Not pleasing to the maid;
For the picture in the mirror
Was not the maid as she was.

SKINNER SIGNS A TREATY

Which Opens Abyssinia to the Trade of the United States—Presents for Roosevelt.

Jibouti, French Somaliland, Jan. 2.—The United States expedition to Abyssinia under Consul General Skinner, of Marseilles, which arrived at Adis Ababa Dec. 21, has successfully carried out the principal features of the mission. A treaty between the United States and the empire of Ethiopia, opening for the first time friendly commercial relations, has been negotiated and signed. Emperor Menelik has also given his formal acceptance of the invitation to participate in the St. Louis exposition.

As a personal tribute from Emperor Menelik to President Roosevelt Skinner has been charged to deliver to the president two lions and a pair of elephants' tusks. Each member of the United States party has been tendered a decoration, the acceptance of which is held in abeyance, owing to the official character of the expedition. The closing audience granted by Emperor Menelik to Skinner and the leaders of the United States escort was of a particularly cordial character.

THEY DID NOT MATERIALIZE

Those Other Republican Candidates for the Governorship of the Hoosier State.

Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—Notwithstanding the outlook for other candidates for the Republican nomination for governor to announce themselves formally before the love feast was over, the event passed and there are still only two avowed candidates in the field. Neither Union B. Hunt nor William L. Penfield made the expected announcements. When the latter was questioned regarding his intentions he replied: "I am not yet ready to make any statement." He would not say, however, that he will not be a candidate.

There was talk that Warren Sayre, of Wabash, would be a candidate for the nomination, and he did not wholly deny the report. When asked about it, he replied: "Why, Mr. Shideler is the candidate from our district, and we will be for him." When it was suggested that Shideler might not be a candidate, and this would give a chance for some other Eleventh district man, he said he was not giving the matter much thought.

SAVED, PERHAPS, BY A DOG

Intelligent Animal Finds a Man Just Barely Alive in Ditch by the Roadway.

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 2.—While hauling ice in LaSalle the attention of William Reynolds was attracted by the furious barking of his dog at an object lying in the ditch beside the road. He investigated and found the body of a man apparently frozen to death. Closer observation revealed a little life left. A physician was summoned, but the man was so badly frozen that his death is momentarily expected.

The unknown man was well dressed, apparently 30 years old, but there was nothing on the body to identify him and he did not recover consciousness. His tracks apparently led from the electric road, and it is thought he got off of the electric car at night and became bewildered.

Says He Saw Gillespie.

Rising Sun, Ind., Jan. 2.—It has developed that Ed Jones, a well-known character, is, according to his own story, an important witness in the case of the assassination of Miss Elizabeth Gillespie. No one was seriously hurt, however.

schools are known to have lost their lives in the fire. The schools will be closed Monday in their memory.

Blame on Stage Carpenter.

A mass of new evidence which throws important light on the Iroquois theatre fire was obtained from the stage employees by Coroner Traeger today and will be submitted to the coroner's jury when that body meets Thursday to hear testimony. The coroner learned that Stage Carpenter Cummings is the man who superintended the fitting out of the rigging left and was responsible to the owners of the theatre for the operation of everything on the stage. If the ordinances were not complied with in regard to necessary safeguards behind the curtain, it was Cummings' duty to notify the owners and managers.

Joe Doherty, now at the hospital with a broken leg, was the man who attempted to lower the asbestos curtain. He says the reason it would not come down was because it stuck on an "spot light" in the first entrance near the top of the proscenium arch. From stage hands the coroner learned the mysterious explosion shortly after the fire was discovered was caused by the falling of a big scene containing 80 incandescent electric lights, the breaking of which produced a noise like an explosion.

The stage hands deny there was a calcium tank on the stage at the time of the fire. The coroner learned that each of 180 drop scenes was hung with new oily Manila rope. It is estimated there were 75,000 lineal feet of this inflammable material added as fuel to the flames.

CARRYING ON AN INVESTIGATION.

