TELLS OF BLOODY MONDAY

Charles Durham Writes an Interesting Letter From Harvard.

The first Monday of the new college year at most colleges is called "Bloody Monday," and at Harvard, especially, the natural antipathies of sophomores and freshmen are given considerable latitude on that day. Charles Durham, who has just entered Harvard in the class of 1903, thus describes what happened this year in a letter to his parents Col. and Mrs. C. W. Durham: "Bloody Monday" was a wet, cloudy day. All day the skies dripped, and tried to disassemble the freshmen and sophomores from fighting out the struggle for supremacy. The freshmen attended at Memorial Hall at 8 p. m. to hear addresses from the president to the teachers of the faculty in regard to their college duties, and to be introduced to their instructors. After the refreshments during which the students made a fearful din by crowding up to the tables and beating time to their appetites on the saucers with their spoons, we left the building.

"It was still drizzling, but we heard shouting, rah, rah, rah, 1903! Rah, rah, rah, 99! So we hurried, ran and stumbled over the quadrangle to the lawn in front of Weld hall. There they were, two large crowds, one shouting hoarsely, 'this way 99,' the other, 'this way 1903.' So we found our places and then came the charge. The advance of the Sophs came up at full speed and rolled against our lines; then the main body appeared, but the shock was over. It was now a queering, gasping endeavor to penetrate the enemy, not the individuals, but the ranks. Suddenly down went someone in front of me, then another and I followed, chin foremost into the heap. There was no turning back possible then, but the crowd separated slowly and the heap dissolved except one, who after a little time, limped to his room on a friend's arm. My hat was snatched the first rush and now most of the others were bareheaded, too. After a few desultory, fierce skirmishes we organized a wedge. Three or four fellows now locked arms and the rest backed them up. The result was splendid. In spite of our not knowing each other (we have not yet had a class meeting) we rallied our men by the cry, 'fast developing into a croak with the strain and wet, 'this way men of 1903!' I joined the first of those wedges and from that time until nearly the end I was in the front. They chose the large men for that purpose, sometimes three, sometimes four locking arms and facing the tide of sophomores, up and down over the campus, on the walks and against trees, everywhere confusion and wet. A great many sophomores wore their football suits and were terrifying objects at last. One fellow came running full speed right at me and as hard as he could, but I braced myself for the shock and stopped him. Most of the ground was now worked into a sort of paste ankle deep, and according to the list of lost or missing, it must be a mixture of cuff buttons, hats and other miscellaneous articles. It was our victory; we had our money's worth, and the class of 1900 can crow for the present. It would have been a glorious affair but for the drizzle. As it is, we are sore, but enthusiastic."

MR. NELSON IS ACCUSED.

Moline Woman Begins Proceedings For Divorce.

Lillie M. Nelson in an application for divorce filed in the circuit clerk's office accuses her husband, Nels Nelson, with drunkenness, cruelty and infidelity. They were married Oct. 26, 1892, at Moline, and have one son, Wallace, aged 4 years. According to the wife's story Nelson has been a real bad man for the past few years. He would thump her at frequent intervals and do everything he could to make life miserable to her, so she says. Mrs. Nelson names Minnie King and Mrs. Falls as women with whom her husband had improper relations.

A Chicago Wedding.

The Chicago papers contain a report of the marriage last week of Miss Florence M. Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Wade, to Harry Hallenbeck, at the home of the bride's parents, 1096 Washington boulevard. Bishop Fallows performed the ceremony. Only relatives and intimate friends were present. The bride wore a neat traveling suit of blue trimmed in tan and carried a bouquet of roses. The ceremony was performed under a lovers' knot composed of palms and roses. The couple departed on a late train for a short wedding tour, and will be at home after Oct. 15 at 1096 Washington boulevard. The bride is a daughter of Lawyer Wade, who has been indicted by the Rock Island county grand jury for obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Hondache and Marquette.

Vera, Ill., Sept. 28, 1896.—My father was troubled with headache and rheumatism. He began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla about six months ago, and he has not had a spell of headache since that time and his rheumatism is almost cured. We believe that a continued use of Hood's Sarsaparilla will completely cure.

CARES FOR THE CHILDREN

Bridge Company to Send Gleckner's Little One East.

