Read Testimony:

"Mr. Matthew Young, of this village, has entirely recovered. He was afflicted with cancer of the lower lip.
The cancer was removed the last of September by Dr. Uriah Branch, of
St. Paul, who is a cancer specialist.
Dr. Branch did not use a knife, but put on a salve which drew out the cancer. The principal cure was effected by some internal remedy, which Dr. Branch says kills the cancer germ, and which has proven true in
Mr. Young's case, for he was cured in 10 days. No scar remains and the cure is permanent."

Wedlock.

THE COPP-GADIENT NUPTIALS

Ceremony at St. Joseph's Church in Davenport—James B. Mott and Miss Up De Graff Married at Roodhouse, Ill.—William Geer and Miss Sadie Schindler United—Other Matrimonial Events.

William E. Copp, of this city, and Miss Mary M. Gadient, daughter of Mrs. Jacob Gadient, of Davenport, were married at the parsonage of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Davenport at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Father Niernann officiating. The wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's mother, 709 Marquette street. Frank Gadient, of Davenport, and Miss Bertha Copp, sister of the groom, were the attendants. The groom is a member of the retail tea firm of Copp & Gadient, in this city, and is a widely known and popular young man, while his bride is one of Davenport's estimable ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Copp will reside in Davenport temporarily.

Other Marriages.
At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Minnie Schindler, 715 Ninth avenue, at 7:30 Wednesday evening, was celebrated the marriage of William Greer, Jr., of Coal Valley, and Miss Sadie Schindler, Rev. T. W. Grafton, of Memorial Christian church, officiating. Charles Hardin was groomsmen, and Miss Mary Schindler bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Greer will reside near Coal Valley, where the groom conducts a farm.

Thomas E. McLean, of this city, and Miss Lola A. Stevens, of Swan Creek, Ill., were married at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles W. Zimmerman, 324 Fifteenth street. Rev. Ira W. Allen, Jr., pastor of Central Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by a company of relatives and friends.

F. J. Steele and Miss Anna Kuhn, both of Rock Island, were married last Tuesday in Davenport. Justice Finger performed the ceremony. Mr. Steele is proprietor of the Rock Island Panatorium. The couple have gone to housekeeping at 1401 1/2 Second avenue.

Samuel A. Handley, of Bennett, Iowa, and Miss Martha Standusky, of Lowden, Iowa, and Arthur Baker, of Hannibal, Mo., and Miss Florence L. Brown, of Moline, were married by Rev. C. O. McCulloch at the parsonage of the First Methodist church Wednesday evening.

J. R. Mott, of this city, and Miss Gertrude Marie Up De Graff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Up De Graff, of Roodhouse, Ill., were married at the bride's home Wednesday evening. Mr. Mott and his bride will be at home in this city after Dec. 15 at 1007 Nineteenth street.

Andrew Dail and Miss Adelia Clauson, a Davenport couple, were married Wednesday by Judge Lucian Adams, who performed the ceremony at his office in the court house.

IOWA AN EASY WINNER.

exceeds any team I have seen play this year, in the variety of her play and in the snap with which she gets them off. Her backs are exceptionally strong and assist each other splendidly. Griffith's spectacular run was as good a bit of individual work as has been done on a western gridiron."

Six hundred people came from Iowa City. Many were also present from Peoria, Galveston and other cities. At least one person was injured in the crush of humanity at the entrance before the game began. W. H. Camper, of 749 Twenty-third street, sustaining a fracture of the right ankle. He was attended by Dr. S. C. Plummer.

A rumor that evidently started in Davenport is in circulation today that A. M. Wadsworth, Illinois' quarterback, who was injured in yesterday's game, had died. There is no doubt that Wadsworth was severely hurt, but he recovered sufficiently to be able to attend a smoker at Moline last night. He left on the midnight Rock Island train for his home in Englewood. A telephone query to Champaign this afternoon failed to confirm the news of Wadsworth.

The Illinois players were entertained at a smoker and athletic entertainment at the Moline club last night. A feature was a go between Henry Birman and Rufus Phoenix, the latter colored. Phoenix was knocked out in the first round. The Illinoisans left for home this morning.

The Iowans were entertained at the Salt club dancing party, at Library hall, Davenport.

Advantages of Location Shown.
Both teams were much gratified with the attendance, and joined in pronouncing it as fine a football audience as they had ever played before. The great success of the day in this particular demonstrated the advantage of Rock Island as a central point for attractions of this as well as other kinds, and it is not unlikely that as far as Iowa City is concerned its annual Thanksgiving game will be played in this city. Its location could not be improved upon in point of convenience to the Iowa boys and their friends, while being the center city of the three cities it draws equally from the other two, which is an important consideration, especially for a holiday afternoon event. Another thing, the people here are now becoming more familiar with the great college game and their increasing interest will therefore be more manifest each year. The result of the game ought to be particularly gratifying to the hustling and popular manager of the Iowa team, Fred McCutcheon, whose energy and good judgment brought the contest here, and whose affable disposition has won many friends here for the Iowa boys as well as for himself.

Yesterday morning the High school elevens of Iowa City and Moline High schools met at the Twelfth street park. Score: Iowa City, 16; Moline, 0.

"THE WIZARD OF CONLIN."

