

FROZEN BODY RAISES FEAR

That the Tug Cornell Went Down in Lake Erie

BODY WAS LYING IN TUG'S LIFE BOAT

Was Picked Up By One of Tugs Assisting in Search

Cleveland, Dec. 27.—Although practically no hope is held out for the safety of the tug Cornell, formerly the Grace Danforth, search of Lake Erie in an effort to solve the mystery surrounding the disappearance of the vessel was continued today. Finding of a lifeboat containing the frozen body of Michael Paytoosh, one of the eight members of the crew, dispelled any belief that the Cornell is safe.

The yawl and its contents were picked up yesterday by the Q. A. Gilmore one of the tugs assisting in the search, as she cruised in the regular "Buffalo Course" along the Canadian coast between Port Colborne and Long Point.

Ten miles west of the point where the lifeboat was located, the Gilmore had previously sighted several oil cans floating on the light waves. A slight film of oil covered the water. Hoping to find wreckage or the bodies of some of the other seven men, the Gilmore cruised about the region for several hours before taking the lifeboat and the body of Paytoosh to Erie.

The Gilmore and several other tugs resumed their search early today.

The Health Value of Blood Medicine

By "blood medicine" we mean, for instance, Hood's Sarsaparilla, for nearly 50 years the standard remedy for blood disorders.

Working through the blood, the great distributing agency of the body, it carries purity, health, strength, vitality to every organ.

The general health quickly responds to the powerful influences of this good blood medicine. One old friend wrote us: "I seem to feel a thrill of new life just as soon as I begin my annual course of Hood's."

EXPLORERS STIRRED UP

Over New Egyptian Law Claiming Relics for the Government.

London, Dec. 27.—Dispatches from Egypt to the London newspapers today stress the growing anxiety of foreign explorers over the new law which M. Lacau, the Egyptian government's conservator on antiquities, is drafting, providing that all relics henceforth discovered shall belong solely to the government and that the discoverers shall be denied the right to a share in them as heretofore.

American explorers are represented as participating in opposition to the law and are said to have signed with the English a joint document of protest which will be presented to King Fuad, the Egyptian cabinet, M. Lacau and Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, the British high commissioner. The archeologists are quoted as predicting that the adoption of the law will terminate exploration in Egypt.

WERE SECRETLY MARRIED

Sir Derrick Julius Wernher and Theodora Romanov.

New York, Dec. 27.—Sir Derrick Julius Wernher, son of the late Sir Julius Wernher, who was said to have made more than $50,000,000 in the South African diamond fields, and Miss Theodora Romanov, a young Russian, were married secretly two weeks ago, the bridegroom, admitted today. Both he and his bride denied rumors that she is of royal blood.

Sir Derrick, who said he was in the advertising business, first attracted public attention when his father published in English and continental newspapers a notice that he would pay no more bills for the young man.

When Sir Julius died it was learned he had left his son $8,000 a year until he reached thirty years when the annuity was to be increased to $12,000.

Sir Derrick said he was a "poor" man. He met Miss Romanov socially, he said, two years ago. The wedding was performed at St. George's church, he declined to say the exact date of the ceremony which he said was witnessed by a small group of friends.

The Cook Stove Bank

A man in a New Jersey town had a great surprise meal recently. He found that his wife had burned up $1,000 in bills that he had hidden in the kitchen.

The man refused to deposit his savings in a bank or invest them in any way. He thought the old cook stove was safer.

Other financiers of this school have utilized the feather bed, the coal scuttle, the stovepipe and an old hat for the safekeeping of their possessions, and in many notable instances they have been equally as successful as the New Jersey man.

Banks are safer than cook stoves and good, sound investments are better than a hole under the kitchen floor. Neither the cook stove, the hair mattress nor the secret depths of the old boot were primarily adopted for the uses of modern finance.

Concrete Road Building Again Breaks All Records

75,000,000 square yards of Concrete pavement have been placed under contract this year—a gain of more than 30 per cent over last year, the largest previous year.

The construction thus provided for, and to a large extent completed, is equivalent to more than 7,000 miles of 18-foot pavement.

That is a larger amount of Concrete highway than there was in the country altogether up to 1917.

These facts witness the determination of this country to have roads equal to the traffic they bear.

Yet even with this great record, the output of motor vehicles continues to outstrip by far the construction of motor roads.

The revolution in road traffic due to the automobile has called for hole-proof, skid-proof, really enduring pavement; and Concrete fills the need.

That is the explanation of the steady, rapid gain in Concrete road construction during the last decade—the largest development in basic transportation facilities in this country in many years.

Front Axle Excels All

The Willys-Knight has won high popularity, particularly with women, because of its ease of steering. Now the least and the last of road shocks or jolts to your arm through the wheel are eliminated by the new Willys-Knight steering gear.

The great quality of the Willys-Knight is evident immediately by the fact that Willys-Knight is the only car made with eight Timken bearings in the front axle.

There is no finer, sturdier, more efficient front axle under any car. The size of the spindle has now been increased to give longer life to the front wheel bearings.

Advertising is the Sunlight of Business

To all that is healthy and vital in business, it means increased strength and growth; but advertising is a fierce heat which withers and consumes that which is unsound.

A business which is not a good business should not be advertised. A business which would not benefit from widespread appreciation of its deals had better acquire a new set of ideals.

We'll call her "Mrs. Smith"

Because she actually lives in town here

Mr. Smith finally looked up from his evening paper.

"See here!" he exclaimed. "Why talk to me about it? If the thing doesn't work, call up the electric company and have them fix it."

"But, silly, I didn't buy it from the electric company."

Mr. Smith overlooked the "silly."

"Well, then," he urged, "call up the dealer from whom you bought it."

"But I didn't buy it from a local dealer. I bought it from a salesman who came to the door. He was selling direct from the manufacturer, he said."

"H'm!" snorted Mr. Smith. "Now that the machine doesn't live up to the promises, the salesman is gone where the woodbine twines—and the manufacturer is hundreds of miles from here."

He took up his paper again. Then he added: "I want you to have all the modern conveniences. I want you to be relieved from all the drudgery of housework. But why waste money? I've told you a score of times that the local merchants are here in town to stay. They can't flit from town to town. They must give value, service, satisfaction."

"The electric company especially won't sell inferior appliances—because it wants you to use the appliances. That company will give you service—because it wants to keep you satisfied. Simply good business policy. But take advantage of it my dear. Remember, the electric company is right within call 365 days a year. But your electric appliances from them."

Mr. Smith was right. It is our policy to sell only efficient appliances, to give true value, to stand behind our merchandise. And we are here in town 365 days a year, right within call.
