CONGRESSIAN CHARLES S. HART-MAN, of Montana, like a great many other noted men, believes the democrats who differed on the money question last year will be found working in complete harmony in 1898. The noted congressman says: "Lest year thousands of republicans voted for McKinley, believing that the party would assuredly do something to remonstrize silver according to its amphatic promise. Now all thing to remonet se silver according to its emphatic promise. Now all hope of the fulfillment of that piedge is gone. The United States must act; act independently and alone, if need be, to free itself from the galling yoke of financial slavery."

THE Chicago Legal News says that ex.Gov. John P. Altgeld will, on the first of January, commence a law partnership with Judge Cyrus Herron, of Kenese, who will make his future subtence in Chicago. Judge there is the street and sked him if he would have a page in 1809 over Charles A. Smith, a republican; he has always been a democrat until late years when he was affiliated with the pore. "The greatest difficulty in reorganising our money system is to get rid of the greenbacks. Most everybody thinks they are a mighty good kind of money. There is a sentimental or patriotic attachment to them growing out of the war. The soldiers were paid with greenbacks, and when the country was hard up, and all the gold had run away from us, the greenbacks stald and helped us put down the rebellion. Then you know we have been bragging ever since I can remember that our out of door. greenbacks are the best kind on greenbacks are the best kind of money in existence; that they are no good as gold wherever the sun chines, and all that sort of thing, and eld-fachioused people who have heard this talk will say: "If greenbacks are such a good kind of money, why do you want to get rid of them?" That is a hard question to answer.

Can redeem the greenbacks is by an issue of bonds, and it will take a great deal of talking to convince the plain people that it is wise financiering to replace a debt on which we pay no interest with one upon which we will have to pay even so little as 2 or 3 per cent a year. That is a clear 3 per cent a year. That is a clear proposition. That does not require much demonstration. In ordinary Sawaron Cullou told the republicans who met at Sringfield a few days ago that he would be beaten unless they should get together and gerrymander this state in the interest of the grand old party. That may be to Cullom's mind a sufficient rentition. In ordinary business affairs they would say that a man was crazy who insisted upon paying interest when he could borrow all the money he wants for nothing. That's the stumbling block in the way of the revision of our currency laws, and congress is going to get just that far, but no farther."

He swung aboard a Walnut Hills light car at Fifth street and was evintly angry at having had a long wait, for he complained in audible tones about tired men having to stand on street corners. When he stepped inside and saw every seat taken, a disappointed look came over his face, and he grabbed for a strap with a deep growl. Luck was coming his way, however, for at Eighth street a man near the door got out, and the tired man sank into his place with a sigh of relief. The car then proceeded to the opposite side of the street and stopped to take on a man and a woman. The passengers looked up curiously at seeing a couple in full dress climb abourd. A pale blue silk dress, low cut, and with short sleeves, adorned the woman, and her escort was got up in immaculate dress togs. The man was very gallant and looked about for a seat

They always had to have some excuse for having visited the state line shop, and so the blacksmith, after supplying them with a few dipperfuls of hard cider, would take the shoes off their beasts and put on new ones, whether they needed it or not. For this service he would charge a good round price, while in many instances it was noticed he made no charge for the cider. "But, as is the way of all flesh, this blacksmith died one day, and then his business secrets came out. He left an estate of over $80,000, and in the cellar of the cider press a great number of empty whisky barrels were found. For years he had been putting whisky into his cider and had been setting new shoes on nearly every horse which came along, willy nilly."—Washington Star.

For instance, when walking in a perfect calm, he can ascertain the proximity of objects by the feeling of the atmosphere upon his face. It would seem at first that the echo given back, were it only from his breathing, might be sensible to his ear, but it has been ascertained by experiment that a blind man with his cars stopped can tell when any large object is close to his face, even when it approaches so slowly as not to cause any sensible current of air. When he is walking along the street, he can tell whether it is wide or narrow, whether the houses are high or low, if any opening which he may be passing is a court closed up at the end or whether it has an outlet to another street, and he can tell by the sound of his footsteps in what lane, or court, or square he is.

He goes along boldly, seeming to se with his cars and to have landmarks in the air. Of course no blind man likes to go over a new route unattended, but ethin he has traversed it once he knows ethin point of importance to him.—