New Book by Thomas Edwin Smith of This City.
"The Wizard of Conlin," a political novel by Thomas Edwin Smith, a Rock Island writer, is a story of current interest in these stirring days of politics. It is, moreover, a book outside the beaten track of story-telling, and whatever its literary faults may be, it reveals a realistic picture of love and intrigue allied with political ambition.

Mr. Smith, who is also the author of "Political Truth," as will be remembered, wields a trenchant pen in the field that seems to best engage his talents as a writer. Certainly his new book, which has for its full title "The Wizard of Conlin; a Tale of an Election," shows an intimate acquaintance with the ways of the world, to say the least, and will be read and judged upon its merits as a story along original lines.

The characters in the book are strongly drawn, especially those of Richard Parks, the millionaire political boss of a western city; Albert Scott, a rising young lawyer, who though deeply in love with Margaret Parks, daughter of the millionaire, is her father's bitterest opponent and the leader of the Anti-Corporation party; and the man Vale, a subversive tool of Parks, who foully murders Editor Mason.

It will be seen that the story is not only sensational in character, but it also has directness of purpose, and holds the reader's attention to its tragic ending.

As an example of style we quote the following passages descriptive of election in the city of Conlin:

"Election day! And a perfect day at that. The sun shone with the brightness of a political ringmaster's countenance after he has succeeded in making a lot of thick-headed, hide-bound partyites believe something glaringly false and inconsistent, and which his hearers know to be so."

"The streets were lined with excited voters and heelers and cool, designing politicians."

"The party wheel-horses, who had managed to figure somehow that no election could be conducted without their aid and advice, were to be found on various street corners."

"Drunk men, gamblers, and other vicious individuals, were also greatly in evidence and in much demand, as is always the case when the people are contending for supremacy against a dangerous and oppressive faction or law, and the proverbial 'good fellow,' who is capable of polling more votes than any other one man, was to be seen at every turn."

"Then, too, numerous prominent citizens and notorious saloonkeepers were frequently to be seen conniving together, and the black man and the millionaire shook hands and exchanged pleasantries with the freedom and familiarity of life-long friends."

"As a matter of course, working-men especially were sought by the money-changers, and though election time is the only period of the year when the class and mass distinction goes unobserved—and no one knows it better than the common people—many of the poor fools prided themselves as having been exceptionally honored when they were tendered a cheap cigar, a ride to the polls, or had a piece of silver slyly slipped into their palms, accompanied by an instruction as to how they should vote."

The book has a strikingly attractive paper cover, and "The Wizard of Conlin," as a story of its kind, certainly bears the stamp of novelty, and will appeal to a large class of readers. It will be placed on sale at all newsstands within a few days, and its price is 25 cents.

DAY A PERFECT ONE.

Weather Contributes to Enjoyment of Thanksgiving in Rock Island.

AMUSEMENT FOLLOWS WORSHIP.

Services at the Various Churches Draw Large Congregations, the Offering at the Union Meeting at the Central Presbyterian Being Donated to Charity—Eloquent Sermon by Rev. C. O. McCulloch.

Rock Island people could not have asked for a more perfect Thanksgiving day. The weather, although a trifle warm during the earlier part of the day, with old Sol shining forth in all his glory, was tempting to those who are wont to remain indoors of a holiday, and the consequence was the parks and favorite walks of the city were alive with humanity throughout the day, the loveliness of which was not marred until dusk, when a drizzling rain came, and continued until late in the evening.

Religious services attracted large congregations at Trinity Episcopal, St. Joseph's, St. Mary's and Sacred Heart Catholic and Central Presbyterian churches. At the latter the evangelical denominations of the city joined in a union observance at 10:30. Rev. C. O. McCulloch, of the First Methodist, delivered the sermon. His theme was "Lower and Higher Lives of Thanksgiving."

It was an eloquent and impressive discourse. A number of ministers participated in the service. Rev. Ira W. Allen, Jr., the pastor of the church, presided and pronounced the invocation; Rev. T. W. Grafton, of Memorial Christian, led the responsive reading; Rev. George B. Simons, of the First Baptist, read the service lesson; Rev. W. S. Marquis, of Broadway Presbyterian, gave the opening prayer, and Rev. D. L. McNary, of the United Presbyterian, said the benediction. The collection amounted to $24.65 which was donated to the Associated Charities.

At the Salvation army barracks last night there was a special service conducted by Capt. J. G. McGee, in connection with which there was an unveiling of a cross and Magdalene crown. Owing to the failure of the stage fire to work properly, the entertainment was not satisfactory to Capt. McGee, and it will be repeated tonight, and will be free to those who were present last evening.

Amusements Liberally Patronized.
All amusements were well patronized, the football game, of course, being the chief attraction, while the theatre, poultry show and roller skating rink each came in for a liberal share of patronage.

Sheriff Cradle treated the county jail prisoners to a turkey dinner.

DEATH OF MRS. RUSSELL.

She Passes Away Yesterday After an Illness of One Week.

Mrs. C. A. Russell died at her home, 721 Fifteenth street, yesterday morning at 4:15 of bronchial troubles, after an illness of one week. The deceased's maiden name was Maude Barkley. She was born in Olean, N. Y., in 1875. She was married to Mr. Russell at Aberdeen, S. D., in 1893. Mrs. Russell had lived in Rock Island but two years, but had many warm friends here, all of whom will deeply mourn her untimely demise. She is survived by her husband and an infant son and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Barkley, of Olean, N. Y., and two brothers, Charles and William, of Portville, N. Y., and four sisters.
