LOCAL MATTERS.
Four car loads of flax seed per day are being shipped out over the Milwaukee road.
Along the Jim, a few miles from town the woods are full of wild plums, which are now ripe and waiting to be gathered. In about two weeks there will be direct rail connection between Yankton and Huron via the Milwaukee's Jim river line and the Northwestern from Woolsey to Huron.
E. W. Miller, of Elk Point, who was visiting his Douglas county possessions last week, says the frost did no damage in Douglas county and that in Hutchinson county he found only a small strip where crops were injured.
There are four grain warehouses at Lesterville, on the Scotland extension. One is owned by Wilcox & Williams, another by Mohl & Co., another by Bassett & Hunting and fourth by D. R. Putnam.
C. J. B. Harris, of the Yankton constitutional delegation, was taken suddenly and seriously sick at the Commercial hotel in Sioux Falls early Sunday morning, but after a few hours relief was obtained from remedies and he was getting well at last accounts.
The Yankton delegation in the constitutional convention is the leading delegation in that body and all its members are looked up to as men of ability whose advice is valuable upon all questions. They are all making a record in a quiet way and their work will live after them.
Secretary Palmer says the race track at the fair grounds is receiving its finishing touches. The main building is nearly completed and about half of the posts for the fence is in place. Some delay in operations is caused by the absence of most of the directors of the association, though the work generally is progressing as rapidly as possible.
Cedar County Nonpareil: Parties coming in from the country say the track layers will be into Coleridge with their work in about a week and the grading was completed to section thirty-six yesterday. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible and before many weeks Cedar county will have a railroad to help boom the country along when the tide turns this way.
Some forty members of Phil Kearney post, G. A. R., left this morning for Sioux Falls, accompanied by a large number of citizens and the Yankton band. The Grand Army boys are to attend the department reunion at Sioux Falls, to be held this week under the direction of Major Free, department commander. Teuts have been provided for six hundred visitors, rations will be furnished and an interesting session is anticipated.
H. A. Schoregge has opened the oyster season at his parlors on Third street, his first consignment of bivalves being served last night and to-day. They are the richest, fattest and best oysters that Schoregge's famous oyster house ever imported and he says they are the kind he proposes to keep during the entire season. It is yet a little early for oysters as far west as this, but Schoregge is enterprising and has made arrangements to receive regular supplies hereafter.
Thursday night's frost, which was so disastrous in other localities, did no injury in Yankton, Clay and Union counties and the small portion of the corn crop not already matured will probably have an opportunity to complete its growth. In the counties of Beadle, Bookings, Kingsbury, Moody and Minnehaha the corn crop was almost entirely destroyed, little of it being ripe and the frost being heavy and covering an extensive area. In the counties named however, the small grain crop is abundant and the quality the best, the same as it is in the Missouri river counties.

