

IRISH HAS REST AFTER BLOOD RIOT

A brief telephone message at 8 o'clock this morning had reported the city at least temporarily quiet. They came a gap in the reports, up to the noon hour, but whether this indicated a censorship was not known.

Meager reports during the night stated that shooting was going on as a sequel to yesterday's assassinations and the subsequent clash between the military and a crowd at Crooke park.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, the chief secretary for Ireland, was in conference during the morning with members of the cabinet in preparation for the expected bringing up in parliament today of yesterday's day's Irish happenings. Nationalist members, it was understood, were prepared to move an adjournment of the house in order to secure an opportunity for full debate on the situation.

A dispatch to the press association from Dublin early this afternoon placed the number of dead resulting from the Crooke park shooting at 12.

The lord mayor of Dublin applied for police protection last evening, it was stated officially today. The viceroy gave permission for the guard being sent, but no regular military or police being available, a party of "black and tans" was sent to guard the lord mayor.

The sending of additional troops to Ireland is being seriously considered, it was stated at the war office this afternoon.

Official announcement was made this afternoon that the assassinations in Dublin yesterday totalled fourteen, while six persons, including Sinn Feiners, were injured during the attacks. Four prisoners were taken.

Because of the completeness with which the attack upon the officers had been received, an official report, the troops and police in Dublin had made very few arrests of suspects in connection with yesterday's shootings.

WILL END ARMENIAN WARFARE

on behalf of the foreign relations committee.)

A. J. Balfour of Great Britain, speaking on the resolution, said that if the United States had been willing to take the mandate for Armenia, she had the men, money and spirit to make her an ideal mandator.

The league has been unable to accomplish anything with regard to the Armenian situation, Mr. Balfour admitted, because the condition of Armenia, he argued, was not such as the league was organized to deal with.

Mr. Balfour said an appeal must be sent to the 41 states of the league for a united effort to save Armenia.

Rene Viviani of France, following Mr. Balfour, said all were agreed that compassion would no longer suffice for Armenia.

"It is not the fault of France if the league today is disarmed before the situation in Armenia is righted," said M. Viviani. Virtually the entire assembly applauded this statement. It was noted, however, that the British delegation did not applaud.

"If the conference had listened to France," continued M. Viviani, "we would have had an international staff and an international force to deal with this situation."

M. Viviani presented a resolution inviting the council of the league to consult the powers with a view to the constitution of a force sufficient to put an end to the hostilities in Armenia.
