A Bad Character.
 A St. Louis paper of a recent date says: J. J. Boyle, the ex-priest of the Roman Catholic church, who is now on trial for his life at Raleigh, N. C., charged with outraging Geneva Whitaker in May, and well known in this city a year ago, and has been here at an even later date. Boyle's reputation while here was best known to the police, and it is given as very bad character. About one year ago he officiated at a Catholic church in a small town in Illinois, but left in disgrace, having contrived to raise a large sum of money for the purpose of building a new church, and having then come to St. Louis to spend it among the first women. About a year ago officer Carr arrested the man at a house on Spruce street for disturbing the peace, on complaint of one of the inmates. He was let off with an easy fine, but was subsequently brought up in the same court a number of times.

The Boulanger bubble has burst. The would-be hero lost his chance when he ran away from France to avoid prosecution. He then carried on a paper warfare, which is not to the taste of the French hero worshippers. His methods were as effective as that of the old Chinese methods of making war, when the facing hostile ranks made mouths at each other, or made position untenable by a mutual bombardment of stink pots. Boulanger is a dead cock in the pit.

The Raleigh Bank Wreckers.
 Walter R. Henry of counsel for Cross and White will leave Raleigh on the 16th inst. for Washington, and will be present when the case is taken up in the United States supreme court on the 21st inst. and will argue the same unless he succeeds in obtaining a writ of certiorari. He hopes to do this and thereby stop the case for another term. Mr. Henry says that he has some new points to present to the supreme court.

Miss Anna Anton at Charlotte.
 Charlotte Chronicle.
 Miss Anton arrived in the city yesterday from Concord and delivered a lecture on temperance in the afternoon at the Methodist church, to an audience of about fifty ladies. Miss Anton's object is to form the young ladies into societies auxiliary to the W. C. T. U. She has been very successful throughout the State.
