San Fernando Had Been Vacated Before Arrival of MacArthur's Forces.

OVERSHINE'S LINE IS ATTACKED.

Rebels Maintain a Fusillade on the 4th Infantry for Several Hours During the Night—Demonstration Ineffectual Beyond Scaring the Inhabitants of Malate—Otis Reports Casualties in Yesterday's Engagement.

Manila, May 5.—At 5 p. m. MacArthur's division advanced to San Fernando today and found the place had been evacuated by the rebels, who left only a small detachment to cover retreat by train. MacArthur occupied, burning the town without loss. The rebels south of Manila attempted to rush through Overshine's line last night. The attempt failed, but the rebels maintained the fusillade on the 4th infantry for several hours. The demonstration was ineffectual beyond scaring the inhabitants of Malate. The outposts of the Idaho and California regiments beyond San Pedro Macati were also attacked during the night. Lawton is still at Balang. New York, May 5.—The Journal's Manila dispatch says Gen. Luna was wounded in the fighting near San Tomas yesterday. A monitor today is shelling Paranaque, south of Manila.

On Yesterday's Victories.

Washington, May 5.—Otis cables: "The following are the casualties at San Tomas yesterday: One officer, Lieut. Toggart, of the 20th Kansas, and four enlisted men were killed. Three officers and 22 enlisted men were wounded, among them being Gen. Funston, in the hand, slight. Lawton reports the capture of over 150,000 bushels of rice, and 265 tons of sugar at Balang. The value of the substances captured at Malolos is $1,500,000."

SAN TOMAS NOW OURS.

Gen. Wheaton and Hale Take It After a Long and Hot Engagement.

Manila, May 5, 8:25 a. m.—In spite of the peaceful overtures of their commissioners, the Filipinos vigorously resisted the advance of General MacArthur's division from Apalit toward San Fernando, fighting desperately at long range, after running from trench to trench when driven out by the American artillery. The movement commenced at 5:30 in the morning. General Hale's brigade, consisting of five battalions under command of Major Young, of the Sixth artillery; two battalions of the Fifty-first Iowa regiment, the First Nebraska regiment and the First Dakota regiment, advanced along the road a few miles west of the railway line.

Much Marsh and Many Streams.

General Wheaton, with Hotchkiss and Gatling guns, under the command of Lieutenant Naylor, of the Utah Light artillery mounted on handcars, pushed ahead, the Twentieth Kansas and First Montana regiments deploying to the right and left when feasible. The country to be traversed proved the worst yet encountered, miles of marshes and many unfordable streams delaying the advance materially. Both brigades met with resistance simultaneously on approaching the river near San Tomas, which is about eight kilometers from Apalit. The center span of the railroad bridge had dropped into the river, and the rebels had only left a small force to check General Wheaton, their main body lining the strong trenches in front of General Hale.

Rebels Offer a Stubborn Resistance.

Although the attacking forces poured a very heavy artillery and musketry fire across the river the enemy stubbornly resisted for over an hour, ultimately breaking when Major Young shelled their left flank and then retreating along the river bank under cover. General Wheaton, in the meantime, tried ineffectually to draw the fire of the Filipinos in the trenches east of the track. So soon as they discovered that the nature of the country would permit only a few skirmishes on each side of the embankment the rebels regained their courage and fought desperately for three quarters of an hour, in the face of the American volleys and a rapid fire fusillade, until flanked by the Montana regiment. Then a general scramble ensued, most of the enemy boarding trains that were in readiness and the others taking the road to San Fernando, after burning the villages of San Tomas and Minahin.

Our Loss Is Four Killed, Sixteen Wounded.

OUR ENSIGN TO STAY

Wherever It Flies Today It Will Fly for All Time, General Alger Trusts.

NOT TO COME DOWN ANYWHERE.

Banquet of the Loyal Legion Addressed by the War Secretary, and General King and Breckinridge—Preparation for War a Necessity—Remarks About the Boys of '61—Brief Message from the President to the Michigan Legion.

