

A Physician's Tribute

To the Benefits Received From Dr. Miles' NEW HEART CURE.

HART DISEASE is curable. It is not surprising that all cases are not cured, since no physician has made the heart a special study for a quarter of a century as Dr. Miles has done. The following tribute from a physician will be read with interest. "For six years prior to taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure my wife was a terrible sufferer from heart disease. She had a constant fluttering of the heart and severe palpitation and pain in the left side. She took three bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and was completely restored to health, and has not taken a drop of medicine during the past two years. Under these circumstances I cannot do otherwise than recommend it to others." Friendship, N. Y. W. H. SCOTT, M. D.

SHOW A SUCCESS.

Not an Untoward Event to Mar the Queen's Jubilee.

ARRANGEMENTS WERE PERFECT.

Naval Review a Splendid Exhibit of British Power on the Sea—Beautiful and Also Awesome Close of the Review Saturday Night—A Royal Salute Thunders Through the Darkness—Fair-Like Illumination Perfectly Executed—Americans Receive the Greatest Attention and Most Favors.

London, June 28.—The British colossal pageant, one of the greatest the world has ever seen, has been completed without a contretemps to mar its success. Last week was an anxious one for those in authority; but the whole scheme for the celebration of the queen's jubilee was largely planned, carefully carried out, and has been a triumph for the management and an object lesson in unity for the hosts of guests. The latter have seen in the gathering representative contingents from all parts of the empire, who gave a meaning and a purpose to the procession generally lacking in similar displays. It is an open secret that the Prince of Wales was among the hardest workers. Not a single step of importance was taken without his approval, and much of the praiseworthy work done is directly due to his initiative.

This Was the Queen's Idea. A notable exception to this state of affairs was the religious service outside St. Paul's cathedral, which was the Queen's idea. When it was suggested that the officials with dismay, and disaster was feared as a result of the rush of sightseers into that narrow-roofed part of London, but courage and resources accomplished the queen's wishes, and the task of managing the hosts, numbering a couple of million people, within that exceedingly limited space and amid scenes of extraordinary excitement, was carried out in a marvelous manner, thanks to the skill of the police and their strategy in preventing the possibility of rushes; and also, thanks to the admirable demeanor of the crowds.

Uncle Sam "In It" from the Start. The foreign representatives were greatly impressed by the way everything was carried out. Unqualified and generous approval of the festivities has been bestowed by the press and people of all nations and communities. A pleasant feature of the week was the American's complete success. The United States special embassy was easily the most prominent and the most honored throughout the celebrations by all.

It is almost needless to add that Colonel John Hay, the United States ambassador, is equally gratified. Both he and the rest of the regular embassy have done all in their power to insure Mr. Reid's success.

WOUND UP WITH THE NAVAL REVIEW.

The naval review Saturday wound it all up, and in this the power of Britain on the sea was displayed on the Solent with thrilling effect. There were vessels of all classes, showing to visiting naval men the pride of the navy and giving them an insight of its prowess. Again the Americans were shown all honors, not alone by British ships, but by the cruisers of other powers. The ships lay in six lines, each about five miles long. Five of these lines were occupied by British war vessels. They completed less than half of the navy Great Britain can call into action. The navy list comprises—including ships in and out of commission, but on the list—439 vessels, mounting 2,359 guns with a tonnage of 1,463,219 and a horse-power of 1,887,635.

WAS A FAIRY SCENE AT NIGHT.

Illumination of the Fleet—Royal Salute Fired in the Dark.

Ryde, Isle of Wight, June 28.—The illumination of the fleet at Spithead Saturday was one of the most charming of a week of delightful spectacles. The night was pleasantly dark; no moon dimmed the effect of mortal creation; the waters of the Solent were peacefully quiet; everything contributed to enhance the success of the programme. It was all ghostly, fantastic, suggestive of fairyland and the world of magic; a fitting termination to a day of imposing realities and iron facts. The brutal grimness of all the engines of destruction together, the veritable teeth of war—lost in peaceful shadow and softening gloom. The spectator knew it was all there, but it was not relentlessly thrust upon the mind, as it had been the day long from every angle of vision.

