AMERICAN LABOR PARTY PLANS

Dudley Field Malone and Frank P. Walsh to Address April Mass Meeting.

The American Labor Party held a meeting yesterday at Machinists' Hall and laid out plans for the coming city campaign.

The meeting was large and enthusiastic and it was decided to place in nomination candidates for every office at the coming city election.

Thomas Spaine, Patrick Scollins and Charles Haines were appointed a committee to draw up a platform and report back to a meeting to be held on Sunday, April 6.

This platform will be similar to the one adopted in Hartford for the campaign now being waged there.

The Hartford platform demands that all city work be contracted for on open conditions and wages; an eight hour day and forty-four hour week; police protection for pickets and strikers; municipal ownership of any and all public utilities; schools to be open as centers for social, civic and recreation purposes; increased and regular pay for school teachers; the popular election of the judges of the police court and prosecuting attorneys; the initiative, referendum and recall; appointment of a commission, on which workers shall be represented to consider the advisability of having the board of aldermen elected at large, on the principle of proportional representation; representation for workers and for women on all public commissions; that the street railway be compelled to pay the taxes due the city; that principle of proportional representation be put into effect; that the police and firemen should have one day of rest out of seven.

The American Labor Party was born in Bridgeport at the time of the machinists strike and now has organizations in 15 states and 67 cities.

A committee of 48 of the most prominent members of the Progressive Party have issued a call to the members of that party to join the American Labor Party.

Frank P. Walsh and Dudley Field Malone will address a mass meeting of the party in this city, early in April.

THE GRAND CANYON.

The first scientist to explore the Grand Canyon of the Colorado was John Wesley Powell, a distinguished geologist, who was born in Mount Morris 35 years ago today. In 1869 Major Powell, at the head of an expedition of ten men sent out by the Smithsonian Institution, descended the canyon of the Colorado from Green River to Rio Virgin. The party made the trip in four boats, and faced many hazards and difficulties during the mid-summer exploration of one of nature's most magnificent works.

Powell continued his explorations in later years and wrote "Canyons of the Colorado," "Explorations of the Colorado River," and other works dealing with the southwestern country. The water-worn trench of the Colorado is one of the most wonderful sights in the world, the cliffs or rock-walls attaining a height of from 4,000 to 7,000 feet above the stream, which varies in width from 30 to 300 feet, with frequent waterfalls and whirlpools.

SHOWS CLOSE ALLIANCE WITH BOLSHEVIKI

Berlin, Friday, March 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—Eduard Bernstein, the veteran Independent Socialist leader, has definitely abandoned that party and returned to the Majority Socialists.

In a parting address to the Independent Socialists, he administered a sharp castigation to that party and discloses the further details of its close alliance with the Russian Bolsheviki.

"In the spring of 1918," Herr Bernstein writes, "a social gathering was held in the rooms of the Bolsheviki Russian embassy, members of this embassy and of the Independent Socialist party being present. I was invited, although I never concealed my opposition to the Bolsheviki policy. Matters discussed at the meeting included the question as to the reason why the Independent Socialists did not proceed in a revolutionary manner as the Bolsheviki demanded and as the debate which followed, Georg Ledebour explained that the party was unfortunately constituted in a different manner than the Bolsheviki."

Herr Bernstein's defection from the Independent Socialists—a though nominal due to the party's present position forbidding members to maintain relationship with any other parties—is one of many indications that a large number of intellectuals among the Independent Socialists have been moved to resign from that party because of attacks made upon it by Gustav Noske, the German minister of war, and other national leaders, and by disclosures of intimate relationship between at least a portion of the party and the German Bolsheviki.

COSSACKS TO HELP

London, March 22.—The Cossacks of the Orenburg region have decided to supply Petrograd and Moscow with foodstuffs in large quantities and "to observe loyally all the decrees regarding food supplies," says a wireless report from Russia.

This decision was made at a formal conference at which the delegates agreed to organize soviets in all localities and to take steps against any attempts to a counter-revolution.

An elaborate program for the "Socialistic organization of agriculture" was laid before the conference. A series of agricultural communities have been formed in the various districts and provinces. The Council of the People's Commissaries, the report was listening.

Also some men who always cast a ballot precisely as the boss tells them to, are highly scandalized at the idea that women know enough to vote.

There is one telephone for every nine persons in the United States, and it often seems as if the other eight were listening.
