

MRS. L. WANET SAYS SHE WAS BENT BY PAINS

Tanlac, of all Medicines, Helped Her. Does Housework After Years of Suffering.

"I suffered from kidney troubles for the past ten years," Mrs. L. A. Wanet, of Poemix, near Wilmington, explained to the Tanlac Man, "and Tanlac is the best medicine I have ever tried and I gladly give my statement so others may be reached by it through the papers.

"Until taking Tanlac my appetite was very poor and I was in a weak and run down condition. I would stay wide awake all night. My back gave me lots of trouble and, when attacked frequently by a burning sensation, I had to bend over to ease my pains. Headaches also bothered me. But now, I am so much stronger than I was and I am able to get around and do some work."

Tanlac is sold in Hendersonville by Hunter's Pharmacy. 10 25-1tc

CISSIE LOFTUS COULD IMITATE IRVING OR BERNHARDT WELL.

Walter Pritchard Eaton, in the November American Magazine, says in an article about famous mimics:

"In the days when Cissie Loftus was delighting vaudeville audiences with her imitations, she used to give an imitation of Lillian Russell. Miss Russell countered by giving an imitation of Miss Loftus' imitation of her. But to an artist like Miss Loftus that presented no difficulties. She merely came back with an imitation of Miss Russell's imitation of her imitation of Miss Russell! The fair Lillian thereupon retired from an unequal contest.

"Cissie Loftus could imitate anybody. The present writer once heard her, in the course of a casual conversation, imitate most thrillingly Sir Henry Irving in a blank verse death scene. Then an imaginary curtain descended, and you heard Sir Henry, in a totally different voice (no less unmistakably his) inquiring in very Saxon prose, where in — were the red lights? Standing on the stage of a theater, without a change of costume, with the flicker of a smile on her rather wistful face, she would range from Sarah Bernhardt to Ethel Barrymore, so that you almost gasped at the uncanny cleverness of it, and if you shut your eyes you could hardly believe that the actual persons were not present. Hers, of course was an extraordinary gift of mimicry, and it brought her in a thousand dollars a week, much more, probably, than she could command as an actress."

When You Take Cold.

With the average man a cold is a serious matter and should not be trifled with, as some of the most dangerous diseases start with a common cold. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of your cold as quickly as possible. You are not experimenting when you use this remedy, as it has been in use for many years and has an established reputation. It contains no opium or other narcotic. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv. Oct.

SOIL SURVEY WORK HELPFUL IN COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT.

The development of community spirit is largely dependent upon a certain amount of material prosperity. In any community, if the farmers are not engaged in farming operations, they are reduced to the necessity of persistent efforts to provide for the bare necessities of life, and it will seldom, if ever, be possible to arouse the people of such a community to the most healthy, vigorous, and aggressive spirit of community upbuilding and advancement. Underlying and prompting the proper spirit of advancement along civic, religious and material lines in any neighborhood or community there must be with the farmers a reasonable margin of profit on their farming operations. To have this, the fertility of their soils must be built up and maintained by a system of agriculture practices. In order that the farmer may have reliable and definite information on which to base his practices, it is in most cases incumbent upon the State and nation, through their departments of agriculture and experiment stations, to come to his aid; particularly in this so when his operation are looked at from the standpoint of the advancement of the State and nation.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try it! Hair gets soft, fluffy and beautiful—Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine.

If you care for heavy hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff. You can not have nice heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. Surely get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine from any drug store and just try it.

LOWLY FOLLOWERS OF POET

Great Ones of the Earth Long Refused to Recognize Shakespeare, But He Had His Disciples.

William Shakespeare, "the monarch of mankind," was in life a humble youth who came, with his people, from an interior village to a place in the fields outside the walls of the chief city. He had to do with a stable. He returned whence he came, and was not seen by his disciples after his disappearance from the theaters. His companions and disciples clung to his memory and printed his book, the learned brushed it all aside. He himself had cared no more for his dramatic works than Democritus, Epicurus or Socrates cared for literary fame. As late as Doctor Johnson's time, the Shakespeare book was to be denounced by scholars as lacking in many poems necessary to such a work if good. But never did the disciples and their lowly kind depart from the devout worship of Shakespeare which we ourselves must finally offer. He who had been of the lord of the king's kitchen servants (by courtesy) barn-stormers, poor players, strutting their brief hour—this meek and lowly lord, when he arose into heaven, was worshipped by kitchen servants who had no literary comb to lose. We shall note, in all the time that now is counted this side of Shakespeare's death, that his most faithful worshippers have been of humble state and small account.—"William Shakespeare," John McGovern, in National Magazine.

