Big Hotel at Sea Isle City Collapses-Long Branch and Asbury Park.

At Sandy Hook where even breath of a breeze can be twisted into a gale, Sunday night's blow was a howling hurricane. It was a fearful night for the observer, and all who had reason to venture in sight of the seas. The waves broke higher than ever before and at one time the old tower, which incoming and outgoing ships signal shook and tottered as though it wards morning, when it is estimated the gale was speeding along in the vicinity of seventy-five miles an hour. The storm was the most devastating that has visited Sea Island City since the great storm of 1989, which was ac-