Theatre Employees Placed Under Arrest and Others are Watched by Detectives.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Pitiless investigation of the Iroquois fire horror divides attention with the burial of the dead. Archibald Bernard, chief electrician of the Iroquois theatre, was taken into custody by the police. After being closely questioned for two hours Bernard was formally charged with "manslaughter." Next Chief of Police O'Neill sent detectives to summon Manager Will J. Davis, of the Iroquois theatre, to police headquarters.

Davis promptly appeared at the office of the chief, accompanied by his business partner, Harry Powers. The two managers talked for some time with Chief O'Neill, who finally dismissed them, saying that he himself would be responsible for their appearance whenever they may be wanted. "I want to question him," Chief O'Neill said, when asked the reason for the summons. "I am not arresting him. If I thought that Managers Will J. Davis or Harry L. Powers would leave Chicago I would lock them up immediately. But they will remain. Both are citizens of Chicago, men of good reputation and men with business interests."

"I am only summoning Mr. Davis now to ask him about the fire in a general way, and to get his guarantee that the members of the 'Moonlight double quartet' will not leave Chicago before the inquest. Otherwise it may be necessary to take the entire company into custody." Although members of the "Blue Beard" company who had been questioned by the police were allowed to return to hotels detectives were sent also. The detectives were ordered to make headquarters at the hotels and watch the members of the company to see that none left.

CONFUSION IN DEATH LISTS

Life Persons Have Been Put Into Them by Weary Recorders.

The removal of bodies from the public morgues to private undertaking establishments developed a fresh element of uncertainty in computing totals of dead and missing. The count of actual corpses most generally agreed upon was 582, including 450 identified and 132 unidentified. The City Press association had the names of 269 identified dead. A re-examination of the list showed that numbers were included improperly. Instead of being of the dead the names of some were of those who had identified bodies.

Coroner Traeger issued an appeal to the public to notify him of all fire deaths that may have escaped the records. "It has come to my notice," said Coroner Traeger, "that bodies of some persons were removed from the temporary hospitals and relief stations directly after the fire."

In the hurry and confusion, persons who could identify remains were allowed to take them to their homes without question. I understand that this occurred in a few instances. I have also learned that some of the injured were taken to private residences and hospitals without the making of any record, and it is reported to me that some have since died. I ask that any citizen knowing of any such occurrence report the matter to my office at once."

The crowds of searchers for relatives and friends continued at the morgues. While the number of persons pressing for tidings or identification showed material diminution the anxiety and weariness was intensified. The constant presence of the black vagrants of undertakers were conspicuous additions to the many scattered neighborhoods where the morgues are located. A mournful variation was the occasional appearance of bands playing dirge as funerals slowly passed towards churches, railway stations and cemeteries.

At the coroner's office burial permits soon reached into the hundreds. Preparations were made for the issuance of all that could be asked for, as it was anticipated that today and Sunday would be particularly characterized by funerals.

HEARTY SYMPATHY COMES IN

Messages from Abroad Continue to Give Condolence with Chicago.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 2.—Governor Mickey has sent the following message of condolence, expressing the heartfelt sympathy of Nebraska to the sufferers in the Iroquois disaster, to Mayor Harrison, of Chicago: "The people of Nebraska are inexpressibly shocked at the terrible calamity which has befallen your city. I extend to you and to all the bereaved and suffering ones the heartfelt sympathy of the citizens of this state."

Festive Occasions Called Off.

The newspapers are dejected by announcements from ladies and from the secretaries of dozens of social organizations announcing the recalling of invitations for all festive gatherings which had been planned. It is almost certain that throughout the length and breadth of the city, during the remainder of this week, not a single private reception or an official function of any kind will be held.

Dances Sold by Auction.

A custom that has existed for several centuries is still maintained in some towns on the lower Rhine. Early in the year, on auction day, the town crier or clerk calls all the young people together and to the highest bidder sells the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl, and her only, during the entire year that follows. The fees flow into the public poor box.

It's Quality That Counts

In coal it's quality that makes heat, it's quality that retains it, it is quality that makes possible consumption of 90 per cent of the combustible part of it, leaving a light, clean ash; lastly, it's quality that lessens your fuel bills—you're not paying for dirt, refuse or unburnables. The coal we handle, both hard and soft, deserves all the good things we and our patrons say for it. A ton will talk as loudly as a carload.