The Phoenix Bridge company, by which John Gleckner was employed at the time of his frightful death Sunday, has decided to care for the unfortunate man's three orphaned children, who will be sent to Brooklyn, New York, where they have a grandmother. Supt. Miliken of the Bridge company says that is the intention of the company, the officers of which at Phoenixville, Pa., were greatly moved when informed of the death of Gleckner, and the circumstances of his family.

An inquest was conducted over Gleckner's remains in Davenport yesterday afternoon, and a verdict in accordance with the facts as set forth in last evening's issue, returned. The funeral occurred this morning from St. Anthony's church, the remains being interred beside those of deceased's wife and child in St. Marguerite's cemetery. Employees of the Phoenix Bridge company took charge of the funeral.

TRAVELING WITH PEARY.

George E. Putnam, of Davenport, One of the Expedition Party.

Davenport is interested in the Peary expedition, on the steamer Hope, to Melville bay in search of the great meteorite which had been discovered at Cape York on a previous expedition, by reason of the fact that one of the members of the party is a native of Davenport, and his home is really still there, though he only finds time to visit it for a short stay semi-occasionally.

George E. Putnam, son of Mrs. C. E. Putnam, and brother of W. C. Putnam, is the gentleman in question. He has been an assistant in the United States coast and geodetic survey for many years, and when the party of scientific men, who were to accompany Lieut. Peary, was made up he was offered a place as one of the representatives of Cornell university. The government granted him leave of absence for the purpose and furnished him with the instruments with which he was to take observations.

The members of the expedition arrived in New York last week on their return, just before Mrs. Putnam returned to this city, and she saw her son for two days there. He had many thrilling stories to tell of his experiences; stories that did not get into the newspaper accounts, as they dealt with the scientific aspects of the trip almost entirely.

Joe's Stumping Tour.

Ever since the announcement was made that City Attorney Haas had been invited by Mark Hanna's trust to make a tour of Nebraska and close the campaign out there with a flourish of trumpets, considerable interest has been manifested as to what cities had been assigned to him. While the itinerary has not been fully completed, it is understood that he has been billed for one-night stands at the following places: Germantown, Hay Springs, Beaver Crossing, Box Elder, Crab Orchard, Port Siding, Swedeburg, Haymow, Venus, Weeping Water, Lusktown, Ogallala and Broken Bow. It is also understood that Hon. W. F. Cody is making elaborate arrangements to entertain the distinguished orator on his Platte river ranch.

Thomas Still Serves.

Notwithstanding that the McKinley club take all the glory and honor which may accrue from the trip to Canton, T. Hanna Thomas still wears that serene smile. While the McKinleyites were beating their cymbals and making other demonstrations of joy at their headquarters on Third avenue last night, Thomas and his cohorts of the Lincoln outfit were planning to receive Congressman Prince Friday evening. There has been so much talk about the "hide and seek" game which Prince has been engaged in that Thomas finally, although reluctantly, decided that there was nothing to do but to trot his favorite up to the footlights.

Meetings.

Hon. E. W. Hurst and E. H. Guyer went to Port Byron this afternoon, where they will address a democratic rally tonight.

The Bryan and Sewall flag raisings by the ladies of South Moline, which were to have occurred Saturday evening, will take place tonight.

COUNTY BUILDING.

12—Christopher Simmas to German Evangelical Lutheran church, lot 6, block 3, J. W. Spencer's add., Rock Island, $1.

Rebecca Herbert to Emil Evers, lot 6, block 4, Gen. Rodman's add., Rock Island, $2,800.

Charles L. Weeks to F. S. Vanlaningham, lots 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, block 59, village of Andalusia, $350.

To Offer a Reward of $100.

for a case of catarrh that cannot be cured creates the suspicion that the article so advertised is a humbug. Do you know of any such reward being paid? Ely Bros. do not promise rewards in order to sell their well known "Cream Balm." They offer the most effective medicine, prepared in convenient form to use, and at the lowest possible price, 50 cents per bottle. An honest and effective remedy, which is absolutely free from mercurials or other harmful drugs.

THE ARGUS, only 10c a week.

TELL ABOUT THAT TRIP.

