Ceremonies of Rededication of St. Joseph's Are Conducted by Bishop Davis.

AUDIENCE FILLS STRUCTURE

Fitting Tribute Paid to Dean J. J. Quinn — Children Receive First Communion.

The rededication of the remodeled St. Joseph's church, Fourteenth street and Second avenue, yesterday marked the beginning of a new epoch in the history of the church. The impressive ceremony of dedication was conducted at 10:20 by Bishop Davis of Davenport, assisted by 29 priests of the Peoria diocese. The first service of the day was held at 8 o'clock, when Father J. H. Cannon of Urbana conducted the mass. Bishop O'Reilly of Peoria preached the sermon and administered the first communion to a class of 150 children. The children received the communion and were confirmed by the bishop. The boys all took the total abstinence pledge, to abstain from the use of intoxicants until they reach the age of 21, and the children all renewed their baptismal vows. Mrs. Reddy sang during the early service.

High Mass at 10:20. The solemn high mass, at which the peculiar ritual for the dedication was read was held at 10:20. The church was filled, and in addition to filling all of the pews, and chairs placed in the aisles and at the front of the church, the audience was packed into all the standing room available, and even crowded the entrance and vestibule. There were about 1,500 people in the church during the services.

When the service commenced the bishops and priests of the diocese marched in a procession from the rectory to the church, and into the chapel. The officers of the mass were:

Celebrant—Father William Cleary, assistant rector of St. Joseph's.
Deacon—Father J. H. Cannon of Urbana.
Sub-deacon—Father William Carroll of Marengo, Iowa.

Master of Ceremonies—Father C. O. Neill of Princeville, Ill.
Bishop Davis Declines.

During the service Bishop Davis, assisted by a number of the priests, in a procession about the church, performed the peculiar dedicatory ritual, sprinkling the walls of the structure with holy water, while the priests and choir chanted the ritual.

The sermon of the morning was delivered by Father John P. Quinn of Peoria, who took as his subject, "Results." Father Quinn used the question of Paul, when he asked whether Christ was He who was to come, and the answer the apostle received to this question, as the text of the sermon. He spoke of the significance of this answer, which called attention to the results accomplished as the best evidence of the affirmative of the question. The priest then spoke at length on the results accomplished by Christianity and by the catholic church. He referred to the great change made in the history of the countries interested by the battle of Marathon, by the defeat of the Spanish armada, by the result of Waterloo, and other great conflicts in the world's civil history. "Yet these were as nothing, compared with the effect on the world's history which was made by Christianity," he said, and he spoke of the great change in civilization which has been made. He spoke of ancient Rome, a city of a million or more people, and yet containing no charitable institution and no hospital, and compared this condition with the present time.

Attainment of Church. He spoke to some length on the attainments of the Catholic church, and of its influence toward more perfect human brotherhood and a closer Christian relation. He referred briefly to the patronage of the church to art, literature, and other elevating influences, and cited instances in support of the claim that in these branches the Catholic church has always led.

"Yet, in the face of these things," he said, "we hear people seriously questioning, as did Paul, whether Christ was what He was claimed to be. That people can refuse to accept the truth seems impossible."

St. Joseph's Church. He spoke of St. Joseph's church as it is today, as one of the results of faith and confidence in the church. He called to mind the condition of the church property a year ago, falling into ruin and wreck as it was, and contrasted that state of affairs with the present. He declared St. Joseph's church to be one of the finest church properties in the entire Peoria diocese, and on behalf of the bishop and the priests of the diocese extended to the parish, and to its rector, Dean J. J. Quinn, the most hearty congratulations.

Tribute to the Rector. "I should certainly fall signally of my duty if I did not at this time refer to the work of your faithful priest," said Father Quinn, in concluding his sermon, and he then paid a very fitting tribute to Dean J. J. Quinn, the priest who in a year's pastorate has completed the remodeling of the church property at an outlay of $42,000. He spoke of the magnitude of Dean Quinn's work, and in words of the highest praise, yet evidently of perfect sincerity, he spoke of the rector's faithfulness, of his untiring energy, and of his complete devotion to the church at large and particularly to St. Joseph's parish. He extended to the parish the congratulations of the bishop and the priests on having such a man at the head of the church.