A minute before 9 the miles of waters showed only such lights as are usually associated with shipping, red and green lights at mastheads; gleams that, like tiny rows of diamonds, showed the ports of passenger craft, with here and there some parti-colored lights that had been lit on private vessels before the time. At 9 o'clock there was a flash, a rocket from the Renown ripped into the dark blue and, bursting with a shower of splendid stars, signaled the lighting up of the fleet. The attack of the rocket had not turned toward the water ere the mighty fleet was suddenly skeletoned in brilliant yellow light, hulls, smokestacks, spars and cordage being thrown into strong relief. Lines of light ran in graceful curves along the sweep of the monsters, now ghostly gray in the sudden glare, and from bow to stern over the mastsheads were garlands of incandescent light like "jeweled necklaces" hung upon the horns of night. A few minutes later they vanished with the suddenness of their appearance, leaving the spectator staring at the place where they had been. Then the darkness was broken again, this time by numberless searchlights which, with uncanny glare, like the eyes of a hundred cyclops, patterned the heavens as a checker board with radiant bands. Later these "eyes" slowly swept the gathered craft and the shores beyond, as if seeking something to discover or devour. Then they were all shut off, leaving the darkness more visible than ever.

A salute and the darkness was pierced by hundreds of signal rockets, ambidextrously soaring into the blue with messages of jubilation, not disasters; delivering them and falling, burned out and useless, into the waste of waters. Then a signal leaped from the Renown and there was provided an exhibition of what war would be like if ever an immense fleet of battle ships and cruisers should engage at night. A royal salute of sixty guns was fired from every ship capable of firing it. Great guns and small guns answered each other in one prolonged roar, rising and falling in intensity as more or less of them fired together. It was truly awful. Even the certain knowledge that there were no deadly missiles in the guns did not prevent a chill feeling from creeping over many of the civilian spectators.

Then the angry roaring ceased, much to the relief of thousands who were stopping their ears. As the panoply of unpleasant smoke slowly drifted away the fleet again stood revealed in fairy lines of lightness. The signs of the war were dimming and disappearing in the shadow. The gentler side of things was again put to the front to instill into the minds of departing thousands that while the dogs of war were "Ready, aye Ready," after all what the people came out to see was the "triumph of peace and the glory of the queen."

IN HONOR OF T. B. DAVIS.

Complimentary Banquet at the Tower Saturday Evening.

The complimentary banquet given at the Tower Inn Saturday evening by the tri-city master plumbers proved an enjoyable and auspicious affair, bearing testimony to the approval of the plumbers of Mr. Davis' successful efforts at Springfield in securing the passage through the recent legislature of what is known as the Davis plumbing inspection bill. The menu proved one of Manager McHugh's best, and music by Peterson's orchestra enlivened the occasion. John O'Neill, of Peoria, presided as toastmaster, and made remarks, as did Senator Fisher, Representative McEniry and others. The company included State Senator H. V. Fisher, Representatives William McEniry and William Payne, Thomas P. Culliton, of Chicago, president of the National Plumbers' association; William Castlen and Frank Keeler, also of Chicago; M. F. Kirkwood, James Coale, of St. Louis; John O'Neill, Jr., of Peoria; J. G. Skinner, C. F. Skinner, E. K. Swan, H. W. Flambeck, M. Bergstrom, James Hewson, Moline; T. H. Davis, George Stauduhar, F. Stauduhar, T. F. Leary, John Blake, John Shofar, J. P. Hubbell, Rock Island; William Stewart, George Reddig, O. F. Corvin, Moline; Fred Wernentin, John Diedrichsen and John Corry, Davenport.

Apart from the testimonial the affair was to Mr. Davis, a hammer was presented to John Blake in token of his being the best "knocker" present. Mr. McEniry got off the hit of the evening, when in reply to an expression of surprise, as well as pleasure, as to how nicely the plumbers' bill had developed at Springfield, he said he was amazed to see any misunderstanding from a plumber as to how any bill could develop.
