a swim in an outdoor salt water pool near his hotel. A plunge in the pool was his first act after his return here last night and he was out early this morning for another dip.

The Pastores will sail at noon to-morrow, and is due to reach Kingston, Jamaica, at 8 o'clock Tuesday en route to Norfolk. Senator and Mrs. Harding and their party will go ashore at Kingston, where they will take lunch and later they will go on a 30-mile motor ride across the island as the guests of the captain of the British motor ship. They will board their ship again at Port Antonio.

NOVEL COLLECTION.

F. M. Hugo Has Automobile License Plates from All Over the World.

Francis M. Hugo, secretary of state of New York, and the head of the largest motor vehicle bureau in the world, has a most interesting collection of automobile license plates, probably the only one of its kind in the world. The collection includes plates from practically all the states, the provinces of Canada and many foreign countries. In securing these plates, Mr. Hugo spent considerable time in correspondence. Many of the plates were months on their way.

The collection of foreign plates includes one from Egypt. The plate is well made, and is longer than those in use in this country and in a combination of red and white on a black background, present a pleasant color contrast to the eye. The plate is covered with the scrawls peculiar to the country.

Two plates are shown from Chili. These are of aluminum and attractive. One of the crudest plates shown in the collection came from Peru. In fact, it was so crude that the authorities, when sending it on to Mr. Hugo, wrote a letter and apologized for its appearance.

The collection of foreign plates includes one from one of the royal cars in Denmark. China is represented by a plate of blue and white, while Iceland contributes a small and apparently home-made specimen which came from the province of Reykjavik. Havana, Panama, the canal zone, and Honolulu. Attached to this last plate is a metallic tag which is changed year by year and which this year represents the "ulua," a fish for which the mid-Pacific isle is justly famous. The plates from the different states are also interesting in their contrast, ranging all the way from the lurid specimen of Nevada to the puritanical affair from Massachusetts.—Springfield Republican.

The young man was duly impressed and made an endeavor to conceal his emotion and his gratitude. Then, during the few moments of impressive silence that followed, he heard the patter, patter of rain against the window.

"Goodness me," he exclaimed, "it's raining and I yours, sir, to keep me dry while I run to the station!"

"Young man," said the fond parent, "I do not trust anyone with my umbrella!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

OLD-TIME SKIPPERS OFTEN ILLITERATE

They Were Efficient Even Without Book Knowledge.

The old-time English seafaring men were trained to the service in the navy itself. Their lessons were those of duty from the rank of cabin boy to that of master. Such a school was likely to turn out men of efficiency, but not of extensive learning. There are many interesting stories told of them.

For example, there was the man who could neither read nor write, but who could take his vessel without mistake from port to port. The lights on the coast were his only books, and his one intellectual exercise consisted in calculating the set of the ebb and the flood.

When steamers were first ordered to carry red and green sidelights, with a high white light forward, an old sea captain saw the mysterious colored circles coming down upon him. He did not understand this new thing, and his faculties became confused. He shouted: "Hard starboard. We'll be into a drug shop."

Another master who happened to have a leisure evening went to hear a popular lecture on astronomy. He was much troubled by what he heard, and explained his perplexity with great feeling. "The man told the lot of us," he said, "that the world turned round and round; but I cannot understand how that can be. The Hatter's Rock has been there ever since I can remember."

One skipper who could read and use a chart was dispatched to Rotterdam. After getting over the bar and well away to the east, he produced his charts and made a learned inspection; but the charts had been a long time in the locker, and circumstances combined to alarm him extremely. "He went up on deck and called out to his mate: "Put her about; the rats have eaten Holland!"

One old captain bored away through a fog for several days under the impression that he was going north from Liverpool. After a long time a vessel came past and the lost captain inquired: "Are we going right for the Castle foot?"

The stranger made answer: "What Castle foot?"

Whereupon the incoherent skipper said: "There is only one Castle foot; Tynemouth Castle."

The answer was discouraging: "If you go as you are going, you'll be at Newfoundland in a very short time."

The old hero felt his way back and after many days and much halting of passing gales he sighted St. Ab's. He then said, with pride: "Ah, here's England! I thought I would fetch her."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Sounded Like Man Doing Real Job, and He Got Meal.

A number of the Players' club tells of a seedy-looking individual who appeared at the back door of a house in Westchester county and, in support of his request for assistance, announced that he was a vaudeville performer in hard luck.

