

Beecher Business Resumed.

The Court Room Crowded With Men.

But the Evidence Being all in the Number of Ladies in Attendance is Diminished.

Judge Porter's Opening Argument for the Defense.

A Vigorous Arraignment of Tilton and Moulton.

Resumption of Beecher Trial.

New York, May 19.—Pursuant to adjournment the Tilton-Beecher trial was resumed this morning. Long before the opening of the Brooklyn city court the room was unusually crowded, reminding one of the early days of the trial.

Theodore Tilton entered a few minutes before the hour for calling the jury, followed Mr. Beecher and his wife. The defendant chatted and laughed with those of the Plymouth gathering in his immediate vicinity.

Judge Porter then began summing up for the defense. He said: "Gentlemen, you have been for five months in the service of Theo. Tilton under mandate of a power which you were bound to obey."

He said: "Gentlemen, you have been for five months in the service of Theo. Tilton under mandate of a power which you were bound to obey. My client has, since the beginning of this suit, acted on scriptural principles—when they struck him on one cheek he turned to them the other."

ed, well poised, not merely a christian but a veteran christian and minister, and a man who from his youth up has dedicated himself to God and religion, who, in his boyhood, was raised by a mother who was an angel of mercy if ever God sent one upon earth. He was not trained up in lessons of lust, but he received tender and gracious schooling of a mother, from whose lessons he passed on to labor in the field of God.

Judge Porter resumed, quoting from one of Mrs. Tilton's letters in which she breathed forth a fervor of admiration for her husband; a woman whom he would have asked to have shown as an adulteress, kneeling to him as to God, and loved him as she loved her redeemer.

Porter quoted from Mrs. Tilton's letters to show her unselfishness. Counsel also quoted from letter of February 3rd, 1868, in which she reproached herself for her shortcomings. The dastard to whom this letter was written, furnished it to the papers for publication, with the intention of blasting his wife and injuring Beecher.

Porter then referred to the gifts of books &c., which were paraded by Judge Morris, and which he said would not be likely presents to be made by a libertine. Counsel read other letters for the purpose of showing the jury what passed between Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton at his visits; said they only offered excuse of jealousy to the man who only wanted an opportunity for his infidelities.

CRIME.

Inhuman Outrage in Cass County, Iowa.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, May 19.—An attempted outrage and successful suicide was enacted in the southwestern part of Cass county on Monday last. A farmer named Dave O'Connor, aged forty-five, owning six hundred acres of land, and otherwise rich, took his own life at two o'clock on Tuesday morning last. The family consists of a wife, two beautiful daughters and a son. The daughters are respectively aged thirteen and seventeen. Upon the person of the eldest the inhuman father attempted to accomplish a nameless crime, and tried by threats, after repeated attempts, to accomplish his hellish designs.
