

TRUCE BEGINS IN IRELAND; DE VALERA AGREES TO MEET LLOYD GEORGE THURSDAY

Military Police Lorries and Armored Cars Disappear From Streets of Dub-But De Valera's Proclamation Had Not Reached Remote Regions

DE VALERA GOES TO LONDON FOR THE CONFERENCE

According to Official Reports There Were 24 Deaths From Violence in Ireland Over the Week-End—Belfast the Scene of Fierce Rioting

London, July 11 (By the Associated Press)—Eamonn De Valera will come to London on Thursday of this week for his conference with Premier Lloyd George to discuss the basis of a settlement of the Irish problem.

Dublin, Ireland, July 11 (By the Associated Press)—The truce in Ireland, agreed upon by the government officials and republican leaders pending peace negotiations, went into effect at noon today.

In Dublin the complete disappearance from the streets of the military police lorries and armored cars marked the official beginning of the truce.

In Londonderry the police at noon were summoned to their barracks and handed in British revolvers, subsequently resuming street duty until armed.

The yard of Dublin Castle, which is usually active with the movement of police lorries and armored automobiles, was empty of cars this morning, while the auxiliaries on duty were standing about in their shirt sleeves.

Castle officials and others who have been unable to walk in the streets openly were going about this forenoon under normal conditions.

In consequence of the abolishment of the curfew, the theatres, moving picture houses, the street car companies and the railways made announcements, that from tonight they would resume their normal hours.

Confidence was everywhere expressed that the republican forces would observe the truce, the record for the week-end, however, indicated that the order had not reached remote districts.

One item on the record came from Rochester, County Cork, where Major G. O'Connor was kidnapped after being held in a rooming house by a former Unionist politician and candidate for parliament in Dublin, but more recently had been prominently identified with the southern Unionist movement for an Irish settlement.

At Castle Island, County Kerry, a military patrol was attacked last night. Three soldiers were killed and three others were wounded. Four members of the attacking party are believed to have been killed.

According to the official reports there were 24 deaths, all told, from violence in Ireland over the week-end. These figures included 14 killed in Belfast, where 86 persons also were wounded and eighty houses burned.

All available members of the Daily Eireann, or Irish Republican Parliament, returned at the last election, met privately in the Mansion House today.

BELFAST ONLY PLACE UNDER THE CURFEW

This Restriction Imposed Because of the Rioting of Sunday.

Belfast, July 11 (By the Associated Press)—The curfew was re-imposed here today as a result of the disorders of Sunday. Belfast now is the only place in Ireland under the curfew, despite the truce terms by which the curfew was raised generally.

A great deal of revolver firing developed today in Stanhope Street, and the adjoining Carrick Hill districts. At one hospital six cases of bullet wounds were treated. A bakery wagon was burned in Lancaster street and the driver was beaten.

Some firing occurred in several of yesterday's disturbed areas, but police patrols promptly checked any attempt at an organized outbreak.

TRAIN ATTACKED AND CARS BURNED

Railroad Line Near Carrickmore, County Tyrone, Was Torn Up

TUFTS' REMOVAL CASE IS HEARD

Case Without Precedent in Massachusetts Was Started in Boston.

Boston, July 11.—Five justices of the supreme court, sitting as the full bench, today began consideration of charges against Nathan A. Tufts, district attorney of Middlesex county, whose removal from office is sought by Attorney General J. Weston Allen.

The proceedings were without precedent in this state, the supreme court never before having undertaken a trial on questions without lower court hearing. It was expected the case would last several weeks.

Summoning of witnesses to support the attorney general's charges of irregularities in Mr. Tufts' conduct of office continued up to the hour for the opening of court. The names of the witnesses were not announced in advance of their appearance, but the detailed charges and specifications filed by Mr. Allen, and the answers presented by Mr. Tufts, had indicated the subjects of testimony.