Detroit, May 5.—Secretary of War Alger left for Chicago at 11:30 last night. Today he will meet the members of the Chicago drainage commission to consult in reference to the question as to whether Lake Michigan shall be tapped to assist in carrying off the drainage of the city via the drainage canal. General Alger is accompanied only by Mrs. Alger and by his private secretary, Victor Mason, of Washington. The general was one of the speakers of the evening last night at the fifteenth annual banquet of the Michigan commandery, Order of the Loyal Legion, in the Hotel Cadillac. There were present 200 of General Alger's comrades, officers of the civil war. Responding to a call for a speech, the secretary said:

"No Complaints from Manila. I am glad to be here among my old comrades who know what war is, and can appreciate its difficulties and drawbacks, and I know you are thinking to-night of our soldiers in far-off Manila, and thinking of them with pride. I assure you that while they have had many hardships incident to the tropical climate, etc., there has been not one complaint from that army of 25,000 men. They have taught the world that to face an American army is to face that which is invincible."

Need of Preparation for War.

"We have learned during the past year the necessity to be prepared for war. Our soldiers landed in Cuba the 22nd of June, and on the 17th of July more of the enemy surrendered to them than there were of them. There is bound to be privation and sufferings in the field. Some people thought the soldiers were not well treated, and made much of the fact that some of the beef spoiled; but the boys didn't murmur. I hope that these things have taught us to always be prepared for emergencies. We cannot look far into the future, but we believe that what is governed by a hand higher than ours will be for the best."

Flag Will Stay Where It Flies.

"I trust that our flag, wherever it has been placed, will never be hauled down. We are going to stay in those far-off islands with our forces until those people are able to govern themselves. The president said to me, 'Give those Michigan companies my love.' Let us drink to the health of Companion McKinley. Good night and God bless you." The toast was drunk standing.

Speaks of the Boys of '61.

Gen. King ridicules the complaints of soldiers in the Cuban Campaign.

"The Republic and the Men Who Saved It" was responded to by General Horatio C. King, of New York. Alluding to recent national events he asserted that the country was expanding until he wouldn't wonder if we owned the earth. "But," added the general, "the boys of '61 are no back numbers. The boys of '61 did grand things at Santiago, but if we of '61 had done no more fighting than that we would have hardly a half column in the newspapers. The people will never forget the boys of '61 and their succession of mighty victories."

General King ridiculed the complaints of some of the younger generation of soldiers regarding lack of conveniences in the Cuban campaign. He declined to call them sufferings, for he denied there were any remarkable sufferings caused by lack of supplies and equipments. The civil war death losses were 12 1/2 per cent, against 14 per cent. in the Spanish war. "But," said he, "the boys of '61 met every emergency they were called upon to meet. All honor to them." Inspector General Breckinridge, responding to calls, eloquently commended the achievements of the soldiers of the Spanish and Philippine wars. He said that the qualities of the soldiers and of the cause for which they fought was such that the results were as complete an illustration of gallantry as America had ever sent forth, no matter how many men were lost compared with other wars. Concluding General Breckinridge paid a glowing tribute to President McKinley.

DAUGHTER KILLS HER MOTHER

Because the Latter Tells the Granddaughter a Family Secret.

Chicago, May 5.—Mrs. Augusta Styles yesterday afternoon shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Catherine Schultz. Mrs. Schultz was to attend a meeting of the Martha Washington Frau-Verein in Waller's hall, and her daughter lay in wait for her in the hallway of the building until she came. Five shots were fired, three taking effect. Mrs. Styles, who is 25 years old, said she was driven to the act by the mother revealing a closed chapter of her early life to Mrs. Styles' daughter, 16 years of age. The girl's parents were married, and Mrs. Schultz is said to have disclosed the fact to her grandchild. The matricide has been arrested. This is the third crime in two days in which a woman has been involved and the second in which the woman was the homicide. Wednesday Hugo Warden probably fatally shot his wife and then killed himself on account of domestic unhappiness.

SAYS FARMERS SPECULATE

Story on the "Lamb" Who Are Shorn in Wheat Gambling.

Washington, May 5.—Legrand Powers, for eight years labor commissioner of Minnesota, was before the industrial commission yesterday. Powers said that speculation in grain did not affect the prices of it except temporarily, nor affect the farmers except so far as they engaged in speculation. "You don't mean to say," suggested Governor Harris, "that the farmers speculate?" "They do," replied the witness. "Very largely they are the lambs which are shorn on the stock exchanges. Stop the farmers from gambling and you will stop it all. Three-fourths of the money thus lost is lost by farmers."
