The Police Exhibition.

The spectacle the police force made of itself yesterday in being hauled over the line of march in the patrol wagon was the subject of much condemnation on the streets last evening, and it was termed one of the most disgraceful exhibitions of impropriety and ignorance of the duties of the situation ever witnessed in Rock Island. The show made by the sore-footed, tired Rock Island department was quite in contrast with the appearance made by Chief Kittleson's neatly uniformed, well-disciplined platoon, the officers composing which rode down to Third avenue and Twentieth street in their patrol wagon and then alighted and formed on foot for the procession, their wagon following the line they made. The Rock Island bluecoats on the other hand were huddled into their wagon and driven over the route of the procession like so many prisoners, an exhibition as much of laziness as of bad judgment.