Charges that the district attorney was concerned in a conspiracy by which persons of some prominence were induced to pay $100,000 under threat of prosecution for an affair at a Woburn road house were to be presented early in the proceedings, according to Henry J. Hurlburt, special assistant to the attorney general. It was in connection with this case, that these charges, that the defendants were of high rank in New York last week from Hiram Abrams and Adolph Zukor.

In opening Mr. Hurlburt said it was important the public be protected and have the utmost confidence not only in the courts but in its officers.

When the public becomes of the opinion that our courts cannot be relied upon and that justice can be purchased from an officer charged with enforcing the law so that those who are rich are not punished then falls whole administration of justice falls to the ground and we fall into socialism, bolshevism and the kindred items.

"In this case we charge that the public prosecutor of Middlesex county has been unfaithful to his trust, that he has given the public to understand that the rich man can purchase justice and that the poor man has little chance to protect himself or his property against the rich man or the man with influence."

"Mr. Hurlburt said that on May 11, 1917, several days after the Woburn party, held at Mishawum Manor, James M. Curley, former mayor of Boston, communicated with Hiram Abrams, a motion picture producer, who was then in Paris, asking him to come to this city as a certain matter was likely to arise.

On May 13, according to Mr. Hurlburt, Mr. Curley, accompanied by Francis L. Daly, met Mr. Abrams and his counsel, Joseph M. Levenson, at the hotel Touraine. At that conference he said Mr. Curley informed Abrams that the complaint arising out of the revels at Mishawum Manor had been made and something was brewing. It might be well, he said, Mr. Curley told Abrams, to employ Daniel H. Coakley to straighten out matters.

Coakley demanded $10,000. Mr. Hurlburt said, which amount was promised by Abrams, but nothing was paid at the time. On the day following, Mr. Hurlburt, continued, Abrams, Levenson, Curley, Daly and Coakley went to East Cambridge and had a conference with Mr. Tufts. The latter said he had had complaints as to what occurred at Mishawum Manor, and if the stories were true. At that conference, according to Mr. Hurlburt, Mr. Tufts said: "If you can get these complaints off my back everything will be all right."

Mr. Hurlburt then told of a conference which was held at New London, Conn., on June 2, 1921, which Adolph Zukor and Hiram Abrams are alleged to have been present to settle the allegations and breach of promise suits arising out of the Mishawum revels. He said checks to the amount of $32,250 were made payable to Daniel H. Coakley, and a check for $7,500 and a note for $25,000 were paid to David Stoneham. The note for $25,000 was discounted at the Beacon Trust company and a check for that sum sent to Mr. Coakley. A check for $15,000 was given to Joseph M. Levenson, out of which, Mr. Hurlburt said, Charles H. Wright, then a member of the governor's council, and now district attorney of the Hampden district, $2,500.

"I may say here," pursued Mr. Hurlburt, "that we are unable to trace any proportion of this one hundred thousand dollars into the personal possession of Mr. Tufts, but we do say the strong inference is that even if he did not receive money he was influenced by his friendship for Mr. Coakley and thereby acted destructively to the popular belief that his office was administered without fear or favor."

Mr. Johnson, counsel for Tufts, said: "Mr. Tufts has no desire to limit the scope of this hearing. If the court desires to go into all these matters which we consider irrelevant, for the purpose of an inquest, he has no objection, but such evidence as Mr. Hurlburt proposes to offer is in the nature of an attack on men not represented here and who have no opportunity to defend themselves."

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

Witness for the commonwealth were then called and sworn. Among them were Daniel Coakley, W. J. Corcoran, ex-Mayor Curley, David Stoneham and District Attorney Pelletier. There were the women.

UNITED STATES MAKES MOVE

Toward Conference To Consider Limitation of Armament.

Four Large Nations Are Approached

Another Move Made Toward Solution of Far East Problems

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The course of the United States was definitely set today toward two goals of international importance—limitation of armament and solution of problems involving the Pacific and Far East.

President Harding, it was revealed in a state department announcement published today, has approached with informal but definite inquiries the governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan to ascertain whether it would be agreeable to those nations to participate in a conference to be held in Washington at an agreed date for discussion of armament limitation.

