Dislocates Shoulder.

William A. Castleton, of Evansville, Ind., a traveling salesman for the L. Wolf Manufacturing company, of Chicago, who is stopping at the Harper house, is carrying his right arm in a sling as the result of an injury received a few nights ago in a peculiar manner. Mr. Castleton and three friends were playing a social game of cards during the course of which he grew enthusiastic, and in order to emphasize the value of the cards he held swung his arm and brought the hand down on the table with such force that the shoulder was wrenched out of place. He didn't realize the seriousness of the injury until yesterday, when physicians were called to attend him.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the democratic city-township committee is hereby called at Turner hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, 1901, at 8 o'clock. The attendance of all committeemen as well as democrats generally is desired.

A Sergeant's Surprise.

"When Indians were being recruited for the regular army," said a western representative, "it was the custom to give them civilized names. Down at Fort Apache army officers were recruiting Yumas and Apaches. A recruiting sergeant was naming them. Finally a company had been formed, and the first sergeant, who was an American, went out to the front and center to report his company to the commanding officer."

"Company D, sir, four privates absent."
"Who are they?" asked the commanding officer.
"Jay Gould, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Joe Jefferson and Russell Sage, sir," shouted the sergeant.—New York World.
