OBJECT OF MEETING

Of Upper Mississippi River Improvement Association Misunderstood.

PRESIDENT LON BRYSON EXPLAINS

Purpose to Secure Adequate Depth of Channel by Government Appropriation.

Capl. Lon Bryson, president of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, which meets in Davenport next month, has issued the following letter in explanation of the scope of the forthcoming meeting:

"To the Press of the States of Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin: Some of the papers, in noting the call for the convention of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, to be held at Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 21 and 22, say it is a convention of river men, conveying the idea that only those employed in river commerce are interested in or entitled to representation in the convention.

"The sole object of this convention is the improvement of the upper Mississippi river so as to obtain a depth in the channel of five or six feet at low water stage. This can be done if a sufficient appropriation can be obtained from congress.

"Who are benefited by this result? The answer to this is plain: The man who furnishes the commerce of the river, the merchant, the manufacturer, the farmer, whose products are to be marketed and who has to purchase supplies and have them transported to his place of business.

"Another question which suggests itself is, How are those who live, not on the banks of the Mississippi, but 100 miles inland, to be benefited by the actions of the association?

"Benefit to Shipper. "Statistics of rates of transportation within this radius show that one can ship within a radius of 50 miles of the Mississippi river and 250 miles from St. Louis at the same rate freight is carried 50 miles west of Chicago. It would take too much space to give half the statistics showing the influence of the Mississippi river on the railroad rates remote from the river. To all who care to investigate the subject fully, I refer to the able report of Maj. C. McD. Townsend and the map accompanying it, embodied in the proceedings of the convention at Quincy, Ill., a copy of which can be secured at my office.

"LON BRYSON, "President."

Mrs. Charles Brindle was driving the horse, and she was thrown violently to the pavement while the buggy was dancing over the railroad tracks on First avenue. Simon Burns Reports Action of Executive Board of K. of L.

Pittsburg, Sept. 24.—Simon Burns, general master workman of the Knights of Labor, has returned from Washington, where he has been attending a meeting of the general executive board. He reports the adoption by the board of resolutions which state that the action of certain labor organizations to take up the fight of enemies of President Roosevelt because of his course in the dispute existing in the government printing office, is not in the interest of organized labor, but a political move that if carried out will disrupt or lower the organizations.

The resolutions suggest that the controversy be referred to Senator Hanna who, it is stated, is a friend to both organized labor and Roosevelt, for a decision. The resolutions say Roosevelt is the best friend organized labor ever had in the White House. Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 24.—The state convention of the League of Republican Clubs today heartily endorsed President Roosevelt's administration.