It was further suggested to the nations interested in the problems of the Pacific and Far East that there be undertaken in connection with the conference "the consideration of all matters bearing upon their solution with a view to reaching a common understanding with respect to principles and policies in the Far East."

The state department announcement said that if the proposal for a limitation of armament conference were found acceptable formal invitations for the conference would be issued. Whether any response to the inquiries directed to the allied and associated powers have been received by the president was not indicated in the department's announcement.

For that reason great popular interest was attached to the statement by Lloyd George, the British premier, promised for today, and which London advices have indicated would touch upon the matters initiated by Mr. Harding.

FRANCE IS LIKELY TO ACCEPT INVITATION

Would Participate in Disarmament Conference, Says Unofficial Report.

Paris, July 11.—Official comment on President Harding's initiative for a conference on the limitation of armaments is withheld pending receipt of the official invitation, but unofficial opinions, gathered in official circles, are to the effect that France certainly will accept the invitation.

The attitude of the French government, however, is said to be unchanged since it was set forth in the assembly of the league of nations last December by Leon Bourgeois. France, it is explained is ready and would be glad to retire her armaments, and save the heavy expense involved in doing so, if she can safely do so, but any decision on this question must depend upon absolute security from the east.

Inquiries disclosed the impression that such security has not been extended.

BRITISH CABINET DISCUSSES NOTE

Note Received By Ambassador Harvey Who Went to Lloyd George With It.

London, July 11 (By the Associated Press)—President Harding's note regarding a conference on limitations of armaments was understood to have been discussed by the British cabinet today.

The note was received by the American embassy here yesterday, and forwarded to Ambassador Harvey, who was in the country. The ambassador went to Chequers Court and saw Premier Lloyd George there.

There was great activity at the British foreign office early in the day. Lord Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, interviewed both Ambassador Harvey and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese ambassador, before leaving for the cabinet meeting. Later the Chinese minister called at the foreign office.

President Harding's proposal was the one topic of conversation in diplomatic quarters today. Expressions of satisfaction were mutual, and the belief was voiced that the Washington conference, if it were agreed upon, would only be comparable in importance to the imperial conference.

Some of the dominion premiers called at number 10 Downing street, the prime minister's official residence, this morning and later the imperial conference met and considered President Harding's message.

HARDING BACK HOME. After Spending the Week-end On a Cruise.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The Presidential yacht Mayflower reached New York today after a week-end cruise on Chesapeake Bay. Mr. Harding planned to return to the White House after breakfasting aboard the yacht.

BONUS MESSAGE IN DAY OR TWO

Pres. Harding Will Deliver the Address in Person

HARD AT WORK TO PUT IT IN SHAPE

Commenced the Work During a Week-End Cruise on Chesapeake

Washington, D. C., July 11.—White House officers indicated today that President Harding probably would deliver in person his special message to Congress regarding bonus legislation probably within a day or two.

Mr. Harding returned to the White House today from a week-end cruise down the Potomac to Chesapeake Bay and continued work on his message, which he is understood to have started during his trip.

SIX TIMES GASSED. HE KILLED HIMSELF

Laurence L. Kent Left Letter Asking to Be Buried with Fallen Comrades in Belleau-Wood.

Paris, July 17 (By the Associated Press)—Laurence L. Kent, historian of the graves registration service, who was gassed half a dozen times during the war when he was a sergeant in Co. B of the 42d engineers, was found dead in bed here this morning with a bullet in his heart and a revolver beside him. His superior officers said Kent only recently left the American hospital after treatment for the gassing he suffered.

Kent, who formerly was employed in the American war department, left a letter asking his commanding officer to have him buried with his fallen comrades of the 2d division in Belleau-Wood. The letter said he could not stand the suffering resulting from his being gassed six times.

THREE TO SHARE $1,250,000

From the Estate of Frederick L. Ames of Boston.