Lincoln and McKinley Clubs Held Joint Session Monday.

Men who went to Canton to get the glad hand from Mark Hanna's hired men related incidents of the trip to their fellow republicans last night, both the Lincoln and McKinley clubs holding joint sessions over the safe return of the Rock Island pilgrims. E. U. Sweeney and W. H. Gost held the boards at the Third avenue store room, the latter gentleman telling how well the Canton major was standing the strain of the campaign, and then drifting into a discussion of the tariff question, being careful to evade reference to our financial system, as the ex-congressman has reason to believe that people in this neck of the woods are not to his sentiments in this respect. Mr. Sweeney, who was spokesman for the Rock Island delegation, stated the details of what transpired at the major's home. He said the Rock Island crowd had its picture taken with Major McKinley in the group, and that the picture would be 50 cents apiece to all desiring them. Mr. Sweeney also said that Major McKinley did no more handshaking that day after greeting the Rock Island crowd—and who could blame him.

Some said that it had been reported that the republican majority in Illinois had been overestimated, whereupon Capt. J. H. Hanson rose and assured the brethren that the statement that the state would give 100,000 majority to McKinley was correct. Since when did Hanson become such a good guesser? Down at the Lincoln club the meeting was addressed by J. J. Ingram, J. W. Morgan, Charles Spencer and Sam Armit. The Lincoln Flambeau club also decided to go to Peoria next Wednesday to hear Tom Reed.

MARY MORTON IS LEASED.

Claim That McCaffrey's Boat Was Not Seen Here.

The St. Louis papers announce that the steamer Mary Morton, which is owned by Capt. John McCaffrey and was in the local excursion business during the past season, has been sold. According to the reports circulated a deal was closed last Wednesday by which the Morton became the property of Capt. Harry and Capt. John Ross, of the lower river. The boat is on her way south and will make her initial trip to Memphis this week. The boat will ply between those two points, making weekly trips as an independent packet.

H. S. McCaffrey, attorney for the company and its business agent, was seen and stated that the boat had been leased to Capt. Harry and not sold. It was the intention of the McCaffreys to put the Morton in winter quarters at Keokuk, but since the deal was closed the boat has been sent to St. Louis. The boat will spend the winter, according to Mr. McCaffrey, in the southern trade.

Zebras Stronger Than Horses.

The zebra is an almost invincible little beast, and up to now all attempts to train it to work have had small success. The Boers, persistent and methodical, have conquered it at last, and put the hitherto surely animal into the traces of their mail coaches.

Together the zebras show an inclination to bite, but when harnessed with mules they are easier to manage. This utilization of the zebra is one of the greatest importance to South Africa. Horses are likely to be killed by hyenas, while the zebras are a match, with teeth and hoofs, for any hyena. Boers find that the zebra is capable of greater movement than the horse and is not so susceptible to disease. Strange to say, the little striped beast is also stronger than the horse, though its weight is less than one-half that of the other draft animal.—Strand Magazine.

Original Deductions.

A teacher in the mountain field gives in a recent letter some of the answers that came in from the pupils in their examination papers. Some of them are amusing.

"Climate is the combined space of heat and moisture."

"The solar system is situated in that part of the heavens called the milky way."

"The polar circle is parallel, running slanting round the earth."

"It is the wind's duty to refresh and cherish the earth."

"A volcano is the safety valve of an earthquake."

Digestive organs are termed "digestive organs," and the different races of men were given as "Indians, negroes, whites and French."—American Missionary.

If You Had a Friend.

About to visit some section of country where malaria does, either in the form of chills and fever or hidden malarialism, you particularly wish what would be about the best advice you could give him. We will tell you—carry along or procure on arriving that pleasant, refreshing, invigorating, stomachic, blood-purifying, and generally useful remedy, known throughout malarial regions, here and in other countries, as the most certain means of destroying the malarial scourge, and relieving it of its full destructive influence. Not only does it purify the system by increasing its elasticity, but overcomes irregularity of digestion, the liver and bowels, and counters the malarial effects of over-excitation, acidity and indigestion, restores rough weather, or overcomes the ordinary or infectious, loss of appetite and digestive assimilation. The functions of assimilation, bilious correction and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary.
