The Minute Women of Bridgeport

Start on a House-to-House canvass of every Home in the City Today to secure applications and other data necessary to induct women workers into the local munition plants and in this connection we bespeak for these patriotic Minute Women a courteous and prompt reception, that their philanthropic work may be complete at the earliest moment---Every woman is urged to study the questions on registration card reproduced below--and be ready to answer quickly.

"Making Munitions Is Woman's Job"

The duration of this war depends on the number of men America sends to France ---that's why the Women are called upon to enlist for MUNITION WORK---the more men we send the more munitions are needed, and therefore the number of men that we can send depends absolutely on the number of guns and shells and tanks and airplanes we can turn out in the next few months the number of ships we can build to rush them over and the number of helpers we can get for munition plants.