Dean Quinn speaks. Following the sermon, Dean J. J. Quinn spoke briefly, remarking on the great pleasure of the moment. He extended to the members of the parish his sincere thanks for the assistance and cooperation given him in the work just completed, and for the confidence of the members in him. He referred to the fact that in the last six months $29,000 had been given him to apply on the cost of the improvement as an evidence of the confidence and faith of the members. The customary collection was then taken, and the members of the congregation contributed over $1,000 at this one service to further the church work.

The Y. M. C. A. rally services at the churches took place in a very enthusiastic manner and the addresses given tended to arouse an increased interest in the work. The report of the general secretary was read at each of the services by the association representative presiding. The results of the efforts of the religious work department, of the bible classes, the social work, the educational work, of the physical department, the general work and the installation of the new equipment indicated that the affairs of the local association have been taken up with renewed vigor. In concluding the report the Y. M. C. A. wish to extend thanks to all who have aided in the work during the year; to the press that has so generously given space to the work of the association.

Addresses at Churches. Previous to the morning services the speakers and a number of the association members who were to participate, met at the association rooms and decided on their plan of work. At the regular preaching hour at the various churches an enthusiastic Y. M. C. A. address was substituted in addition to the reading of the report. An appeal was made for assistance in order that the present association building can be made more convenient, such as the placing of dormitories on the third floor. The solicitation of subscriptions however, was dispensed with as will also be the case at the banquet this evening.

E. A. Halsey Speaks. At the men's meeting in the afternoon, E. A. Halsey's address on "A Life Swinging Loose," was one of the most powerful evangelistic discourses that has been given in the association chapel. L. L. McDonald gave a very interesting address at the boys' gospel meeting.

Union meetings were held at the First Methodist church, the Memorial Christian church and the Spencer Memorial church.

Business Men Banquet. This evening in the association auditorium the business men's banquet will take place. I. E. Brown, the state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, E. A. Halsey of Chicago, and H. B. Hayden, will make addresses. William M. Reek will act as toastmaster.

Burt directing the music. Mrs. Grace Mackin presided at the organ. The music was one of the charming features of the beautiful and impressive service of the solemn high mass.

Entertains the Bishops. At the conclusion of the service Dean Quinn entertained the bishops and the priests at dinner at the Harper house, and following this a brief reception was held at the hotel parlors for the visitors. In the afternoon the party repaired to Moline, where the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new St. Joseph's Belgian Catholic church were conducted by Bishop O'Reilly.

In the evening the bishops and priests were the guests of Father Kelly of St. Mary's church at dinner, the bishops being the guests of honor.

Mississippi Valley Traction Company Blamed for Operating Cars Above Speed Limit

BY A CORONER'S JURY

Inquest Over Andrew Anderson, Whose Death Follows Accident, is Held in Moline.

In its verdict as to the cause of the death of Andrew Anderson, the man who was struck by an interurban car in Moline Friday night and died at the Moline city hospital about midnight Saturday, the coroner's jury censures the Mississippi Valley Traction company for operating its car above the speed limit in Moline. Anderson was struck by a car in charge of Motor-man Victor Antimany and Conductor James Sayers, at Eighteenth street and Second avenue, about 7 o'clock in the evening. The car was running about 10 miles an hour, according to the motorman. Anderson was picked up and removed to the hospital, where it was necessary to amputate his right leg, which had either been run over by the car or broken when struck by the car.

Carriage on the Track. Just about the same time that Anderson was struck by the car, a carriage lying on the track was run over and exploded. The man was seen by the motorman, but not in time to prevent the accident. Anderson was under the influence of liquor at the time. Mr. Anderson was a carpenter by trade, but had been employed for some time at Deere & Co's factory.
