Recognizing Hennepin's Importance.

A Chicago paper commenting on the condemnation proceedings for canal right of way, says:

The importance of this project to Chicago is very great. Connecting with the Mississippi a few miles below Rock Island, it will run eastward 97 miles, entering the town of Hennepin. Its width is to be 80 feet with a depth of seven feet. When completed it will give a direct water connection between Chicago and all upper Mississippi river points. It will enable such traffic as can reach the upper Mississippi to be carried to Chicago at greatly reduced transportation rates. And not only will portation rates. And not only will it give cheaper rates to products transported over it, but it will enforce a reduction of freight charges on railroad lines with which is at 6.45 p. m. Y. P. S. C.
