

A Thief that Has never Been Punished

THOUGH OFT CONVICTED.

Is "Procrastination, the thief of time." Has he made a haul at your expense? If you know what wonderful bargain selling was going on all the time at this popular grocery, would you still put off sending in that first order? Every order placed means a saving—a saving that no economical housewife would overlook, for she knows that the Shields method of selling groceries gives her the best qualities obtainable at prices which are not found elsewhere. Price alone shouldn't be the only object when buying groceries, and it isn't with the housewife who appreciates values. This is one of the many reasons for the popularity of this fast growing store, and for the feeling of satisfaction which is universal among its patrons. If you knew the pleasure you could derive from trading there, to say nothing of the saving, you would have done so long ago. But it isn't too late. Begin now. Just a few prices:

USES A HATCHET ON HIS PARTNER

Simon Rich and A. Treloar Fight in a Meat Market.

SCALES BONE OF CONTENTION

Attacking Party Charged With Assault With Deadly Weapon, But Case is Dismissed.

Simon Rich, and A. Treloar have been in partnership in the conduct of a meat market on Fourth avenue between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets. They had a misunderstanding and decided to separate.

In the division of property Treloar claimed the counter scales. Yesterday afternoon he called at the market to carry the scales away, but met with a formidable obstacle in the form of his erstwhile business associate.

There was a wordy argument, and when Treloar discovered that he could not accomplish his mission through oral persuasion he gathered the scales in his arms and turned towards the front door.

But before he had gotten many steps Rich was on his back and brought down on his head the blunt end of a hatchet. The blow was struck just above the eye, and the optic was in mourning when Treloar appeared in police court today to prosecute his former partner for an assault with a deadly weapon.

Rich also displayed marks that he received in the combat, the men having had a desperate fight on the floor of the market. The scales were not removed from the building. When the men met at the police station this morning friends counselled peace.

Rich had engaged Attorney H. M. McCaskin to defend him, but Treloar was disposed to a spirit of forgiveness, and with his consent there was order of dismissal entered by Magistrate G. A. Johnson, Rich agreeing to defray the costs of the proceedings.

Lovers Have Fistic Encounter.

Blanche Homer and Fred Johnson are lovers. They were doing the town last night and before turning in stopped to have a hamburger at the portable lunch room on Market square. Because Blanche did not have a napkin to furnish him, or some other trivial reason that neither could explain when they were brought before the magistrate this morning, they had a dispute, and began pounding each other. At the end of the third round Detective Richard Carnes came on the scene and piloted the pair to the station. There was blood on Johnson's hands this morning, and Blanche had a swollen face, but both declared that they had not been fighting. They were simply love taps. Blanche would not say a word against Johnson, trying to persuade the magistrate that their relations were most pleasant. They were charged with disorderly conduct and each fined $10. They paid.

Hazel and Her Baby.

Hazel Stringer and May Jones got drunk last night and were giving their lodge yell on Second avenue when arrested by Detective Carnes. Hazel was fined $10 and May $5 on a disorderly charge. The magistrate made May's fine the lightest because Hazel said she was her "baby" and was blameless.

YOUNG WOMAN TRIES TO DIE VIA THE POISON ROUTE

Restaurant Employee Said to Have Been Saved by Quick Attention of Doctor—Story Denied.

A young woman employed in one of the city restaurants is reported to have attempted suicide via the poison route this morning shortly after the breakfast hour, but the quick attention of a physician with a stomach pump saved her.

Why the young woman should have desired to shake off this mortal coil was not learned; in fact, there was an emphatic denial from the proprietor of the restaurant that there had been any such tragic occurrence at his establishment.

At any rate, the girl has recovered. She was at her work as usual this afternoon.

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY.

In the first place, this remedy cuts out phlegm which may be present on the lung tissues. Then comes its healing and soothing effect. It stimulates the blood to an active circulation through the lungs, and the germs of disease are destroyed by the antiseptic properties of this scientific remedy. It enables the blood to receive and retain its natural supply of oxygen, lung food, health, strength. In any Cough, Lung or Bronchial affection no remedy is so helpful. Out of a total of over 3,000,000 bottles sold during 1903, on a positive guarantee, only five bottles were returned—making one out of every 600,000 bottles sold.