Now the woman of the house agreed to let the individual have food if he would perform the proverbial task of sawing some wood. He retired to the barn; and soon there came to her ears the sounds of a man hard at work on the wheel. Meanwhile she had laid out a request for him, which, in due time, he ate with due relish and departed.

About half an hour after the man had gone the women went to the barn only to find every stick of wood intact. Upon inquiry she discovered that he had been entertaining unwaveringly a stranded ventriloquist. He had simply gone into the shed and given his imitation of sawing wood.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Topics of the Home and Household.

Cutting sandpaper with the scissors sharpens them.

Slicing hard-cooked eggs will be easy and successful if you will heat your knife in very hot water before using it. Do not wipe the water from the knife.

Cooking soda and water will wash out the color and smell from medicine bottles. Fill the bottles half full of warm water and add a quarter teaspoon soda. Shake up and down a few times and rinse with hot water.

An excellent recipe for furniture polish has been passed on from one generation of southern folk to another. It consists of one tablespoon alcohol, one tablespoon olive oil and one quart of warm water. Shake and mix well before applying. Give a finishing rub with a dry flannel or chamois.

What Can Be Done with Fish Flake.

Fish flakes may be slightly freshened, creamed and served with toast and bacon. They are best when mixed with about one and one-half cupsful of mashed potatoes to one can of flakes (six ounces) mixed with one beaten egg and pepper and paprika to taste, and fried in hot, deep fat until browned.

Fish flake timbales are very good, also, and very simple to make. Simply mix one can (six ounces) of flakes with one-fourth cupful of sifted bread crumbs, seasoned, and two beaten eggs and one and one-half cupsful of milk. Mix and turn into well greased timbale molds and bake in a dish of hot water until centers are firm. Unmold on a hot dish and serve with drawn butter, cream or tomato sauce.

Scalloped Fish Flakes.—Place flake pieces of canned salmon in the center of a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle some boiled hominy in a border around the dish. Pour over a white sauce, sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a hot oven until nicely browned. Serve hot in same dish in which it was cooked. Rice or macaroni or noodles may be used instead of hominy.

Fish Pie.—Cook in about three tablespoonful of fat one green pepper chopped fine, four tablespoonful of chopped mushrooms and one small, finely chopped onion until browned. Remove these from the fat and add three tablespoonful of flour and chicken stock (canned chicken soup) and one tablespoonful of salt. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens. Then add one cupful of fish flakes, salmon, lobster or crab meat. Combine with the vegetables and line individual ramekins with mashed potato and fill with the mixture. Cover the top with mashed potato and brown in the oven. Serve in these dishes.

ARMY TO SAVE PAPER.

Plans Made to Eliminate Use of Paper Not Required.

Major General P. S. Harris, the adjutant general of the United States Army, has announced that in the interest of paper conservation and the elimination of unnecessary labor, drastic changes will be made at once in the correspondence work of the army. A board of officers has gone into the matter very thoroughly, and its recommendations have been approved by the secretary of war. As explained by General Harris, president of this board, the plan is:

"Under present regulations communications relating to the personnel of the army, such as transfers, discharges, leaves and the like, must be transmitted through all intermediate commanders to the office which can order their action to be taken and after action is taken they are returned through the same channels to the writer.

"Each of these intermediate commanders now must have an endorsement prepared, typewritten in triplicate, recorded and filed in his office, indicating his action, although it may be only routine in nature, both when the communication is passing to higher authority and on its return.

"The board proposes to eliminate entirely from the channel some of the offices through which the communications now pass, and to use stamped in duplicate forms which will be recorded or filed, in offices in which the action is routine, thus greatly reducing both the clerical labor and bulk of files in such offices."

A typical case would be a letter from a soldier requiring action in Washington. This would go from the company through the regiment and division only, cutting out several other offices, and on its way back, directly to the company commander and the individual. Based on a case where, for example, a soldier requests discharge because of dependent relatives, it may be the old method 20 sheets of a paper are required; by the new regulations, five sheets. Ten endorsements are now necessary, while five will suffice, three of them made by rubber stamp. Fifteen separate typing operations are now needed, but but three will be used hereafter. Four synopses of communications are completely abolished.

The amount of paper work of this kind in the army is enormous, and the adjutant general's office expects to make a wholesale saving both in labor and in material by the new method.
