At Long View Park, Saturday, Sept. 18, at 3 o'clock we will have a fleet of miniature airplanes and they will be flown by a factory expert. The boys that capture them may keep them. They will be started by Mr. Whitmore, a demonstrator from Dayton, Ohio, (the home of the Wright Airplane Co.) These planes, ("Right Fliers"), were designed by an expert aviator. The planes to be flown are 30 inches long, wing span of 20 inches, weight 2 1/2 ounces, and propeller diameter, 7 1/4 inches. The average flight is 500 feet at an altitude of from 30 to 50 feet. It is not only a toy but a scientific invention which will afford the boys much amusement, yet give them the opportunity to study the principles of flying. Do not forget the date and hour of flying.