The four grounds arctic well is down four hundred feet and it is estimated that the drill is now within sixty feet of flowing water. The rapidity with which this well has been sunk by means of spring pole power alone is a surprise to the oldest artisan. The drill was pounded through nine feet of pyrites in thirty-six hours and in the softer formations it goes down with astonishing rapidity. With ordinary good fortune the well will be completed this week.
Later—the drill is down four hundred and twenty-five feet late this afternoon and a small stream of water is running from the well.
Found.
A pocket book, the owner will receive the same by calling at the U. S. Express office.
Schoregge's oyster parlors are now open for the season, and will be regularly supplied with fresh oysters of the best brands, and finest fresh celery. Oysters served in every style at all hours.
THE RESERVATION.
An Interview Between Three Committees Relative to the Sioux Treaty.
The Omaha Herald of the 8th contains the following relative to the conference between the senatorial committee, the constitutional convention committee and the Sioux commission regarding the opening of the reservation to settlement.
The United States senatorial committee, appointed to investigate the obtaining of signatures of three-fourths of the male adults of the Sioux nation to the treaty made last winter, concluded its labors yesterday at the Paxton House in this city. The day was spent in hearing the report from the members of the Indian commission in relation to the manner in which they had performed their labors. Governor Edmunds and Judge Shannon, of Dakota, members of the original Indian commission, and Rev. S. D. Hinman, the official interpreter, against all of whom charges of deceiving the Indians had been made, explained their action in the premises, and succeeded in making it clear to the senate committee that they had done their work in an honorable, upright manner, and that the Indians had full knowledge of the terms of the agreement.
After these gentlemen had concluded, the delegates from the constitutional convention of Dakota, consisting of Judge Moody, P. B. Caulfield, Major Kellam, A. W. Hager, J. C. Lake and Porter Warner, presented the importance of the opening of the Sioux reservation, and urged as reasons therefor that until the reservation was opened the people of the Black Hills were practically cut off from intercourse with the civilized world. They have vast mining interests there that cannot be profitably operated until railroads are built into the country, and this will not be done until it is opened for settlement. The people of southeastern Dakota, these gentlemen claim, as also those living in Nebraska and other parts of the west, will be largely benefited by the opening of the reservation, which will give them access to vast deposits of coal, petroleum and salt contained in the Black Hills, and which are now almost inaccessible and worthless. There are also great forests of pine timber, which could be utilized were it possible to build a road directly through the reservation to the hills.
An agreement was made with the Sioux last winter the terms of which were apparently satisfactory to all concerned, until a few months ago the "squaw men" conceived the idea that there might be a chance to secure more money than the bargain called for, and began to claim that the chiefs and head men had been deceived. The facts disclosed yesterday, although entirely contrary to what was shown to show that this was not the case.
THE COMMISSION RETURNS.
Governor Edmunds, Judge Shannon and S. D. Hinman, of the Sioux commission returned last night from Omaha, where they had an interview with the senatorial commission consisting of Senators Dawes, Logan and Cameron. Governor Edmunds expresses himself as sanguine that the treaty providing for the cession of a portion of the Sioux reservation will be ratified by congress at its coming session, without any further work on the part of his commission in the way of procuring signatures from the Indians. He convinced the senatorial commission that the old treaty requiring the signatures of three-fourths of the Indians to any future treaty had in effect been repealed by a subsequent treaty in which the Black Hills end of the reservation had been ceded without such signatures. The newspaper charges that the commission had been deceiving the Indians were wholly refuted. It was found that they had emanated from a son of Senator Dawes, who was traveling with the commission in the capacity of a newspaper correspondent, who had no authority whatever for his statements. At least this was the conclusion reached by the senators themselves, and that settled the case. Judge Shannon, of the Indian commission, having asserted that Mr. Hinman had no authority to procure additional signatures to the treaty, the authority was produced in the shape of an order from the secretary of the interior, under an act of congress, and that settled the question. Speeches were made to the senators by Governor Edmunds, Judge Shannon and Mr. Hinman.
Governor Edmunds says, however, that their success with the senatorial commission was largely due to the presence and arguments of the committee appointed by the constitutional convention to present the case of the coming state of Dakota. They seemed to do something tangible in the claims of that committee, not forgetting, probably, that it represented votes in future congresses and electoral colleges. Judge Moody, chairman of the committee, made an eloquent and forcible appeal in behalf of the people of the Hills and southern Dakota. He was followed by Barney Caulfield and Major Kellam. The evident success of the mission has elated the friends of the movement and it is now expected that the reservation will be opened next spring.

Wm. Powers has gone east in search of rapid horse flesh for the fair.
Mrs. Dr. Burleigh left this morning for Sioux City to attend Miss Wear's wedding.
Zina Riechey has gone to Providence, Rhode Island, and will be away about three weeks.
Rev. Joseph Ward, who spent the Sabbath in Yankton, returned yesterday to Sioux Falls.
Secretary Teller and wife started this morning for Cleveland where Mrs. Teller will remain several weeks on a visit.
Mrs. June Dix and children returned from Deadwood on Friday and she is now visiting her parents in Lesterville.
Governor Ziebach breakfasted at the Jencks to-day on his way back from Scotland to the constitutional convention.
Cedar County Nonpareil: Mrs. Gov. Faulk and Mrs. M. M. Farmer of Yankton were visiting friends in St. Helena this week.
Ex-Secretary Hand who left Sioux Falls last Thursday for Chicago, returned Sunday morning to the constitutional convention and will remain during the session.
C. S. Palmer departed this morning for Jamestown to attend the first meeting of the tax commission, of which E. P. Wells is the other member. Judge Bennett declines to accept his appointment on this board.

Harvest Happenings.
Wheat in the Dakota river valley is yielding from twenty to thirty-five bushels per acre.
One hundred and fifty acres of wheat near De Smet yielded twenty-seven bushels per acre.
Knox County (Nebraska) News: Small grain is being threshed and the yield is better than was expected; the quality is excellent.
The corn crop in Dakota county, Nebraska, is regarded as assured. Two weeks of good weather will put it out of the way of frost.
Deadwood Pioneer: Harvest is rapidly progressing, and with more than satisfactory results in view of the fears entertained a few weeks ago, that the yield would be unusually short. Barley and oats are nearly all cut, and the wheat harvest is under way.
De Smet News: The harvesting of small grain is over in Kingsbury county for this year. Nothing has happened to injure the grain and the crop is the largest ever harvested in this section. The wheat is filled well, the berry is hard and plump, and as far as we know every bushel in the county will grade No. 1.

