The Canadians have a Blue Nose but a good many Americans have faces all blue just now.

Thank heaven, the good old American dollar is not being knocked completely off its underpinning in the market.

The success of Springfield, Mass., in selling its four per cent municipal bonds at slightly more than par shows that it pays to get a good name for yourself.

Having furnished the new prime minister of Great Britain, Canada takes a still higher place in importance in the empire. Canada already was quite an important part of Great Britain.

An East Jaffrey, N. H., man, speaking on his 88th birthday, declared that hard work makes for longer living. That being the case, we know quite a number who are on the way to an early grave.

There have been so many shootings and killings in Vermont lately in which the manipulators of weapons were held to have been only careless that it seems high time to correct the practice by sentencing one or two of these "careless" persons to a fairly long term behind the bars. When a man shoots off a revolver several times just outside of a house, then enters the house and flourishes the revolver about till an occupant of the house gets a bullet, his actions should be considered as something besides careless. The state's attorney of Addison county promises action in the case, but prefers to await the outcome of the inquiry, which, of course, is reasonable.

QUIT QUIBLING; GIVE BLUE NOSE THE CREDIT.

The Canadian fishing schooner Blue Nose and the Gloucester schooner Henry Ford have had three official trials of speed and skill of crews. The Henry Ford captured the first official race in a light wind; the Blue Nose came back and took the second and the third races in rather impressive manner, the heavier breeze being to the liking of the boat, as it seemed. The first brush of the two boats can be set aside from consideration as the race was unofficial, the boats having been summoned back by the judges, only to have the skippers disregard the summons. That brush was won by the Henry Ford but, of course, does not count in the official summary of the international contest. The last three races constitute the contest; the Henry Ford won one, the Blue Nose two. The international contest thereby ends with the Canadian the winner, two out of three. There the talk about another meeting of the two boats ought to end.

Much has been said during the contest about sportsmanship and the sporting spirit, and the skippers of both crews have been lauded or censured as the bias of the partisan might be. Now, a good display of the sporting spirit and of sportsmanship will be for the skipper, crew and owners of the Henry Ford, as well as the public, to desist from further talk about unfair chances in the contest or about another possible meeting between the two boats the present season. The Canadian boat won under the conditions of the race and under the weather provided; the Blue Nose, therefore, gets the international fishing schooner trophy. Americans can show themselves good sportsmen by giving the Blue Nose the credit and by stopping further chatter.

MIDDLESEX

Church Notices.

Next Sunday the church returns to its winter schedule of services, the hour of service being 2 in the afternoon, with Sunday school immediately following. "World's Temperance Sunday" will be observed next Sunday with a special program under the direction of the temperance superintendent, Mrs. A. P. Bigelow. "All Saints' day," the memorial day of the Christian church, will be observed with a special service of worship in the vestry next Wednesday evening, to which all are invited. The teacher training class will meet the same evening as usual. After next Wednesday, however, the class will generally meet at the homes of its members instead of in the vestry. The annual chicken-pie supper will be served on Thursday evening, Nov. 2.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—adv.

Silent Eloquence

Have you ever been a-fishin? Did you ever sit in a boat for hours with a fisherman in the other end, a real, genuine fisherman who did not attempt to flood you with conversation (for real fishermen never do that) one with whom you could feel an intimacy of spirit without resort to words? If you haven't done this then you have never been a-fishin.

The silent calm of the clear water, darkened now and then by the shadow of some silent sentinel looming up from the not far distant shore, seems to speak eloquently of the glory of the universe and the value of living.

So it is with money or credit. It moves from place to place with comparative silence but it speaks eloquently of many things; it speaks of fond hopes and it tells of miserable despair; it relates the triumph of victory and it records the infamy of defeat.

What a power for good or bad and what a responsibility rests upon us as trustees of the resources of present day civilization. When one wastes money he is throwing away a precious legacy, an endowed opportunity to enjoy the worthwhile pleasures which money can bring.

Can you afford not to have a savings account? One dollar will start you right.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Challenge to the Younger Generation.

Editor, Barre Times: Being much interested in the discussion of the school questions that have appeared in the late issues of The Times, I cannot refrain from sustaining Mr. Fortney and D. J. Boyce in condemning some of the features of the present school system. I claim this centralizing the schools and centralizing the power for conducting them is bringing more evils upon us than benefits or blessings. The most important thing in educating the children of Vermont (as well as the whole United States) is to instill in their minds the love of country, the respect of law and the principles of democracy.

Now that old-fashioned school district meetings of years ago, where the parents met to legislate how and when and where their children should be educated was the nearest approach to pure democracy of anything on the face of this earth.

Compare such a meeting as that to the arrest of Mr. Slayton of Calais for refusing to carry his children through storms and cold, three miles to reach a school. What would be the impression formed in the minds of those children of Mr. Slayton about freedom, law and democracy?

Compare paying our teachers $50 a week for coaching some ball game, and $5 a week for exciting the ambition of the scholars at an evening spelling school, or stimulating the power of reason and thoughtful meditation in solving some problem, such as they used to solve 60 years ago. For instance such as the following:

Example No. 1. If 12 oxen eat 3 1/3 acres of grass in four weeks, and 21 oxen eat 10 acres in nine weeks, how many oxen would it require to eat 24 acres in 18 weeks, the grass growing uniformly?

Example No. 2. What number exceeds three times its square root by 11?

Example No. 3. What number, containing not more than four figures, multiplied by itself, will produce the nearest approach to the number two that is possible to get with any four figures, so multiplied?

These examples were all solved by boys and girls who attended nothing but the old-fashioned district schools, and were solved by rules in their arithmetic (not by algebra).

Our educators are claiming that the children of to-day are more advanced than the children of 50 to 75 years ago, but if any high school student will solve by arithmetic (not algebra) and send correct answers to all these questions to "Omega," care of Barre Daily Times, for publication, not later than Nov. 10, 1922, then we will admit that the scholars of to-day are equal to, or superior to the scholars attending the old district schools of 60 years ago.

This challenge is open to any high school student or late graduate and is free-for-all. Let us hear from someone. Omega.

Says Players Were Not Hurt.
 Editor, Barre Times: I read in your paper of Oct. 23 a statement to the effect that the Spaulding football players who rode in my father's car, which I was driving, were injured somewhat when the car skidded and tipped over on its side. I ask you to please correct this statement.

The boys were uninjured and in good spirit after the accident. Several of them played in the Spaulding-Newport game and did some hard fighting for Spaulding.

The accident happened while going down a hill between Barton and Orleans. The wheels struck some ice and began to skid. Seeing a bank in front, I attempted to steer the car to the other side of the road, but the rear wheels skidded rapidly and tipped the car on its side near the center of the road. The occupants clambered out of the unobstructed side and it was found that no one was injured, as I said before. G. Lachina.

"He Is Thrifty!"

Can they say this of you? The thrifty man is not a miser. He is thrifty not in the sense of being close-fisted, but in the sense of being progressive and enterprising. His thrift is the elimination of waste. If more thought was given to the subject of thrift, millions would be saved that are now wasted. The Savings Department of this bank invites your account.
