

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD OF TREATRES AND AMUSEMENT

POLPS
The last opportunity is presented at the Poll theatre today to witness New York's latest concoction of song, dance and instrumentally under the title of "The Jazz Nightmare." The elite of the vaudeville and musical comedy stage have been utilized to form principals and chorus of this big cast.

Another attraction lovers today in "Fields of Honor," a realistic depiction of the firing of that shot which has been heard around the world. With Miss Mae Marsh, cute little star of "Polly of the Circus," in the leading role, this sensational offering is more than a double attraction this week.

Hank Brown & Company offer a neat little skit in which the well known comedian shines in a new light. Incidentally he has a charming female partner who does some clever work and adds to the general fund dispensed by the Brown organization.

Black & White, artistic in every sense, give an exhibition of modern strength and agility under the most sumptuous scenic investment. Each of the girls is the acme of physical perfection and the graceful effect is more marked because of the difficult feats they perform.

Vernon, ventriloquist, appears with a host of dummies, each discoursing in different dialect. He is assisted by a female partner at the conclusion of an interesting act.

Lauder Brothers, two funsters of the Broadway type, bring a lot of new oddities in humor and entertain royally.

Animated news, another feature of the big show, conveys in graphic tabloid form the news of America.

WEST END
The greatest patriotic picture produced since the Great War began will be shown at the West End theatre on State street, near Clinton avenue, today, matinee and night. This is "The Unbeliever," adapted by the Edison

Studios from Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews' novelette "The Three Things," and featuring Raymond McKee and Marguerite Courtot. The United States Marine Corps co-operated with the producers in the making of this picture, and many of the scenes were taken at the Marine Cantonment at Quantico, Virginia.

"The Unbeliever" is a thrilling and inspiring production. It is safe to say that it will make a sensation.

Tomorrow Mary Miles Minter in "Powers that Prey."

LYRIC
Combining comedy with drama, of which there is a slight vein throughout, the laughing sensation of the century, "The Brat" will be the attraction at the Lyric theatre all next week. This is Oliver Morosco's successor to "Peg o' My Heart," which scored so phenomenal a success since its first introduction to the public. This production has attained a successful run of over 200 nights in New York city, scored equally big in Chicago and was the talk of Boston during its stay there, which in itself is enough to arouse the interest of all lovers of plays of this character.

"The Brat" is a play that for laughs, thrills, surprises, snappiness and real "Pep" is the best thing that has ever been offered by the Poll Players this season. There is never a dull line throughout the entire offering and Miss Wanda Howard will again be seen in a role that is particularly suited to her distinct type. Miss Howard will appear in the role of "The Brat" who is a down and out dancing girl at the Hippodrome who has lost her position at the theatre because of six weeks' illness in a hospital. She is starving and clothed in rags when found by a wealthy novelist who goes in her a type which he has been seeking for his novel. She thinks he is in love with her and promptly forms an attachment for him which is dispelled however when the book is completed.

The novelist has a wayward brother however who is the bane of his life although the apple of his eye.

He reforms and as the novelist is about to turn out "The Brat" back into the streets where he found her he comes to the rescue and—but to tell the outcome would be spoiling the story for the public.

This afternoon and tonight will see the final performances of that dramatic sensation "Romance" which has been playing to record breaking attendances all this week. Nearly every seat in the house has been sold for today but there are a few choice seats left which can be reserved if an early call is made.

Tomorrow night the attraction will be Geraldine Farrar in the feature picture "The Devil's Stone," one of most costly productions in which Miss Farrar has appeared. In addition to this there will also be a "Fatty" Arbuckle comedy, the Hearst-Pathe Weekly News and that funny team Mutt and Jeff in those comical cartoons. The Lyric theatre caters only to the better class of people at its Sunday night concerts and anyone can feel perfectly safe to send the women and children to this popular playhouse. All attempts at rowdiness are properly squelched immediately and the offenders are taken from the building.

PLAZA
"The Patriot," tomorrow night's attraction at the Plaza is well worth seeing for it offers William S. Hart in a role that serves him admirably and it is as good a picture as he ever made for Triangle. There will be other features of merit on the bill including one of those popular and laughable Judge Brown stories as well as an O. Henry story and the World Library.

Marines are in the thick of the fighting. The casualties to date are 274.