Hinman, the official interpreter, against all of whom charges of deceiving the Indians had been made, explained their action in the premises, and succeeded in making it clear to the senate committee that they had done their work in an honorable, upright manner, and that the Indians had full knowledge of the terms of the agreement.
After these gentlemen had concluded, the delegates from the constitutional convention of Dakota, consisting of Judge Moody, P. B. Caulfield, Major Kellam, A. W. Hager, J. C. Lake and Porter Warner, presented the importance of the opening of the Sioux reservation, and urged as reasons therefor that until the reservation was opened the people of the Black Hills were practically cut off from intercourse with the civilized world. They have vast mining interests there that cannot be profitably operated until railroads are built into the country, and this will not be done until it is opened for settlement. The people of southeastern Dakota, these gentlemen claim, as also those living in Nebraska and other parts of the west, will be largely benefited by the opening of the reservation, which will give them access to vast deposits of coal, petroleum and salt contained in the Black Hills, and which are now almost inaccessible and worthless. There are also great forests of pine timber, which could be utilized were it possible to build a road directly through the reservation to the hills.
An agreement was made with the Sioux last winter the terms of which were apparently satisfactory to all concerned, until a few months ago the "squaw men" conceived the idea that there might be a chance to secure more money than the bargain called for, and began to claim that the chiefs and head men had been deceived. The facts disclosed yesterday, although entirely contrary to what was shown to show that this was not the case.
THE COMMISSION RETURNS.
Governor Edmunds, Judge Shannon and S. D. Hinman, of the Sioux commission returned last night from Omaha, where they had an interview with the senatorial commission consisting of Senators Dawes, Logan and Cameron. Governor Edmunds expresses himself as sanguine that the treaty providing for the cession of a portion of the Sioux reservation will be ratified by congress at its coming session, without any further work on the part of his commission in the way of procuring signatures from the Indians. He convinced the senatorial commission that the old treaty requiring the signatures of three-fourths of the Indians to any future treaty had in effect been repealed by a subsequent treaty in which the Black Hills end of the reservation had been ceded without such signatures. The newspaper charges that the commission had been deceiving the Indians were wholly refuted. It was found that they had emanated from a son of Senator Dawes, who was traveling with the commission in the capacity of a newspaper correspondent, who had no authority whatever for his statements. At least this was the conclusion reached by the senators themselves, and that settled the case. Judge Shannon, of the Indian commission, having asserted that Mr. Hinman had no authority to procure additional signatures to the treaty, the authority was produced in the shape of an order from the secretary of the interior, under an act of congress, and that settled the question. Speeches were made to the senators by Governor Edmunds, Judge Shannon and Mr. Hinman.
Governor Edmunds says, however, that their success with the senatorial commission was largely due to the presence and arguments of the committee appointed by the constitutional convention to present the case of the coming state of Dakota. They seemed to do something tangible in the claims of that committee, not forgetting, probably, that it represented votes in future congresses and electoral colleges. Judge Moody, chairman of the committee, made an eloquent and forcible appeal in behalf of the people of the Hills and southern Dakota. He was followed by Barney Caulfield and Major Kellam. The evident success of the mission has elated the friends of the movement and it is now expected that the reservation will be opened next spring.

Harvest Happenings.
Wheat in the Dakota river valley is yielding from twenty to thirty-five bushels per acre.
One hundred and fifty acres of wheat near De Smet yielded twenty-seven bushels per acre.
Knox County (Nebraska) News: Small grain is being threshed and the yield is better than was expected; the quality is excellent.
The corn crop in Dakota county, Nebraska, is regarded as assured. Two weeks of good weather will put it out of the way of frost.
Deadwood Pioneer: Harvest is rapidly progressing, and with more than satisfactory results in view of the fears entertained a few weeks ago, that the yield would be unusually short. Barley and oats are nearly all cut, and the wheat harvest is under way.
De Smet News: The harvesting of small grain is over in Kingsbury county for this year. Nothing has happened to injure the grain and the crop is the largest ever harvested in this section. The wheat is filled well, the berry is hard and plump, and as far as we know every bushel in the county will grade No. 1.