Taunton, Mass., July 11.—Frederick L. Ames, wealthy manufacturer of Taunton and Boston, died intestate. Letters of administration on his estate were granted today by Judge M. B. Hildreth of the probate court to his widow, Edith C. Ames, and to Bradley W. Palmer of Boston. The estate is estimated at $1,250,000, of which $750,000 is personal. The administrators are appointed guardians of Frederick Ames and Mary C. Ames, the minor children of the late Frederick Ames, the only listed heirs-at-law.

DROPPED 15,200 FEET; CALLED IT "TERRIBLE"

Miss Phoebe J. Fairgrave, 18, Established New Parachute Record But Doesn't Want to Do It Again.

St. Paul, July 11.—Miss Phoebe J. Fairgrave, 18 years old, of this city established what was said to be a new world record for a parachute drop for women when she dropped 15,200 feet from an airplane at Curtiss flying field, near here yesterday.

It took exactly 20 minutes from the time Miss Fairgrave leaped until she alighted safely in a wheat field. "The time had come to get down to business," she said. "I never want to try it again."

CONSTABULARY HEAD

George A. Parker of Lancaster to Lead Massachusetts Force.

Boston, July 11.—George A. Parker of Lancaster was appointed captain of the new state constabulary today. The force will be trained at Framingham and is expected to be used for police work for the first time at Plymouth next month.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Aaron Gustafson, who is spending a few days here on business before returning to Pine Point, Me., where the family are camping, was a member of a fishing party to land a monster horse mackerel last week. The clipping from the Portland Express tells the story: "A very unusual and exciting experience happened to four out-of-state visitors at Pine Point yesterday morning. These four gentlemen, B. W. Limberg, one of Albany's leading jewelers, John Manraque, conductor of Proctor's orchestra at the Grand theatre, Albany, and Aaron Gustafson, granite manufacturer of Barre, Vt., together with Mr. Bernard of Albany, are stopping with the Coverts at their cottage at Pine Point. Yesterday morning the party left to go fishing. In the course of their trip they came across a giant horse mackerel which had been caught in one of the fishermen's nets. Volunteering their aid they helped the fishermen to capture the fish. There followed an exciting battle until the harpoon ended the struggles of the huge mackerel which afterward proved to weigh 615 pounds. The party will leave for Albany on Saturday and will go by the way of the White mountains."

BERLIN DECIDED TO INVESTIGATE WATER SITUATION

Spirited Town Meeting Held at Which Montpelier's Water Supply Was Talked Over Thoroughly.

At a special town meeting Saturday afternoon, Berlin voted to investigate the rights of Montpelier about Berlin pond, the source of that city's water supply, and other property in that town. A committee of investigation was named as follows: George K. Perrin, S. C. Pike and H. O. Dwinell.

There were about 85 voters in attendance, and Dan A. Perry was moderator. Merrill Corlies, selectman, explained to the voters that there are some rights that Montpelier has, as well as some that Berlin has and that individuals and visitors also have some rights. He said that 12 families had been on the pond last year and that the sale of the property in the section about the pond.

When called upon, George Perrin, one of the town's oldest residents, made a speech which brought out applause. He said the state board of health and some of the aldermen went around the pond last year and that the state board made recommendations to the city as to what it must do, one recommendation being a tight board fence around the reservoir and another that the city extend its main into the center of the big pond, which would allow people to take to the ponds. He also made other statements about the water which caused some comment. He said that the only place where the water is pure is at the center of the big pond, and his statements concerning germs in the little pond, which he had taken to the ponds, were surprising and, if substantiated, rather serious perhaps.

Mr. Perrin declared that every time it rains mud runs out of every faucet in Montpelier and that the wash of the road goes into the streams. He said that the water could not be used in passenger coaches because it is not certified water.

"I am a socialist to a certain extent," said Mr. Perrin; and then he went on to say that he was looking to the welfare of the poor people of Montpelier. He said that the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while the rich people in Montpelier are supplied with spring water; that the poor people of that city had paid for the water system and that the rich had better water to drink. He thought some resolution in the interest of the poor people of Berlin water, while