DID NOTHING FOR A COLD

At Least That Was Old Abijah's Assertion, and He Proceeded at Once to Prove It.

Old Abijah Meeker tottered into the store, crawled in behind the red-hot stove, and sat carefully down in the warmest corner of the battered old settle. Taking out his bandanna, he gave a mighty sneeze and sonorously blew his nose; then, squinting and blinking, he glowered round. The place was deserted except for the proprietor, busy at his desk. Old Abijah seemed disappointed. He expected feebly once or twice in the direction of the sawdust box round the other side of the stove, then cackled tentatively.

"Te-hee!" The proprietor looked over the top of his spectacles toward the corner back of the stove. Encouraged, old Abijah went on with a sardonic grin. "Te-hee! Jest met that dude school teacher goin' to the san'tar'um. Had a cold, he says. Goin' for treatment. Te-hee! A cold! Got one myself. I don't do nothin' for a cold. W'en I go home Sally'll gi' me a drink of hot ginger tea, and soak my feet in b'llin' mustard water, and rub my chest with nutton tarler, and put some on it on my nose, and give me a dose of speerits of nitre, and a bag of hot sand for my stummick. I'll go to bed, and in the mornin'—gosh! I'll be all right. I don't do nothin' for a cold. San'tar'um! Te-hee!" And old Abijah sneezed in derision.—Youth's Companion.

Sailors Do Own Washing.

Did you ever notice how ic and span Uncle Sam's jackies always look when they are on shore leave or aboard ship? And did you ever realize that Jack is his own washwoman? They have washdays aboard the fighting ships as well as the housewives have theirs. Every man has to be on the job when the boatswain's mate orders "Wash Clothes." In the old days this was some task. Each man had to wash his soiled clothes in a bucket of water and hang them on the line to dry. But on the newest battleships washing and drying machines have been installed which do away with all hand work and much labor. The old familiar sight of a long line of clothes strung up is no longer to be seen. Also the boatswain's mate has forgotten how to pipe "wash clothes." When Jack's apparel is soiled he just throws it into the washing machine and in a few minutes it comes out clean and dry.

Fox Liked His Comfort.

An unusual sight met the gaze of a Duarte (Cal.) man when he opened his house the other morning and found his swinging seat occupied by a full grown fox. With the cushion for a nest the fox was resting comfortably and evidently enjoyed his quarters. When his presence became known the members of the family came trooping out to see the porch climber. Then the fox disappeared under the house, where his nature prompted him to hide until the spectators left the porch, when, finding the coast again clear the fox gracefully jumped on the porch and into the swinging seat, and, with an almost human air of comfort and satisfaction, adjusted the pillow and settled down to complete the morning nap. When again interrupted the fox disappeared and headed for the mountains. The theory that it had escaped from a luxurious captivity probably accounts for the domestic tastes of the visitor.

How Do You Say It?

What word is most frequently mispronounced? "Arctic," widely pronounced without the first c, would have a high place in the list. Others might be these: Culinary for culinary, la-mentable for lamentable, accli-mate, cupolo for cupola, charlotte roosh for russle.

TYPHOID DOES NOT KILL AS MANY AS YOU THINK.

In the November American Magazine Dr. Richard C. Cabot says: "But these are not the diseases that we are fighting in civilized countries today. There is practically no small pox left, except a few spots where the backwardness of the community or the forwardness of anti-vaccination cranks prevent universal vaccination. There is practically no typhus or yellow fever in America. The scourges we have to fight are tuberculosis, cancer, syphilis, gonorrhoea, scarlet fever, Bright's disease, heart disease, pneumonia, diabetes, arterio-sclerosis, alcoholism, insanity.

How Catarrh is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv. Oct.
