TO SAVE THE GIRLS

An Appeal Made to the Christian People of Rock Island

BY WOMEN OF ST. LOUIS

Where Ruin and Disgrace Await Thousands During the World's Fair.

An appeal was made today, by letter, for the cooperation of the Christian women of Rock Island in the work of the Women's Christian Association of St. Louis, designed for the protection of young women ambitious for employment in St. Louis during the world's fair.

In their appeal to Rock Island people for aid the officers of the association declare that traps leading to ruin have been set for thousands of young women from all parts of the land, promises of many kinds of honorable occupation being made by men of vile purposes.

"To in any degree meet this monster," says the letter of appeal in part, "all must unite in a general protective plan."

"You ask, how can we cooperate? one effective way is to organize a travelers' aid where there is none. First, by appointing a committee for this service in one of your local organizations to be known as 'travelers' aid committee.'"

Work for Churches.

"The other plan is to organize by selecting a woman of your place for president, who has a heart for the work and ability to lead; also a capable secretary and treasurer. Add others for your committee work who should be a safeguard for your young women. This form of work can be organized in one church or by all uniting. This appeal is made to unify the protective forces that may be promptly available."

"If any young women have been induced by a stranger to visit or seek employment in St. Louis, during the exposition, sound the note of alarm. There is danger. Let every young woman, unattended by a friend, see to it: First, that she has money enough with her for an emergency and safe return home; second, know from a reliable source her destination here is safe before she leaves home; third, depend upon herself and officials on the railroad for information concerning trains. Any added intelligence necessary you must reserve for 'travelers' aid,' referred to in following paragraph:

Watch the Trains

"One of your committee should be at the railroad station at train time. As your introduction of any young woman leaving for St. Louis, to the representative of the 'travelers' aid' here, pin a knot of blue ribbon upon her waist, left side, and instruct her to find a woman at the waiting room at union station who wears a blue badge with 'travelers' aid of the Women's Christian Association, St. Louis,' printed on it in gold letters. They are to be found at above places at the time of incoming and outgoing trains."

"The Women's Christian Association will be willing to interrogate by letter or telegram, and do all in their power to save. But, remember, the greatest success must be with you, where the numbers are so much less than in St. Louis at this time."

"Hoping this appeal may be promptly approved and this work inaugurated by which effort many may be saved from a fate worse than death, we subscribe ourselves, yours in Christian service."

"WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION."
The St. Louis headquarters of the association are at 1814 Washington avenue.

The Stage.

March 13—"The Missouri Girl."
March 14—"Erminie."
March 15—"Ghosts."

The revival of "Twelfth Night," one of the most delicious of the Shakespearean comedies, with Miss Marie Wainwright in the role of Viola, was enjoyed at the Illinois last evening, but the attendance was very small for such a deserving attraction. Miss Wainwright, who will be remembered in years gone by as one of the leading emotional actresses of the country, having appeared in support of some of the brightest lights in stardom, is surrounded by a company of unusual strength. She makes much of the character that she assumes, but by no means pretends to be the star of the performance, those sharing the honors with her being Meta Rogers as Olivia, Francis Conlan as Malvolio, J. K. Applebee as Sir Toby, Spottiswoode Atkin as Sir Andrew, Dudley Kellard as Sebastian, sister of Olivia, Arthur V. Johnson as Orsino, and Leonine Randolph as Maria. The staging was adequate, the musical accompaniment enhancing the impressiveness of the performance to a considerable degree. The play is to be presented this evening at the Burtis, in Davenport.

A dramatization of Ibsen's "Ghosts," one of the theatrical sensations of two seasons, is booked for a performance here next Tuesday evening. The company is headed by Alberta Galatin.

Next Wednesday we are to have a visit from Al G. Field's minstrels.

"The Missouri Girl," a play of "The Old Homestead" order, is the attraction for Sunday evening.

"Erminie," the comic opera that set the country laughing 17 years ago, comes Monday, and in the opera will be found Francis Wilson, the musical genius, in his old, familiar role of Caddy. The revival is by Messrs. Nixon and Zimmerman, and is the most elaborate even given this popular production. Wherever the opera has been presented it has been met by crowded houses and given an enthusiastic reception. The company includes Marguerita Sylva, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Midge Lessing, Jennie Weathersby, in her original role of the princess, William Broderick, Signor Perugini, William C. Weeden, Robert Broderick, and others whose names are familiar to the theatregoing people. With such a brilliant array of talent the old opera is bound to have a presentation that will be immensely appreciated by the people of this city and vicinity.
